Posing as canasta experts, a clever group of criminals make use of their knowledge of the sensational popular new Argentine card game to case solid suburban homes across the nation for their depredations. How

David Harding follows the cards as they fall, including the red three, and eventually wins the game in a lonely Montana hide-out will be related on the ABC broadcast of "The Case of the Canasta Killers" on "Counter-spy" tonight at 7 o'clock over Station KYJC.

As he was dressing for a big testimonial dinner to mark his retirement from the police force, Captain Wylie's phone rang and a man's voice warned him about talking too much. Wylie disregarded the warning and when the toastmaster called on him for a speech, he rose and announced that he intended to let his friends know about a particularly unsavory bit of crime. A moment later an electric light fuse blew and in the darkness a shot was fired. It hit the captain and narrowly missed his heart. How the criminal was discovered and taken into custody will be told on the Friday broadcast of "Hannibal Cobb" at 8:30 p. m., over Station KYJC. Santos Ortega plays the part of "Hannibal Cobb."

Your Health and Its Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Readers should address inquiries to: Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Despite the common idea "heart failure" is not a calamity out of a clear sky. If the term means anything at all to the physician it means gradual decline in the efficiency of the heart muscle. This is a process of years and in the first few years its only manifestations are general, not the signs or symptoms the almanac or testimonial reader would ascribe to heart trouble. Indeed in most instances of heart failure the affected individuals conduct extensive researches in diet, rest, vacations, health resorts, tonics, sedatives, alcohol and complete relaxation for a year or two before they consult a physician at all.

Prevention of heart failure is therefore like prevention of premature senility: if it is to be at all effective it must be applied before the process has advanced too far.

PREVENTION OF HEART FAILURE

But then, I am afraid some of you wisecracks will notice, I'm always crediting something or other to nutritional deficiency. As a matter of fact a good many common complaints, minor ailments which seldom come under the doctor's care, are manifestations of nutritional deficiency, in my opinion, and not, as most people and many physicians seem to think, such vague, hypothetical affections as "nervous weakness," "rheumatism," "mucous colitis" or that type of "indigestion." Mind, now, stupid, I do not believe correction of nutritional deficiencies is the secret of successful treatment of all common ailments.

Inadequate daily intake of the three vitamins and three minerals (thiamine, riboflavin, D, Ca, P and I) referred to, continuously through the years, is a contributing cause, in my opinion, of slow heart muscle failure, premature CVD (heart and artery degeneration), premature old age and other impairments that develop sooner or later in the human machine. A contributing cause, I say, not the only cause.

But all this is likely to go in one ear and out the other, unless I suggest or imply that ten "doses" or ten days "treatment" will restore vire and youth to any old geezer who can be persuaded to "try" it. Before you start messing around with the three vitamins and three minerals I warn you that they are not medicinal but merely nutritional elements; they will not cure anything; and they must be taken every day from now on, as a supplement to the everyday diet, if you hope to derive any benefit from them.
