HEN'S DIET VARIED
Wadley, Ala. (U.P.)—An ostrich or a goat would have nothing on Mrs. J. D. Lane's hen. When she killed the hen, she opened the fizzard and found: two rivets, five dime-sized overall buttons, an empty rifle cartridge, a carpet tack, an auto tube valve cap, a medicine tube cap and a dime.

New York City's Bronx zoo operates the biggest earthworm-breeding farm in the world. The zoo's two duck-billed platypuses are the reason. These small aquatic mammals demand 25, 000 big earthworms in their diet each month, along with an assortment of night crawlers.

For 20 years previous to 1944, damage caused by insects and diseases to California's forest was greater than that caused by fire.
