A Nichols' Worth of— Comment On This and That

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Feature Writer

Washington, Mar. 22—(U.P.)—It's spring, the almanac says. That's the time to start looking for the birds, the bees, the violets—and for the old man to think about coming down with an ache in the back from digging up the garden.

I've always followed the advice of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, (D., N. M.) when Clint was secretary of agriculture. He once remarked that he never plans a garden too big for his wife to handle.

So that puts me into the research department; in the business of telling other people how to make a garden. Being clumsy, I had to call on the U. S. department of agriculture for help.

The first rule of Secretary Charles F. Brannan is—don't write to the department for seeds or plant information.

"Hundreds of seed firms sell seeds, plants, and garden supplies," he said. "These things, plus fertilizers, fungicides, insecticides, and tools also are sold by thousands of retail, seed, hardware, and general stores. Look in the classified section of your phone book."

Helper Published The department has put out a wife's little helper called "Growing Vegetables in Town and City."

It starts out in a sort of literary vein by declaring that growing stuff to eat is an "art, not a science." You can read all the books you want, the booklet says, but the only way to grow a good tomato, pea or onion is to go right ahead and grow it.

The agriculture people, in their advice to the novice, set down a bunch of rules. They are mostly on the "don't" side.

1. Don't try to grow vegetables on a lot that is too poor to make a good growth of weeds or grass, or is made up of rubble or unweathered "subsoil fill," or is contaminated with coal, chemical, or oil-product wastes. Or is so wet that it grows weeds common to marshy or poorly drained spots. Or is likely to be flooded by stream overflow. Or is located so that it received much storm drainage or surface water from above. Or is shaded

THE GRANGE Roxy Ann Grange Over 100 Grangers attended Roxy Ann Grange meeting March 17 to play host to visiting members from Griffin Creek Grange who, headed by Lecturer Isobelle LeVander, presented the entertainment. In addition to the 24 or so and Master George Mero from Griffin Creek, there were several from Phoenix and Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller also Master Ralph James from Sams Valley and State Deputy Bill Howes. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller from Jacksonville applied for membership through demit and Mr. and Mrs. Ory Moore were obligated in first and second degrees. H.E.C. reported $105.70 netted on the carnival the previous week, which was added to the building fund. Refreshments in the form of home-made pies were served by the refreshment committee, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bish, Mr. and Mrs. Buck McClanahan and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burns. Next regular meeting will be April 7. The lecturer promises a special program for Easter.

Rogue River

Rogue River, Mar. 22—In appreciation of their excellent efforts during the past season, the grade school basketball team was given a banquet and dance Saturday evening at VFW hall by the mothers of team members. The team won at conference and took second place in the tournament. Use of the hall was donated and it was decorated in school colors by Mrs. A. P. Klomhauser who also had charge of table arrangements. Cheer leaders served as waitresses while Lloyd Morrow introduced team members, who responded with after dinner speeches that were a credit to their school. Later games were played, followed by dancing. Mrs. Ed Lilley was chairman of the committee and Mrs. Bob Hoover was in charge of the dinner.

"The tax equalization board of Rogue River would like it known that no property valuations have been changed as yet, regardless of any rumors that may have been passed around," states Douglas Buckle, chairman of the board. "The agreement with the two appraisal engineers and Assessor C. A. Myers was, that after a recheck of the school district the Rogue River committee, themselves, would revalue all properties in the City of Rogue River on a proportionate basis, as shown by the survey now being conducted, with what the school district is now assessed. Mr. Logan says he is preparing a complete map of the properties in the city which the local committee will use in the revaluation."

Saturday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sowles saw the Carlos Magerles and Harold Towse buying paper picnic dishes in Paddock's store, good natured remarks were exchanged about rushing the picnic season. Later in the evening 42 friends and neighbors gathered at three separate houses with the picnic dishes and baskets of food, and on a signal all converged at the Sowles home, completely surprising the family who were packing to move to Alaska. Mrs. Sowles said she had never attended a housewarming or farewell party and cried when presented with a heavy woolen blanket as a farewell gift. "It's hard to leave our Rogue River friends now," she said, "and we may come back."

Communists Refuse To Move Foreigners

Hong Kong, Mar. 22—(U.P.)—The Chinese communist government definitely has refused permission to move out 2,000 foreigners from Shanghai, including 300 Americans, the American President lines announced today. A spokesman for the shipping company said the liner General Gordon, which had been scheduled to take aboard the evacuees of the Yangtze river, had cancelled all planes for a visit to Shanghai. Instead the ship will sail tonight for Yokohama, Japan. The foreigners were to have been transported from Shanghai to the General Gordon's position offshore by two landing craft, which would make the run through a min field in the Yangtze river into Shanghai and back.

Wreckage Of Airplane Is Believed Located

Seattle, Mar. 22—(U.P.)—The wreckage of a light plane believed to be that of V. C. Roberts, missing Spokane businessman, was sighted today by a coast guard search pilot and he reported seeing tracks in the snow leading from the downed aircraft to a highway. The search pilot radioed Seattle coast guard headquarters that he sighted the wreckage of a blue and cream-colored plane lying on its back in deep snow at the 3,500-foot level of the Cascade mountains. The plane is on the east slope of the Cascades about 20 miles east of Snoqualmie pass, the pilot reported.
