

.... AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood, Jan. 20—(U.P.)—Ramon Navarro, the passionate lover who used to make mom feel like a kid again, said today: "Hollywood's current 'great lovers' are all a bunch of bullies."

"Vulgar bullies," he slurred in the soft latin accent that had ladies cooing on two continents in the 1920's.

"In my day we put a woman on a pedestal," Navarro said. "We caressed her ardently but tenderly. And when we did get passionate, we did it reverently."

"Nowadays, bah! They grab the leading lady, slap her in the face, kick her, pull her hair, and then growl: 'How about it, keed?'"

The whole prospect horrified the man who did his great loving opposite stars like Greta Garbo, Lupe Velez, May McEvoy, and Alice Terry. In those days, he said, he didn't dream of getting so familiar with the ladies.

"If we had a sexy scene it was always with the siren in the movie," he grinned. "And then, if I do say so myself, we had our moments. There was no Johnston office then. We could kiss her as long as we liked."

Didn't Like It

In fact, said this ex-great-lover, he kissed 'em so long and so often that after a while he didn't "like" it any more.

He is now starting a new career as a character actor. And he's doing it on one condition: That he never, so long as he lives, has to kiss a beautiful lady again.

This is bound to come as a great shock to a lot of mamas. In the days of the torrid silents, Navarro was their matinee idol, the gay caballero.

Cold Weather Not To Kill Forest Budworm

Portland, Ore., Jan. 20—(U.P.)—A timber authority today dashed any hope lumbermen may have had that the cold weather would kill the budworm which has infested 2,000,000 acres of trees in the Pacific northwest.

Ernest L. Kolbe, chief forester of the Western Pine association, said the insect horde is "just about frost-proof."

"When it comes to cold, the budworms can sure take it," Kolbe said. "In Quebec and Maine they have weathered 40 below zero many times. In eastern Oregon last winter temperatures dropped to 30 below without decimating the budworms. Chances are they could get along fine at the north pole if they only had some of our nice, juicy needles to eat."

News of 4-H CLUBS

A new 4-H club has been organized in the Howard district. On January 7 five girls and their mothers met at the home of Mrs. William Foley and with the help of Miss Wintermute formed a sewing club with the following officers: President, Glenda Martin; vice president, Fanny Barnes; secretary, Kay Holmes; reporter, Lois Black.

Next meeting will be on Saturday, January 21, at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Kay Holmes.

Lois Black, reporter.

Shaker Heights, Ohio, a model community of well-to-do families and wealthy apartment houses, got its name from the religious sect of Shakers—a frugal group—who first settled there.
