CO-EDS PUT IN PLACE
Cambridge, Mass. (U.P.)—Radcliffe co-eds aren't women to the Harvard Crimson's editor, John Simon. Unfazed by a Harvard rule against women membership in undergraduate organizations, and needing women staffers to help cover sister college Radcliffe, he found a way out. He said the co-eds "wouldn't be members of the organization, but merely pieces of machinery, like news tickers or advertising agencies."

"...and I've lined up three good dealers"

It's good business to do business over Long Distance lines...to keep in touch with the home office, order supplies, close sales, talk to salesmen and customers...to express exactly what you mean through the personality of your own voice.

And you'll get the most out of fast, personal Long Distance service when you remember these two tips:

First—organize your call...plan what you'll say in advance...keep notes while you're talking. That's how you can say as much in three minutes as in an average letter—and get your answer right away.

Second—keep a list of the out-of-town numbers you call...and you'll speed service even more. For if you can tell the operator the telephone number you want—not just the name and address—your call often will be completed within 30 seconds.

You can call anywhere in the country for $250 or less

To help him earn a good living...

A Standard Oiler works with $41,073 worth of tools

It has long been known that the better a man's tools, the more he can produce and earn.

The farmer with one plow and a horse cannot produce anywhere near as much as today's farmer with a gang plow and a tractor. And today's oilman is a far more efficient producer of good products than ever in history...because he is backed by a tremendous investment in tools.

Every one of the 29,970 employees of Standard of California and our subsidiary companies has behind him $41,073 worth of equipment. With it, he produces more and earns more than ever before—his average income last year was $4083.81 in wages.

It is our responsibility to keep his "kit of tools" in excellent shape and provide more if he needs them. To that end, $450,000,000 has been invested in new plants and facilities since the close of the war.
