Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Dec. 30.—During the years we have often remarked about the writings of Medfordites and ex-Medfordites, and wondered if there might not be something in the local soil or atmosphere, or even the climate, conducive to literary expression, of some merit.

Interest in the subject has been greatly stimulated the last few days by our perusal of two books.—Christmas presents.—one entitled "What Cheer," an anthology of American and British humorous and witty verse; the other a smaller book called "With Love Jane,"—a collection of letters from American women on the war fronts in Europe.

The first has been the work of David McCord, who as a boy lived with his parents on their ranch in the Foothills district, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCord, very charming and intelligent people. Mrs. McCord still living with her son in Boston, Mass. Not only did David McCord edit and collect the verse, but he is a contributor to it, has been a frequent contributor to the "New Yorker," is the author of several books both verse and prose, and is at present also the editor of the Harvard Alumni Weekly (and a very competent one.) The book is really a delight. The selections have been made with rare discrimination and taste, one is therefore not surprised to learn "What Cheer" has been an outstanding financial success,—a copy SHOULD be in every library, city and home for enjoyment and REFERENCE.

Here is one of the limericks which struck the fancy of the undersigned:

An epicure dining at Crewe, Found quite a large mouse in his stew, Said the waiter, "Don't shout And wave it about, Or the rest will be wanting one too!"

Also: There was an old man of Tarantum, Who gnashed his false teeth till he bent 'em, When they asked him the cost, Of what he had lost, He replied, "I can't say, for I rent 'em."

However, don't judge the opus by these jingle trivalities, there are many of far higher quality, but these two happen to be more in harmony with "Ye Editor's" sense of (low grade) humor, at the moment.

Medford's contributor to "With Love Jane" is Mary Louise Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, now of Winchester, Mass., but during World War I and a few years thereafter, residents of Siskiyou Heights, Mr. Carpenter at one time being a law partner with the late U. S. Senator Evan Reames and co-owner with his brothers, Leonard and Alfred in Veritas Orchards.

Miss Carpenter was a nurse with British and American forces for four years, accompanied the American invasion troops in Normandy, served during the "battle of the bulge" and to the end of the war in Germany. Her letters to family and friends, were not intended for publication, but she consented to have a few of them included in this symposium, the following extracts we believe will show their unusually interesting and illuminating character.

Here is the young lady's comment on national sovereignty for example, a question that promises to be of supreme importance in the next few years particularly in the direction of solving the problem of the atom bomb; for of course the bomb destroyed national sovereignty along with many other things,—at least the traditional idea of national sovereignty,—although very few people realize it.

Here is what she says after many days and night tending the wounded American doughboys:

"I still think that if every American citizen could come through the wards of a front-line hospital, he'd go home and think with more persistent determination and realism about keeping the world from another war and not bother too much about our damn sovereignty. The average citizen would still have to be made to realize, however, that the other nations are real and exist and have to be treated as groups of people with the same rights and wants as Americans and there is no wanting to protect ourselves first, at the expense of others. . . . It will be hard for Americans to realize this for there is always a tendency to think that whatever small group one belongs to, is superior and owes its members every thing and other groups nothing. You get this even in our small hospital where each platoon puts its loyalty to itself ahead of its loyalty to the war effort,—except among the nurses, who thank God, have kept their perspective and realize fully they are interlocking together for the soldiers and have absolutely no interplatoon pride or jealousy."

And again referring to the same subject: "Back at the Massachusetts General one had just as seriously ill patients but by and large they were oldish or chronically, poorly constituted. I can't get used to the way here strong, healthy young men in the course of two days or so, turn into these old spectres. They're so good these boys; they bear so much pain and misery without a murmur, they just seem to accept it as a part of military life, like sleeping in pup-tents and eating K-rations. . . . But when Roosevelt talks about being unwilling to sacrifice any of United States' integrity in a World Police Force, and other peace-maintaining institutions (according to Time of June 12th) I want to tell him to look at these injured boys—and the dead ones,—and see how much actual integrity the U. S. is losing right now and stop worrying about our theoretical integrity!"

A great deal of true understanding and wisdom in that! And here is a pretty penetrating "aside": "I somehow feel a little disgusted with the French and Belgians and don't wonder that they lost the war so fast. . . . I don't know what the answer is—but sometimes I feel that it is inevitable that Communism comes and that maybe the sooner the better so it can be lived through and done with and society evolve to another phase."

There is more,—much more—and all worth reading. Well, anyway,—

Here are two young people who spent their impressionable youths in the Rogue River Valley and then went East. Perhaps those years in Medford had nothing to do with it—with their unquestioned literary gifts we mean, but then again,—who knows?—perhaps they had!—R.W.R.

Young men dancing and the old sporting I with joy behold; But an old man gay and free Dancing most I love to see. Age and youth alike he shares For his heart belies his hairs. —Stanley.

(Long Beach, Calif., has the highest percentage of elderly dancers. Practically every grandpa in that city is adept at the rumba, samba and conga. Chicago is second in this respect. The climate probably accounts for it in Long Beach but what causes Chicagoans to keep on tripping the light fantastic when past 70 has not been definitely ascertained.)

Your body knows exactly how much sleep you need. When you wake up, get up. That's what an eminent physician states. That's one fellow whose advice I am going to ignore. I wake up every morning at 6:30. But I don't get up until 8:30. Anyway, what would I do with myself if I got up at 6:30? Besides if I made a practice of that the first thing I know I would be doing setting up exercises. I believe it was George Ade who said:

Early to bed, Early to rise, And you'll never meet Any of the regular guys.

"It has been said whether a woman is tall or short has no relation to what kind of wife she will make," writes a Boston husband. "Such a statement is evidence of ignorance born of inexperience. I am certain your Horses & Women experts know better than that. The handling of a wife who is short is extremely difficult. Ninety per cent of men who have small sized wives are henpecked and dominated by their spouses. Pe-title women are shrewd and crafty. They are adept at the clinging vine technique. They cuddle, snuggle and purr thus arousing a man's protective instincts. They turn on the tears and look so little and pathetic the poor sap of a husband softens and gives in when he should be firm. The bigger the man the easier it is for a small woman to manage him. These pocket-sized females should be called "cute little tricksters." I know; I was married to one for seven years."

Have you ever thought of producing honey for money? If you do, be certain that in front of your hives you have a landing space at least six yards long. Bees bringing in honey are very heavy and if they don't have room enough are likely to crash land. That's what a bee expert says. Most interesting to see the bees coasting in with a load of honey. Wonder if the aviation experts ever studied flying bees. No doubt they did. I know a couple of naval aviators who spent hours studying the way flies landed on ceilings.

Success Story "Make your wife partner." That's what I suggested to veterans contemplating going into business for themselves. Maybe I had something there. Have just heard of a man who in 1942 opened a small restaurant in Hollywood. He made his wife his partner. He also took his three children in on the deal. The man did the buying, the wife did the cooking, two daughters acted as waitresses and the 11-year-old son washed dishes. In three years the restaurant has been enlarged three times. It now has a staff of 22 employees. The venture has been so profitable the family recently purchased a highway inn and restaurant in northern California which it will run in addition to the place in Hollywood. Shows you what can be done by a family working together.

Passing By Greta Garbo. Ex-film star. Greta was born under the sign of virgin. The stargazers say those born under this sign are likely to present a "frigid exterior" and be "standoffish." Looks as if they may have something there.

COMMUNICATIONS

Letters to the Editor must bear the name and address of the writer although the use of a pen name of initials for publication is permitted. The Mail Tribune reserves the right to edit all letters with a view to clarity and condensation.

Planned Security To the editor: Tuesday I heard a U. S. congressman over radio declare that there was and is plenty of sugar in Cuba, that it is false to say that ships were not available to transport sugar from Cuba to the United States. Also, he made the statement that vast quantities of eggs stored by the government had spoiled and were sold to fertilizer companies at $30 per carload.

That a governmental movement was on foot to decrease egg production in our country by decreasing or diminishing the supply of poultry food to producers and thus curtail, limit egg production—in fact tend to cripple the American system of Free Enterprise.

Also he reminded listeners of the time when the government ordered the slaughtering of little pigs and the plowing under of cotton and other crops for the purpose of creating scarcity.

Thanks Received To the editor: This is to inform you that Townsend club No. 1 of Medford wishes to extend to you thanks for the nice way in which you have handled our announcements in your paper in this past year.

With the best wishes for a new year, Townsend Club No. 1 Fred D. Adams, Sec'y

Outpost Unique To the editor: I am expressing my appreciation, as well as that of the many officers who feel equally grateful, for the hospitality shown by the people of this community in their operation of the Outpost Officers' Club. It is certainly a place where every officer feels welcome—comparable to the U.S.O. for enlisted men.

It is unique in that it is supported by the citizens of the city. This is the 13th camp in the U. S. at which I have been stationed, and the first officers' club that's not run on a commercial basis.

I am sure any officer who has been stationed at Camp White will always remember the Outpost Officers' Club and the people of Medford.

E. L. Lammers, 1st Lt. C.E. Camp White, Ore.

WIVES MAY JOIN MEN IN GERMANY

Frankfurt, Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—Officers and upper-grade sergeants of the American occupation force will be joined in Germany by their wives and families starting about April 1 if the war department approves a plan now in its hands, it was learned today.

A detailed plan for the transfer of 90,000 women and children from the United States to military posts in Germany has been approved by the European theater headquarters and submitted to Washington.

Occupation force soldiers eligible to have their families with them in Germany include all officers and non-commissioned officers with the rating of staff sergeant or higher. This rule complies with standard procedure governing military posts.

Each military post will have 3,000 inhabitants, under the USEF plan. The greatest problems will be school facilities and medical care, a survey showed.

Las Vegas Claims Most Air Mail Use Per Capita in U. S. Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—Las Vegas today laid claim to being the most air trafficked city of its size in the world and the highest per capita user of air mail in the nation.

Postmaster F. F. Garside said approximately 5000 pounds of air mail per month was sent out of Las Vegas during 1945, constituting 35 per cent of all Las Vegas mail.

According to officials of the Medford postoffice, 5,301 pounds of air mail were sent from this city last month. Due to poor flying conditions approximately 50 per cent of the flights were missed, cutting considerably the amount of mail going out by air, it was said.

December was an unusually light month, officials stated, and with good flying weather the office should have sent out almost twice as much air mail.

Red Soldiers Held In Yank's Slaying Berlin, Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—Two Russian soldiers were under military arrest today for the New Year's eve killing of an American serviceman in a Berlin cafe. American authorities said the two accused killers were being held for trial by Russian military police.

The soldier, whose name was withheld pending notification of his family, was shot through the head as he sat with a German girl in the Piccadilly cabaret, shortly before midnight New Year's eve.

KILLED IN ACTION TO BE LISTED ON V.F.W. HALL PANEL

To carry out the Veterans of Foreign Wars' slogan, "Let us honor the dead by helping the living," the names of all Jackson county men killed in action during the recent war will be placed on a panel in the hall which Crater Lake Post No. 1833 is now planning according to reports following the meeting of the post last night.

"The slogan was adopted by the first Veterans of Foreign War post at Denver, Colo., and was adopted again by Crater Lake Post at their meeting last night at the armory," a post spokesman said this morning. "The new hall purchased by the post will be dedicated as a memorial to all veterans who lost their lives in this war who we might live. The names of all men killed in action will be placed on a panel that in future years all can see and remember."

County families having relatives killed in action during the war are asked to submit their names to Louis Erbes, 825 West Fourteenth street.

"Lost Week-End" Best 1945 Film Critics Declare

New York, Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—New York film critics named Paramount's "The Lost Week-end" as the best motion picture of 1945 today and selected its star, Ray Milland, as the best actor on the basis of his performance in the adaptation of the Charles R. Jackson novel.

Billy Wilder received the best-director award for his direction of "The Lost Week-end."

The critics voted Ingrid Bergman the year's best actress for her performance in "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Spell Bound."

Special awards went to "The True Glory" and "The Fighting Lady" as the best factual films. The winners will receive scrolls at the critics' 10th annual awards party Jan. 20, and the ceremony will be broadcast over an American broadcasting company network.

Burning Gum Blocks Hudson River Tube

New York, Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—A trailer-truck, carrying a shipment of chewing gum and shoe polish, turned over and caught fire last night in the westbound tube of the Holland tunnel, which carries traffic between New York City and New Jersey under the Hudson river.

The truck's two 35-gallon gasoline tanks exploded and blazed. The chewing gum and shoe polish melted and spread a tar-like mixture over the roadway, filling the tunnel with a curious aroma.

The resultant traffic tie-up lasted nearly four hours.

Past Commander Of G.A.R. Passes

Los Angeles, Jan. 3.—(U.P.)—Funeral services will be held Friday for Col. Russell C. Martin, 97, past commander-in-chief of the grand army of the republic.

Martin, who served under Generals Grant, Sherman and Custer, died Saturday at a Los Angeles rest home.

A native of Randolph, Vt., he served for 40 years as an engineer on the Southern Pacific railroad.
