BRITISH BRIDES OFF FOR AMERICA

Southampton, Jan. 26—U.P.—There were songs and a few tears as the massive, grey-coated "nursery ship" Argentina turned her bow toward the United States today.

Less than 100 persons stood in a drizzling rain to witness the dramatic departure of 626 British brides and children of American servicemen.

Singing "Anchors Aweigh" and "There'll Always Be An England," the women lined the upper deck rails to take a final look at their native shore. As the Argentina pulled away from the dock, some raised handkerchiefs to their eyes. Shouts of "We won't forget, England," reached the shore.

The Indiana department of conservation has already issued more than 55,000 free veterans' hunting and fishing licenses.
