

Polio Fund Campaign Highest In History Of Jackson County

Total receipts of $18,352.24 for the 1950 March of Dimes were announced yesterday by Richard J. "Dick" House, county chairman of the campaign. Expenditures for the drive totaled $1,193.16, leaving a net balance of $17,159.08, constituting the largest sum ever realized in a Jackson county March of Dimes.

Reporting this highest figure in history of the Jackson county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, House stated: "Such a total, of course, was due entirely to the unselfish work of the various community leaders and to a very grand response from all Jackson county citizens."

Expenses Absorbed

"It is worthy of comment," House continued, "that a large share of the expenses were absorbed by the various chairmen, including all travel, and that the major portion of the publicity was entirely free, being donated by newspapers and radio stations. Publicity photographs were also furnished considerably below costs by Brainerd studios."

A break-down of the receipts and expenditures, released by House, showed the following returns by communities: Medford, $11,443.92; Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. Don MacWhirter, co-chairmen, $2,036.57; Central Point, Stanley Jones Jr. and Charles Myers, co-chairmen, $597.55; Eagle Point, Glen Hale, chairman, $556.54; Talent, Mrs. Jack Burdell and Mrs. Nona McAbbe, co-chairmen, $550.85; Trail and Shady Cove, Mrs. Eva Segesman, chairman, $500.09; Jacksonville, Ben Anderson, chairman, $453.25; Rogue River, A. B. McKivild, chairman, $341.39; Phoenix, Art MacKintosh, chairman, $332.31; Prospect, J. H. Grieve, chairman, $317.75; Gold Hill, Cecil Bell, chairman, $160.53; Medco logging camp at Butte Falls, W. J. Thomas, chairman, $163. Lions or Lady Lions sponsored the drives at Central Point, Talent, Jacksonville and Phoenix.

Granges Contribute
In the county as a whole, without specific allocation for towns, the various Granges contributed directly through their organizations $409.69.

School cards were distributed to rural schools through the county school superintendent's office and produced $461.10. The Medford total, House explained, includes Ben Trowbridge's special gift committee, which brought in $963.40. The Medford total also includes theater collections of $1,195.98. Included in the Ashland total were theater collections of $243.91.

Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, chairman of the women's division, collected $494.84 through various women's organizations.

Special Events
Under the partial list of events and parties, contributing to the success of the drive, House listed: Gold Hill Grange dance, managed by Glen Chase; Rogue Valley Country club party, sponsored by the Ladies of the Osteopathic Auxiliary, Mrs. Faye Dierdorff, chairman; Medford Elks party, Vic Kengla, chairman; American Legion dance and street collection, Jack Peters, chairman; Active club street collection under Jim Bidgood; Southern Oregon Boxing club benefit show, Owen Thomas and Larry Burdette, promoters; vaudeville show under direction of Zoe Peters, assisted by Manville Heissel and a large cast of entertainers.

Memorial gifts to the drive totaled $184.50. On the expense side largest sums were spent for supplies, totaling $739.25, and for additional publicity in connection with the purchase by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of an iron lung, donated to the Jackson county chapter, which amounted to $300.

In the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

There's a big to-do in Belgium over whether or not King Leopold shall come back from Switzerland and sit on his Belgian throne. Personally, I don't care a hoot one way or the other, and I presume you feel the same way about it. But the reasons why he isn't sitting on his throne now carry a certain amount of interest for us.

ESPECIALLY at this moment when we are beginning to ship guns and such to Europe to get our new allies there ready to meet a possible invasion by another aggressor.

A WAY back toward the beginning of World War II the Germans, after a puzzling period of inactivity that was generally referred to at the time as the "phony war," struck swiftly and terrifyingly. The blow fell first on France, with a sideswipe at Belgium.

The German panzer divisions went through the French Maginot line like a hot knife through butter, but for a couple of tense weeks we kept hoping that the once-great French army would rally behind a new line and stop the invaders.

AT THIS strained and critical moment, with the fate of half the world hanging in the balance, King Leopold SURRENDERED THE BELGIAN ARMY, and himself along with it.

That cooked the goose of the British army which had been trying to back up and reinforce the French. The Germans poured around the left wing of the French and the British, which was left undefended by the Belgian surrender.

THE debacle of Dunkirk followed. In that grimly heroic disaster, the British lost the flower of their military forces and at the moment is certainly looked like the jig was up.

It was in that black hour that Churchill delivered his blood-tears and sweat speech that will stand forever as an expression of deathless courage by a leader. The bold words of Churchill were backed up by the British people with their lives and their fortunes and what followed, followed.

IT IS one of the splendid stories of history. Basically the sacrifices made by the British people in that awful hour and the bloody and awful hours that followed are responsible for the fix they are in at the present time. The struggle so weakened them that they have been unable to meet fully the problems of the postwar world.

That, fundamentally, is why they have a "dollar shortage" problem.

BUT let's get back to Leopold. His surrender SAVED Belgium from the horrors of war. The little nation rode through those years as a conquered people. Leopold rode through them as a prisoner of war.

The British FOUGHT through them and bled themselves white.

I've retold this story to explain this story to explain in part why the Belgians have been a bit torn with doubt by the dilemma posed by the possible return of Leopold to the throne of his fathers.

Some of them are GRATEFUL TO HIM, probably, for the fact that they are alive. Others, I suspect, still feel the shame of the surrender.

WHAT I started out to say is this:

We are pouring arms and treasure into western Europe in the hope that if a RUSSIAN BLITZ SHOULD START the nations of western Europe would hold the line while we rally our forces as the British rallied theirs after Dunkirk.

How do we know that will happen?

We don't. We're sure of the British. Whatever else they may be, they're a tough and hard-bitten lot. They'll stand in the face of a Russian blitz, as they stood in the face of the German blitz. Win, lose or draw. They're that kind of a breed.

But the rest of Europe is uncertain. It could do as Belgium did. We can't blink that possibility.

Memphis, Tenn.—(UPI)—The Rev. Eugene L. Biggs of Alameda, Cal., will carry identification on his next visit to Memphis. He reached town in the midst of a police search for a liquor store holdup man. When he couldn't prove who he was, he was given a night's free lodging in the city jail.
