Heine's Juniors Plan Festival Participation

Preparations for participation in the Portland Rose festival this year are being made by Bliss Heine's Juniors, and Heine said today that it is important for all members to attend their respective classes to complete their preparations. Those with the best attendance records will be given preference in choosing those who will go, he said.

Two representatives of the Oregon Journal, Ed Springer and a Mr. Yemans, were visitors at the classes Saturday.

At a recent meeting of parents a promotion board was appointed including Mrs. Eloy Cordova, chairman, and Bernard Haas, James Vander Steen, Mrs. Otto Wirth, Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. C. E. Powell, Mrs. Frank McKitrick Sr. and Mrs. Nelson. This board will function in groups of four to pass on promotion tests conducted by Bliss Heine when Juniors are ready for promotions.

A group of Juniors will participate in a Townsend program Friday evening in the Pythian building.

Senatorial Candidate To Be Heard On Radio

Dave Hoover, who is seeking the republican nomination for United States senator at the May 19 primary election, will be heard in a half-hour transcribed radio talk at 9 p. m. today over radio station KMED.

The talk is the same one delivered March 20 in Eugene and is entitled, "Which Way, America? Liberty or Socialism."

Art Reproductions To Be Exhibited Locally

An art exhibit featuring reproductions of the work of many great and well-known artists will be displayed here two evenings this week under the sponsorship of the art department of the Medford high school.

The exhibit will be open from 7 to 9:30 p. m. on Wednesday and Thursday at the high school. A small admission charge will be made and proceeds from the event will go to the purchase of art reproductions for the art department.

There are 150 large colored reproductions included in the exhibit, including pictures by Gainsborough, Titian, Terborch, Murillo, Van Dyck, Raphael and others of the old school, and more modern pictures by a variety of artists.

Medford Woman Tells Of Purse Grabbing

Mrs. Mary E. Albert, 921 South Holly street, reported to city police about 9:30 p. m. last night that a 12 to 14 year old boy grabbed her, then grabbed her purse as she was walking in front of 755 South Holly street.

She said a little black dog jumped out at her. As she tried to chase the dog away, the youth came behind her. After taking the purse, the youth dashed along the side of a house then across a field toward the railroad tracks, Mrs. Albert reported to police.

The black patent leather purse contained a $10 and $5 bill, and papers, she said.

More Than 100 Attend Phoenix Workshop

More than 100 persons, most of them school teachers, registered Saturday at the Phoenix school for the art workshop sponsored by the Southern Oregon Art association. Madame Emmy Zweybruek was featured as artist, teacher and demonstrator. There were 36 teachers registered from Klamath county, 14 from Josephine and 38 from Jackson and there were six student registrants from Chiloquin high school and from the Illinois valley and Eagle Point high schools.

Due to the wide popularity of the workshop, a similar course is being planned for next spring.

There will be movies, dancing and special entertainment. Acting Fire Chief Leo Weidner said that an assistant chief and four captains will be elected from among the call men with all firemen voting.

Navy Reservists Set Meeting Here Tonight

Medford's naval reserve composite unit 13-11 will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the federal office building, 33 North Riverside avenue, according to Lt. R. William Clark, commanding officer. The meeting will be open to all ex-members of the naval services.

Training curricula for the next three months will be set in motion and will emphasize the reactivation of the "moth-ball fleet." Films will be shown.

. . . . AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood, Mar. 28 — (U.P.) Filmland's "best actress" parked her "Oscar" on the bookcase with its twin and settled down today to the less glamorous business of finding herself a job.

Virginia MacPherson

Olivia de Havilland is slightly dazed by winning her second academy award honor in three years . . . and two film critics' awards in succession.

She is "Mrs. Hollywood"—for the next twelve months. But she hasn't made a movie for a year and a half. And she hasn't got one in mind, either.

Not because nobody wants her. As of last Thursday night, when Hollywood passed around its golden doorstoppers for bang up jobs in 1949, Miss de Havilland's market value on the movie block went up $1 million.

Practically every producer in town would give up two or three "yes-men" to get her on his payroll. And she is anxious to get back to work herself.

"But I can't find a story," she said. "My room upstairs is piled high with scripts and novels and plays. I read at least three a week, hoping maybe this will be it."

Getting Eyestrain

So far, all she's getting is eyestrain.

There's a rumor that after two homely tear-jerker parts in a row—"The Snake Pit" and "The Heiress"—Miss de Havilland is ready for something glamorous and funny.

She has no objections to looking her own beauteous self again. But whoever's ballyhooing her for a comedienne is talking through his hat.

"No comedies," she said firmly. "And no farces."

She thinks farces are silly and comedies "too easy."

"I'm very serious about my acting," she said. "I like something with a challenge, something thats a bit difficult."

Miss De Havilland figures she has done all right for herself with heavy drama. She can afford to let some other movie queen make with the funny wisecracks.

"A play I would love, though" she added, "as long as it's something dramatic."

Roomful of Gifts

But something better not pop up in the next few days. Miss de Havilland is still digging herself out from under a living room full of congratulatory gifts and flowers and wires.

And everybody who writes her will get a "thank you" note in her own handwriting.

"I was so excited when I got home from the awards I couldn't sleep," Olivia admitted. "I read for a while . . . I soaked for an hour in a hot tub . . . and then I just wandered around.

This woke up her writer-husband, Marcus Goodrich, who ordered: "That's enough of that. Come to bed and go to sleep."

"And you know?" Olivia said, "I did."

Crude oil production in new Japan totaled 1,368,050 barrels in 1949, the highest annual production since 1945.
