Candidates End Campaign To Fill Rep. Thomas' Seat

Hackensack, N. J., Jan. 23—(U.P.)—Republican and democratic candidates wound up their campaigns today for tomorrow's special election to fill the seat of former Rep. J. Parnell Thomas.

Thomas resigned January 3, just before his imprisonment for accepting salary kickbacks from congressional employees.

On the republican slate, State Labor Commissioner Harry C. Harper, a former ball player, had the support of the regular GOP organization. His opponents included George V. McDavitt of Karsville, N. J., and William B. Windall, Saddle River, N. J. District Normally GOP.

McDavitt once was chief investigator for the house committee on un-American activities and served under Thomas, while Windall, an attorney, entered politics during the Wendell Wilkie campaign.

Thomas' Seventh congressional district normally is republican. In 1948, Thomas whipped his democratic opponent by a vote of 27,950 to 22,493.

Harper is expected to have the support of many baseball fans. He was a popular pitcher in the early 1920s, having hurled for the Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees.

Former Mayors Running

Running in the democratic primary are two former mayors of East Paterson, N. J.—George T. English and Arthur C. Hillman. English bucked the Frank Hague organization while in office. Hillman is a vegetable farm operator, who was mayor for 10 years.

Thomas, who was sentenced to a term of 6 to 18 months in the federal house of correction at Danbury, Conn., had another year of his congressional term to serve when he resigned.
