News Notes From Medford Hi

By Robene Starcher High School Correspondent Emory Nelson, national world service director for the YMCA, was guest speaker at a special assembly held March 8 in the auditorium. His topic was "Boy Dances Girl."

Each person has, he said, three important decisions to make in life. The first is "what will I do with God?" the second, "what will be my life work?" and the third, "who will be my life companion?" He developed the third decision, saying that with our present attitude toward choosing a mate, a happy marriage is almost impossible.

Nelson stressed the importance of high school dating, emphasizing the fact that many people marry the same type of person they dated in high school. In dating, he said, we choose our partners on a superficial basis, and don't look for important characteristics. This method of choosing a mate often continues after high school, and many people don't discover their mistake until after marriage, he said.

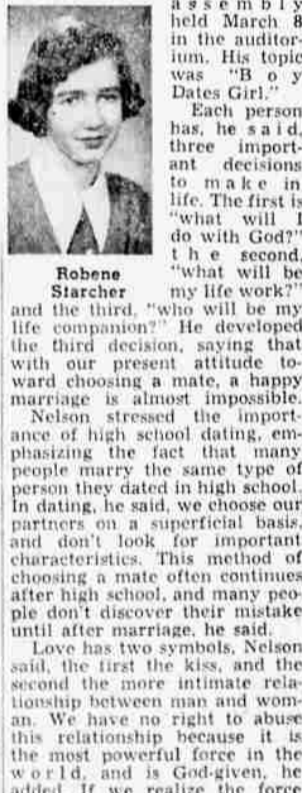

Love has two symbols, Nelson said, the first the kiss, and the second the more intimate relationship between man and woman. We have no right to abuse this relationship because it is the most powerful force in the world, and is God-given, he added. If we realize the force of this power, he stated, the fact
