Sex Fiend Hunted For Slaying Of Young Baby Sitter

Columbia, Mo., Mar. 20—(U.P.) A sex fiend who raped and strangled a pretty teen-aged baby sitter eluded police today in this Missouri college town.

Boone county Prosecutor Carl Sapp said officers had rounded up all known sex offenders for questioning in the cold-blooded murder of brown-haired Janet Christmas in a "terrific struggle" Saturday night.

Others Molested
Sapp said the killer may have been the same assailant who tried to molest young baby sitters in Columbia twice during the past two months.

Janett, who would have observed her 13th birthday tomorrow, was attacked and strangled with an electrical cord while she was baby-sitting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Romach, who were attending a bridge party.

The killer did not molest little Gregory Romach, 2½, who was found asleep in his crib.

Check Made
"We have made a clean check of the house and area and believe we have some good fingerprint and hair samples, but won't know how good they are until they have been gone over in the highway patrol laboratory," Sapp

Punishment Of Boys Who Stole Money Left To Parents

Pittsburgh, Mar. 20—(U.P.)—The punishment of three Erie, Pa., boys who went on a weekend spending spree with $9,100 taken from one of their families, was left today to the mercies of the irate parents.

The boys were picked up here yesterday with $9,005 still in their possession, stuffed in an old sock and tied with a shoelace.

They were turned over to their fathers along with about $100 worth of new clothes, wallets, playing cards, poker chips and a radio.

No Action Planned
Police said no action would be taken against them because of their youth. Punishment by the parents was postponed until the boys returned to Erie.

Nicholas Palermo, 11, youngest of the trio, took the money his father obtained from the sale of one of his two taverns and asked Paul Voculian, 12, and Michael Manning, 13, to leave home with him last Friday.

"We were always getting heck because we played hockey from school a couple of times," Nicholas told police.

Nicholas took the money from a hiding place in a dresser drawer.

Australian Streets Dug Up For Gold

Melbourne, Australia, Mar. 20 (U.P.)—Miners with picks and shovels tore up the main street of Wedderburn today in the gold rush started when a grocery clerk found a $2,500 nugget last week.

The grocery clerk, Albert Smith, dug up the 70-ounce nugget in his yard and said he believed it was part of a vein of gold running under the town. Wedderburn is 120 miles northwest of here.

Residents started digging in yards and streets. Traffic on the town's main thoroughfare, Wilson avenue, was disrupted by miners digging there.

On the Side—By E. V. Durling

The best of remedies is a beefsteak. Against seasickness, try it, sir, you sneer, and I assure you this is true. For I have found it answers, so may you.

Everybody has a favorite remedy for seasickness, what's yours? I understand there are some recently originated pills that are good. Incidentally, I knew a ship captain who sailed the seas for thirty-five years and got sick on every trip!

Nearly all the streets in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn are named after signers of the Declaration of Independence. The Williamsburg section is the birthplace of Danny Kaye and is also the locale of Betty Smith's novel, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn."

Riggs Restaurant in New York City has been open day and night for forty years. So states a New Yorker who asks: "Can California top this?" California can, and how! The Saddlerock Restaurant in Sacramento has been open continuously day and night for over one hundred years. Since 1849!

Dogs Again
How about dogs named after people? This is the interesting question brought up by an Oklahoma City subscriber, a neighbor of the animal's owner. One day, "Mr. Scribner," (the dog) an Airedale, bit Mr. Scribner, the man. "That," she says, "was one time a dog biting a man was news." This same subscriber says she knows of a goldfish named "Eleanor Roosevelt," a goat named "Bernard Shaw," a pig named "Bing Crosby," and a jackass named "John L. Lewis."

Sidelights
Princess Aly Khan (Rita Hayworth) dropped into Jacques Fath's Paris dressmaking establishment recently and purchased twenty-seven gowns, each one costing $450. . . . In Las Vegas, Nev., there is a feminine nurse named Johnny Pederson. She has a sister, also in Las Vegas, whose first name is James. Seems their father, a North Carolina minister, greatly wanted a son. However, his wife gave birth to nine daughters. So they gave all the girls first names usually used for boys.

However she is the only woman buried there. Look up the life story of Aphia. I think you will find it interesting. Q. Your Mules & Men experts promised to tell what kind of husband professional ballplayers make, but never did. How about it? A. Professional ballplayers make difficult husbands and can only be successfully handled by patient, highly intelligent, diplomatic women of strong character. The only time life in a professional ballplayer's home is really calm is when he is hitting well or in

Heated Argument
Esther Williams' appearance in "Neptune's Daughter" recalls that Annette Kellerman appeared in the original film version of this story. This was directed by Herbert Brenon. It was either this picture or another Kellerman film which resulted in a terrific argument between the producer, William Fox, and the director, Brenon, as to the high cost of the production. During this argument Fox is reported to have thrown a chair at Brenon. Guess he was really annoyed.

Argument Nearly Costs Four Lives
Aspen, Colo., Mar. 20—(U.P.)—A friendly argument almost cost four ski experts their lives.

The discussion, about whether skis were better than snowshoes for covering distance, led the four to actually try the experiment.

Dave Schultz and Glen Songer strapped on their skis, and Mike Layton and Dick Kruse put on snow shoes and the quartet left Gummison, Colo., Friday.

All four became bogged down Saturday morning when the worst blizzard of the winter set in above timberline. Schultz and Songer switched to snowshoes, but the going was still tough.

Hungry, cold, and near exhaustion from their 48 hours in the blizzard, the four reached Aspen yesterday. But because of the unusual turn in the weather, they felt that their argument still hadn't been settled.

Hitchhiker Hunted In Autoist's Death

Mesa, Ariz., Mar. 20—(U.P.)—Law enforcement officers throughout central Arizona were pressed into a search today for a hitchhiker who fatally wounded a motorist identified as Gustave A. Beaseau, 36, of Boise, Ida.

The victim died en route to a Mesa hospital soon after he drove his blood-spattered automobile into a motor court eight miles east of here about midnight.

Marshall Church, motel operator, quoted Beaseau as saying he had been shot by one of two young hitchhikers he had picked up. Officers said they believed the victim was a photographer or camera salesman.

"My poor wife and child, I am dying," the victim gasped as he opened the door of his car and fell to the ground. Church said he then added, "Let this be a lesson to you. Don't ever pick up anyone on the highway."

Capistrano Swallows Arrive On Schedule

San Juan, Capistrano, Cal., Mar. 20—(U.P.)—The swallows of San Juan Capistrano didn't disappoint the faithful.

In huge flights, the swallows swarmed onto the San Juan Capistrano mission roof yesterday to keep the 174-year-old legend that they always return on St. Joseph's day.

According to the legend, the swallows first started coming here when Franciscans built the pioneer church in 1779. They landed on St. Joseph's day and flew south again on St. John's day, October 23.

Ornithologists are dubious about the accuracy of the swallows' arrival time. But yesterday the birds started arriving at dawn with flights coming in every two or three hours.

Grants Pass Lawyer To Attend Hearing

Ruth Aberle's Father Drowns In Boat Upset

Longview, Wash., Mar. 20—(U.P.)—Tragedy, which missed the Aberle family by a narrow margin three months ago, struck full force this week-end.

The family of W. F. Aberle, 47, came to nationwide attention last December when his pretty daughter, Ruth, was lost for four days in the woods. Her knowledge of Girl scout lore saved her.

Yesterday, Aberle drowned when the 26-foot Sea scout sailboat "Wanasey" scudded him and 17 boys and girls into the Columbia river. Dave Ammons, 19, also was feared drowned.

Aberle slipped from the grasp of his 21-year-old son, Bill, who tried to pull him aboard the tug Bill owned and piloted. The tug, named "Ruth" for his plucky Girl scout sister, had been towing the Wanasey when a combination of rough water and stiff winds capsized the boat.

The boat tipped over in water 40 feet deep. Dragging crews were searching today for the bodies of Aberle and Ammons. There was a remote possibility that the latter had swam to shore.

Hollywood, Mar. 20—(U.P.)—Screen Actress Nancy Olson and Writer Allan Jay Lerner honeymooned today following their marriage here yesterday.
