

OREGON PRODUCTS PROMOTION PLAN GIVEN BY CRAUSE

Medford Plant Owner Urges Central Display of Articles and Raw Material.

A proposal to further manufacturing in Oregon and to encourage manufacturing interests has been made to Governor Earl Snell by W. B. Crause of Medford, manager and owner of the Alway company on Elm street. The plan, which proposes an organization for promotion exhibits of raw, manufactured and partially manufactured products of the state, was conceived by Crause during the war years when he made many trips east in interest of government contracts carried out by his company. It was noted by the contractor that there was little knowledge in that section of the United States concerning Oregon's resources. Name for the institution, suggested by Crause, is Oregon National Exhibit of Materials and Manufacturers.

At Capital Crause proposes that the exhibit be set up at the state capital, be national in character and open to the public. His suggestion is that representative buyers from eastern firms, interested in Oregon products, might study exhibits in the institution with a great saving of time and the assurance of a complete showing of local products.

According to the proposal, membership in the institution would be $100 for a five-year period and could be renewed. Members, made up of every manufacturer and supplier of raw, manufactured and partially manufactured material in the state would be able to buy exhibition space at 25 cents per cubic foot per year, and would be eligible to one vote in election of officers for the general management.

Backing would be by the legislature with necessary money to build and promote the display being subscribed by the public. All exhibitors would have their exhibits passed upon by a special committee and every manufacturer would have the privilege of making demonstration of his wares within the demonstration room, rental to be fixed by the board of directors who would determine if the demonstration was of sufficient character to be of interest to the public. National advertising would be carried on through various chambers of commerce committees.
