Radio Patter by Pat

A round-up report on the mutual defense assistance program of the United States will be heard on "Time for Defense" tonight at 8 o'clock over Station KYJC and ABC.

Tuesday night is ordinarily devoted to educational programs and ABC is devoting a lot of time and money in presenting such programs as "Time for Defense" in this educational block.

The recorded documentary portion of the program will include interviews with people at New York's Port of Embarkation where equipment is being shipped to the eight member nations of the Atlantic Pact, and a pick-up from Norfolk, Va., where navy planes are shipped to France.

The other top educational program heard over ABC and KYJC Tuesday night is "Town Meeting." What Kind of Farm Program Do We Need? will be the forum topic when the program is aired at 9 p.m.

Speakers will be Representative Wright Patman, member of the house banking and currency committee, and joint committee on the economic report, and Alan B. Kline, president of the American farm bureau federation, director of the federal reserve bank of Chicago and member of the public advisory board ECA.

Sergeant Preston finds himself on quite a chase in Whitcomb before he discovers the "would-be killers" in Wednesday's episode of the "Challenge of the Yukon" on KYJC at 6 p.m.

A young couple from Omaha, Neb., will be married on the "Bride & Groom" program over KYJC and ABC Wednesday at 11:30 p.m.

Dead line on Classified Ads: 5:30 p.m. for following day; 10 a.m. Monday for Monday; noon Saturday for Sunday a.m.

Your Health and Its Care

THE TROUBLE STICK

Reader asks whether a mother who keeps a regular check on her children's health is a hypochondriac. The family doctor told her she was and advised her to stop looking for trouble that way. She takes the children's temperature whenever they seem out of sorts, have digestive upsets or are exposed to cold or dampness, because she knows how important it is to put a child to bed the moment he or she shows any rise of temperature. The family doctor also tells the mother it is foolish to have her 11-year-old daughter's lungs examined every three months because a grandparent had some kind of lung trouble. The mother says she had rather be guided by my advice.

My advice is that the family doctor knows better than any one can know about both questions. The family doctor sounds like that to me. If you keep constantly taking children's temperature you are bound to find a rise of temperature frequently, and it is plumb dumb to put a child in bed just because you discover a rise of temperature. Nine times out of ten it is insignificant. Certainly it doesn't mean either that the young one is ill or that any illness is coming on. If the child is not obviously ailing it doesn't matter whether there is a degree or two of fever. Such rise of temperature occurs frequently in children from trivial causes or from no apparent cause.

Some of the trick specialists that infest the profession today encourage mothers to keep a clinical thermometer in the house. Then when mother telephones the doctor the doctor can inquire solicitously about the child's temperature and answer the call or evade it, according to his convenience. If he chooses to evade it he can tell the mother to keep the child well under the covers, give a dose of something or rub on some nostrum and let him know in the morning. . . . Such doctors consider their own convenience first, the welfare of the patient second.

Trouble stick is the right name for the clinical thermometer in the hands of any one else than the physician attending the patient or a nurse under the physician's direction. Trouble stick, because the little glass stick brings a great deal of trouble that without the stick never would have happened.

In some circumstances it may be of scientific interest to know just what the temperature is, but for the welfare of the children and the family it is better to leave the clinical thermometer in the hands of the attending physician or the nurse who carries out the doctor's orders.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
The "Shot" Merchants
No other M. D. would approve the B complex, but the merchants—they insisted on giving me "shots" which they said are effective where vitamins taken by mouth are useless—but when my savings were exhausted I had to fall back on taking B complex by mouth. . . . today I am a different person. (Mrs. E. G.)

Answer—By mouth is the natural way to take vitamins. Lucky for you that the "shot" merchants lost interest in your case when your funds were exhausted. The racket of giving things by injection which may be given by mouth with equal benefit is a disgrace to the profession. Many brass "specialists" pay the overhead and net a good profit in addition, from this racket, which often their office girls carry on for them, thanks to the credulity of the Yankee Wiscaree public.

Internal Derangement of Knee
Please say something about loose cartilage in the knee. Does it ever become normal again after an accident? (Mrs. B. M. A.)
Answer—Once the cartilage is anchored or removed at operation. (Copyright 1950 by John F. Dille Co.)
