WEDNESDAY REALTY VIEWS

Wrote Oscar Wilde, "Everyone knows the price of things but few know the value of anything." How true this is with real estate. That is why it will always pay you to consult a competent real estate firm—one who is trained to know the difference between "price" and "value." Our years of experience are your guarantee that we can help you to find a genuine real estate value.

Many people have a mistaken notion. They assume that if they can buy a property for a little less than the asking price, they will have a real "value." But an experienced real firm knows "value" is not based on price entirely. It is made up of lots of important factors, and varies with the individual requirements of each family.

Here are a few of the things, other than price, which result in value: Location, type of neighborhood, size of the lot and building, architectural styling, comparison with adjoining properties and with similar ones elsewhere in the city, the needs of the individual buyer.

You cannot become a real estate expert overnight. It takes much study and years of experience to judge real estate "value" accurately. That's where we come in. Our experience will be a big help to you in selecting a property which is a good VALUE.

Young Barrymore Trails In Father's Footsteps

San Francisco — (U.P.) — John Barrymore Jr., 17-year-old son of the late great actor, came into town almost unheralded to launch his career as the "new profile" (as advertised).

His personal appearance at the Paramount theater coincided with the exhibition of his first picture, "The Sundowners." In the movie Barrymore rides a horse and fires a six-shooter once.

His press agents explained the solo is using the youngster sparingly at first so as not to ram him down the public's throat.

"They want him to feel his way," the agents said.

POCKETS TOO HOT

Man Held in Jail on Charge of Assault

Warren Mullen, 27, was being held in the county jail today after allegedly "manhandling" his mother, Mrs. Rachel Mullen, and beating his sister, Mrs. Myrna Shaffer, at 790 Cherry street this morning, the sheriff's office reported.

They said that, after beating his sister, Mullen forced her into a car and drove off. He stopped at a service station where attendants interceded and got the woman away from him, according to the report.

Mullen then drove away and was later apprehended near Gold Hill. Assault and battery was charged against Mullen in a previous complaint, it was said. Mullen will undergo a psychiatric examination, sheriff's officers reported.

Governor Selects Indian Woman as Mother of 1950

Salem, Ore., April 5 — (U.P.) — Gov. Douglas McKay today announced the selection of Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud of West Linn as Oregon mother for 1950. Mrs. Roe Cloud is an Indian woman.

The governor's Oregon mother committee meeting in Portland named Mrs. Roe Cloud for the contribution that she has made to the welfare of Indian women in the northwest, as well as to community programs in behalf of all citizens.

Mrs. Roe Cloud is the widow of Henry Roe Cloud, former superintendent of the Umatilla Indian reservation and who at the time of his recent death was with the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Four of her daughters are graduates of Vassar and have made careers for themselves in various fields.

Mrs. Roe Cloud received her degree in education from Hampton Institute, Va., in 1907, and took nurses training in Philadelphia. During World War II she served as an army nurse at Ordinance. The family moved to Oregon 12 years ago, and lived at Pendleton until moving to West Linn three years ago. She is a member of the Presbyterian church at Oregon City, where she has aided in Sunday school work. She has toured various states as a speaker for the board of missions for the Presbyterian church.

Aphis Spray Advised For Cherry Growers

Cherry growers can now begin to spray for aphis control, County Agent C. B. Cordy said today. Though there are few cherries grown commercially in the county, there are numerous family orchards where cherry trees are subject to aphis damage.

Though the presence of aphis may not yet be apparent, a thorough spraying, completed any time between now and blossom time, is the surest way to get effective control.

For large quantities of spray, Cordy suggests a pint of black leaf 40 and a quart of summer oil emulsion to 100 gallons. For smaller quantities cherry growers could use a tablespoon of black leaf 40 in two gallons of soapy water. If they are not stopped now, aphis will curl the end leaves on new growths and will be difficult to get at, Cordy said.

Veterinarian To Join Animal Hospital Staff

Dr. Rolden Canfield, Spokane, Wash., veterinarian, will become associated with the Regional Animal hospital soon, it was reported today. Dr. Stanley Phillips operates the animal hospital.

Dr. Canfield formerly was with the Spokane Animal hospital, and served in the veterinary corps during the war, part of the time in India where he had much experience in the care of exotic animals. Following his return from service, he became associated with the Dairy-Gold farms at Spokane, where he advised on farm animal problems.

Dr. Canfield is married and has three children, two boys and a girl. His family will join him here after school is out this summer.

Wooden Indians For Cigar Stores Making Comeback

By Ken Ford
United Press Correspondent

New York (U.P.) — The cigar store Indian of the gaslight era is making a comeback by popular demand but the dead-pan wooden images are as scarce as the buffalo.

Meeting the demand is the problem of Richard Tukey, who said he has had enough requests from corner smoke shop owners across the nation to use all he can get.

Tukey estimated that 3,000 cigar store Indians are known to exist but all save 200 are on "reservation" in private collections. The 200, he said, are on active duty.

Tukey believes there are two ways to solve his problem: get the collectors to part with them and encourage persons to carve them. Both tasks are difficult, he admitted.

"You just can't seem to get anyone with the patience to sit down and carve," he explained. In the 1880s, when cigar store Indians were at the height of their popularity, some 100,000 of them stood in front of stores. The no-obstacles-on-sidewalks in many cities and the decline of carving as a pastime marked the passing of the wooden warriors, Tukey said.

The average age of the existing images would be about 70 now, said Tukey, who is leading the campaign in his job as director of the Cigar Institute of America.

Few Made Lately
Very few have been made in the last 150 years, Tukey reported, and any new atomic age models should have more "sex appeal."

"They'll just have to look less fearsome and more like Clark Gable. And as for the squaws, well, something is needed to catch the male eye," Tukey said.

"The old Indians were pretty fearsome looking fellows and the squaws really buxom and well covered."

The going price on the collectors' market ranges between $250 and $1,000, Tukey said he knew of a case where a tobacco connoisseur in Hawaii bought a cigar store Indian from a man in Terre Haute, Ind., for $800 and then had it shipped by air.

Not Real "Americans"
Unlike the flesh-and-blood Indian, the cigar store jobs, which were almost life-size, can not claim to be real "Americans."

They migrated from England, Tukey said.

When sailing ships gave way to steam vessels the artisans who carved bowsprits took up figure carving. Merchants used them as signs symbolizing their business.

"The Indian was the British concept of America and tobacco consists there adopted him as their symbol," Tukey observed. "Later, the idea came here from England."

Furthermore, Tukey said, authorities on cigar store Indians agree that few of the men who carved them ever saw a real Indian. Their features are often Caucasian.

Post Hydrant, Pole Damaged in Accident

Police said a highway marker post, a fire hydrant and a power pole were damaged about 7:30 p.m. when a car operated by Mrs. Thomas E. Bray, Eagle Point, went over the curb at 1105 Court street.

The car was also considerably damaged, the report said. Police stated that Mrs. Bray was cited for having no operator's license. She apparently was not hurt.

LEGISLATOR LOOKS

Jackson, Miss. (U.P.) — Although there are no television stations in Mississippi, and none contemplated right now, a bill introduced in the state legislature would prohibit television sets in automobiles. Rep. Paul Measell, explaining his bill, said he was looking forward to the future. "I want drivers in Mississippi to keep their eyes on the road," he said.
