Roosevelt Association Marks Founders' Day; Panel Discussion Held

Founders' day was observed at the last meeting of Roosevelt Parent-Teachers association, held at the school. Mrs. John Danforth, president of the association, gave a brief summary of Roosevelt PTA activities and presented Mrs. L. L. Sanders, Mrs. Orrin Brown, Mrs. J. W. Barnard, Mrs. John Carter and Mrs. W. A. Arnold, past presidents, with corsages.

Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, legislative chairman, explained the state referendum on the basic school support law which will be on the November ballot and the association voted to contribute $15 towards an advertising campaign supporting the referendum.

Dr. J. D. McAuley presented six students from Southern Oregon college in a panel discussion on the advantages and disadvantages of "ability grouping" of pupils in the primary and intermediate grades. Participating were Miss Marjorie Flinnau, Mrs. Beulah Jensen, Virgil Wolfe, John Smith, Jerry Edwards and Gene Farthing.

It was brought out that while the average teacher may teach more effectively in a school where the grouping system is used, the plan is considered undemocratic, puts pupils in labeled groups and provides less incentive to do better work.

A silver tea followed the meeting. Mothers of pupils in the second grade were hostesses with a committee composed of Mrs. M. L. Tedrow, Mrs. Vincent Bevis, Mrs. Elliott Becken, Mrs. O. H. Bengtson and Mrs. H. F. Morris in charge.

Auxiliary Officers Home After Stay In Portland; Visit Hospital And Units

Mrs. James R. Lillie, department commander for Oregon of Disabled American Veterans auxiliary, and Mrs. Ivan S. Hatfield, department adjutant, returned home recently after attending a state executive committee meeting in Portland and visiting a number of auxiliaries.

The committee meeting was attended by 30 department officers and committee women, and later the group was taken on a tour of the veterans administration hospital in Sam Jackson park. Conducting the tour were Dr. Paul I. Carter, manager of the hospital; Dorr Quayle, DAV department commander and Robert Ostrom, department hospital chairman.

It was reported that Mrs. Eula Hilbertson, department hospital chairman for the auxiliary, and Mrs. Anna Barnes, department chaplain, have made 40 trips to the hospital since their appointments and have contacted 1624 patients. The visits were continued even during the severe weather of last winter, it was said.

While away the two Medford women visited Portland Unit No. 1, the Oregon City and Forest Grove units, and en route home the Eugene unit. The Eugene meeting was held in the new Veterans Memorial hall, described as a fine building with a large auditorium, banquet room and many facilities for ac-

Jacksonville Scenes By Gold Hill Artist Displayed In Store

Taking advantage of the warm sun several days ago Fritz Wertz, Gold Hill artist, did some sketching in historic Jacksonville.

Thoughts of painting the old Lyden house, landmark building on the corner of California and Oregon streets in Jacksonville, had been tempting Mr. Wertz for some time. However, summertimes are not good for sketching the house, since much of the antiquity and beauty of the old building are hidden when the big maple in front is leaved out, and winter weather, when fingers are stiff from cold, isn't conducive to sketching, either.

But a bright spring day is just right, so artist Wertz lost no time in writing out his pad and pencil. With an artist's eye for that "extra touch," he added an old "codger" with a cane, and a dog. So realistic was it that the proprietress of the Nugget confectionery exclaimed "Why that's Grandpa W. who comes in every week, stomps around on the floor with his cane and says 'Ain't my copy of the Saturday Evening Post here yet?'"

The painting, along with another one of Jacksonville, are being displayed in the window of Barker's store in Medford. The second one is titled "Amy Dow's Backyard in Old Jacksonville" and shows an old structure in which a combination grocery store, clothing store, eating and rooming house was maintained by Mrs. Dow in the days when Jacksonville was still the county seat.

"I sure love that old town of Jacksonville—it's an artist's paradise," says Mr. Wertz. The picture of the Lyden house is to be sent to Portland later to be shown.

Ashland Water Users To Pay More Money

Ashland, Ore., Mar. 16—(U.P.)—A 25 per cent increase in water rates for the majority of Ashland consumers has been given an unanimous vote by the city council as a step to place the water department on a paying basis.

At the same time, acreage rates for farmers were increased from $10 to $12 an acre a year. The current commercial rates will remain in effect. It was estimated that the new schedule would bring revenue of about $92,000 a year.

The council also voted to offer a tentative lease to Merle M. Russell and Elbert C. Williams of Los Angeles. They hope to operate the Ashland golf course, the city would furnish water pipe costing $4,000 and the two sportsmen would plan to spend $10,000 in readying the long idle course for play.

Upper Applegate Grange
The fourth regular meeting of Upper Applegate Grange met on March 11 with Orville Mayfield, master, in the chair, and 54 members present.

There is to be a St. Patrick's dance at Grange hall Saturday, March 18. The public is cordially invited. Everyone must wear something green or pay a fine.

The 4-H club was granted use of the hall for Friday night, March 24, to show a film on the production of milk. The public is invited; there is no charge.

A letter from John L. Kelly, chief of special services at Camp White, was read stating that the Domiciliary Center has at this time but one small piano in the chapel and one small donated piano in the theater. There is no piano for the music room or for transporting from ward to ward or to the infirmary. A circular

Fruit Tree Damage May Cause Shortage

Portland, Ore., Mar. 16—(U.P.)—Severe winter damage to Oregon peach, cherry and apricot trees may result in a shortage of these crops during the normal canning season this year, the U. S. department of agriculture's crop reporting service warned today.

The reporting service said serious damage to fruit trees during the January-February freeze had been reported by Pacific northwest fruit growers.

Peach and apricot trees took the worst beating with cherries a close third, the service said. There was extensive bud kill among peach and apricot trees with some young trees reported killed.
