9 Teachers Not To Return Next School Year Here

Eight teachers in the Medford public schools informed the school board at a special meeting this week that they did not desire to return to their posts next year. A ninth instructor was granted retirement.

Those saying that they did not wish to come back were Miss Mabel Nansen, vocal music supervisor; Miss Lorraine Veldt, senior high school music instructor; Miss Leslie Palfrey, junior high school teacher; Mrs. Ruth Meniketti, Jackson school; Miss Norma Ebnother, Lincoln school; and Miss Norma Elder, Miss Ruth Jablonski and Mrs. Roberta Williams, all of Roosevelt school. H. F. Cope, senior high school teacher, will retire.

The board announced the re-election of 45 instructors in the senior high school, 39 in the junior high school, 17 at Jackson school, 14 at Roosevelt, 11 at Lincoln and 23 at Washington. There was no increase in salary levels.

According to figures submitted by Superintendent E. H. Hedrick, the elementary school this year showed 10.7 per cent enrollment gain over last year and only two to three per cent in the junior and senior high schools. He predicted an elementary increase of six per cent and estimated that four additional teachers will be needed.

The list of teachers reelected will be published Sunday.

Injuries Avoided By Quick Thinking

Quick thinking by Ira D. Canfield, route 1, box 439, is credited with saving him and three passengers from injury about 11:40 p.m. yesterday when the sedan Canfield was driving was struck at the 11th street railroad crossing by box cars making a "flying" switch.

Canfield reported that he was proceeding east on 11th when he saw the headlight of a north-bound locomotive. The warning signal was not operating, he stated. Canfield said he stopped his car, but he and his passengers said he started across the tracks when he interpreted a lantern swung by a Southern Pacific employee as a signal to proceed.

He got bare on the track when the string of box cars loomed up from the south. Canfield reported that he turned sharply to the north and that the auto was hit just back of the headlights on the right-hand side. The auto was shoved off the pavement. Rails prevented the car from getting further away from the box cars which kept "clipping" the sedan.

The entire right side of the auto was smashed, according to Canfield, but he and his passengers, Mrs. Canfield, Mrs. George Carter and Mrs. Goldie Brooks, were not hurt.

The Canfields have the Aloha ranch at the corner of Coleman creek and Ft. Baker roads.
