

One of the groups which will sing during the annual choral concert of Medford senior high school students Friday evening, March 10 will be the girls' chorus. The chorus this year is made up of 95 singers, largest girls' chorus in the history of the high school. Many members also sang with the group last year when they entered the annual southern Oregon music festival, the only girls' chorus which sang at the event. Under the direction of Miss Lorraine Veidt the girls will sing Mozart's "Alleluia," and the more familiar "Lisa" and "May Day Carol." Friday night's program will be at the senior high school auditorium at 8 p.m.
