

Professor of Botany Addresses Gardeners Thursday Afternoon

A large number of Medford Garden club members assembled at the YMCA Thursday afternoon for the February meeting, addressed by Dr. W. W. Wells, professor of botany at Southern Oregon college.

In his topic, "China, Mother of Gardens," he gave a vivid word picture of ancient gardens, describing their balance, rhythm and symbolism. The speaker also recalled many plants and shrubs which originated in China and are now commonly known in this country.

The horticultural lesson was given by Miss Claire Hanley who spoke on begonias. Miss Hanley, a grower of begonias, gave a clear and concise description of begonia culture. Mrs. R. T. Nichol spoke on local winter birds.

Mrs. Raymond Reter was tea chairman assisted by Mrs. Nichol and Mrs. Henderson. Guests were Mrs. E. Pringle, Mrs. O. V. Hayes, Mrs. LeRoy Cline, Mrs. Lynn Cram, Mrs. Eugene Barham, Mrs. S. T. Richardson and Mrs. Grant Todd, all of Medford. Mrs. Henderson was from Lake Grove, Oregon.

Traveler Leaving For Central America

Central Point — Mrs. E. E. Scott, Central Point, is leaving this evening for Los Angeles, the first stop-over on an extended trip which will take her to Fort Clayton, C. Z. In Culver City, Cal., she will visit Mrs. Maude Boswell who formerly lived in Central Point.

From Los Angeles, Mrs. Scott will fly by Pan-American World airways making a short stop-over in Mexico City, Mexico. From there she will fly to Guatemala, making a tour of the high lakes including Lake Atitlan. Mrs. Scott will also view the ruins of Antigua and the ancient city, Chichicastenango, where Mayan Indians still carry out ancient religious rituals.

After spending five days in Guatemala, she will fly to Balboa, C. Z. and from there will go to Fort Clayton for an extended visit with a son-in-law and daughter, Chaplain and Mrs. L. L. McCue and their daughter Patricia. Mrs. Scott expects a return with them two or three months.

Another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Swain, have recently made Medford their home after spending several years in Central America. They are now operating the Holiday Inn on North Riverside avenue.

Degree Team Captain Gives Evening Party For Members of Staff

Mrs. Merle Ivie, captain of Olive Rebekah lodge degree staff, entertained members of the staff at the IOOF hall Monday. During January the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs degree teams conducted five double installation ceremonies for valley lodges.

The unique decorations, made by Mrs. Ivie, were in the nature of a miniature drill scene, with small figurines of each member of the team, in the final formation. The scene was completed by the figures of the degree captain, dressed in black and leading the team and the figure of the musician seated at the piano.

Other decorations were in the valentine's theme.

Mrs. Ivie was assisted by Mrs. Harold Toile, Mrs. Donald Ivie and Mrs. Shirrell Doty during the entertainment hour, and Mrs. Clayton Jacobsen assisted in serving refreshments.

Songs and games were the diversion of the evening, and a gift was presented the captain from staff members.

Couples' Night

Couples' night will be observed by Reames chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at the meeting Thursday, February 9 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Frank Fawcett and Mrs. Lester Gilman are the committee on arrangements.

Mrs. Hans Edwardsen will give the topic, and all members are asked to bring an article for the layette project.

Wednesday Study Club Hears Book Reviews

Wednesday Study club members heard two book reviews at their Wednesday meeting at which Mrs. F. J. Newman presided.

Mrs. Frances H. Cochran reviewed "The Rock Cried Out," written by Edward Stanley who was in early life a newspaper reporter and later editor of Esquire and Coronet. Mrs. Cochran acquainted her audience with the early history of the Blennerhassett family, particularly Harmon and his life, much of it spent in the Ohio valley. The book is a story of Revolutionary days and contacts with Aaron Burr and other historical characters.

In the beginning of Mrs. M. M. Morris' review on "Beulah Land," she stated that the book did not in any way live up to its title. She explained it as a rather sordid story written by Harold Davis, an Oregon author now living in California. The story concerns a white man and his Indian mate who emigrated in the year 1851 from North Carolina to the then Indian territory of Oregon.
