MARKING TIME with HANK GREEN

Not long ago a poll sponsored by the City School Superintendent's association, High School Principals' association and the Oregon State Activities' association was taken relative to opinions on many subjects but particularly in regard to school athletics.

Answering the questionnaire sent out were principals and superintendents of A and B high schools in the state.

While the poll was no more than a means of finding out what officials thought along certain lines and may have no effect on policies of either association, some answers to questions and the percentage of "yes" and "no" to them are of interest to sports fans.

One question in particular is of interest because of current moves to change classification of schools into A, B and C so as to make athletic competition closer than it is now.

According to the OSAA report on the poll, 355 voted in favor of dividing the schools into three classes, 31 wanted the present A and B set-up and 12 suggested raising the B classification.

The three divisions under the proposed change would make A schools those having 600 to 1,000 pupils, B schools those with 150 to 600 and C schools would have 0 to 150.

Those suggesting raising the B school classification varied between six wanting 200 as the maximum, four wishing 225 and four asking for 250.

If this is any kind of indication, most school superintendents and principals in Oregon want an A, B and C classification and maybe this will bring the OSAA board of control to change its mind and authorize the revision as has been asked by many fans and schools.

Here is another in a series of explanations on changes and new interpretations in baseball rules made by Umpire Bill Summers:

"When a batted ball rolls foul along either base line the batter and coaches must not touch the ball nor may anyone guff or puff on it. The ball must be allowed to come to rest insofar as these men are concerned.

"Otherwise it is interference and the batter is out."

Medford high sports picture insofar as winning games and meets are concerned looks better and better.

Last Saturday Don Vincent certainly provided one of the most thrilling climaxes to a track meet that has been seen here in some time with his long heave of the javelin which together with D. C. Mills' throw gave Medford that event and a win over Klamath Falls.

The Tornado showed more poise which perhaps is at least partly because of the relatively large number of boys out for each event. Medford has another tough test this week Saturday when it takes on Grants Pass at Grants Pass.

Coach Alex McDonald is pleased with the pitching and probably his fielding possibilities on the Tornado baseball team but he certainly must be wondering how long the team's winning luck will hold out when the boys can garner but two to five hits per game.

Derald Wooten kept Eagle Point in hand last Friday with a no-hitter but his playmates made only two hits.

BOWLING LADIES' LEAGUE

Mrs. Rose Barr scored high individual series with 517 and Sis Beck tallied high individual game honors with her 210 last night when the Ladies' Bowling league held its weekly competition at Medford Bowling lanes.

Hubbard's took high team series with 2,292 and high team game went to Oregon Finance with an 804.

Toronto and Wings Losers

The Montreal Canadiens still were alive in the Stanley cup playoffs today, and the Detroit Red Wings were back on even terms with the defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs.

That was the net result of two overtime games last night in which Montreal downed the New York Rangers, 3 to 2, and Detroit edged Toronto, 2 to 1. Both series will be resumed tomorrow at Montreal and Detroit.

The Canadiens' victory was their first after the Rangers won the first three games.

Rabbit Finally Loses Race to Florida Dogs

Miami, Fla., Apr. 5.—U.P.—The pore greyhounds, who have chased a rabbit around West Flagler track for eight futile years, caught up with it last night—and won a hollow victory at best.

The rabbit was artificial. Flustered track officials declared "no race" and refunded all pari-mutuel bets.

High scorer last night was Frank Rush with 271, followed by Jim Bolton with 262, Clinton Charley 254, Cliff Friend 250 and Bill Acker with 246.

A practice session for members and others interested will be held Friday at Merrick's starting at 7:30 p.m.

Augusta Masters Golf Tourney Slated Start

Augusta, Ga., Apr. 5.—U.P.—The big-name golf professionals were operating on two fronts here today on the eve of the famed Augusta Masters tournament.

In the clubhouse, the stars were brewing a compromise with the Professional Golfers association on their demand that they be permitted to control and operate the tournaments in which they appear.
