Society Seeking To Aid Crippled When Help Needed

If there is a crippled child or a handicapped adult in your family, the Oregon Society for Crippled Children and Adults wants to know about it.

Mrs. C. B. Partch, chairman of this year's drive, declared today that the services of the society are available to crippled persons and that the society is "eager to give assistance where it is most needed to bring health and strength to either child or adult who needs aid in the battle for a normal life."

"We shall never feel that we have fulfilled our purpose until we are giving full aid to every crippled child and adult who needs us. This is why we hope to enlarge our funds this year in order to expand our services," she said.

"Funds are being raised during this Easter Seal month from the citizens of this community to help those who are less fortunate." Mrs. Partch added, "Facilities of our society are maintained by this community participation in the Easter Seal drive. We want to see these services extended to as many crippled children as possible who need a crutch or therapeutic treatment as well as adults who need a helping hand to overcome a handicap."

"We cannot do this however," she said, "unless we have the funds to work with for services to the crippled are expensive services since they require highly trained professional personnel." Mrs. Partch pointed out that all but a small percentage of the funds raised during Easter Seal drive are used right here in the community, with considerably less than 10 per cent going to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Chicago, to finance its program of research and education and a national program to aid the cerebral palsied.

Search for Submarines Good Training for Crews

Aboard U.S.S. Curtiss in San Diego Bay, Apr. 6.—(U.P.)—An unworried U. S. navy is using reports of foreign submarine activity off the California coast to help train crews in anti-submarine work, Vice Adm. Calvin T. Durgin said today.

Durgin, commander of the navy's powerful first fleet, said that nothing had been uncovered to prove that foreign subs were operating off the coast. He added that even if subs were found, they have every legal right to be there.

United Strength Said Only Way To Abolish Warfare

New York, Apr. 6.—(U.P.)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of California Institute of Technology, said today the only way to abolish global wars is for all "peace-loving nations" to join in stopping any aggressor "even before he gets started."

Millikan, vice president of Cal Tech's board of trustees and 1923 Nobel prize winner in physics, said the "responsibility is wholly on Russia" for sabotaging the efforts of the United Nations toward collective security.

"If Russia will not join in the effort," the scientist-educator said, "the next thing to do is for the rest of the world to keep strong themselves and to unite their strengths against any nation that threatens to attack any one of them."

Millikan discussed war and peace in an address prepared for the 1930 Brand Names day luncheon at the Hotel Waldorf Astoria.

The fate of human well-being and human progress, he said, rests upon "two great pillars—the spirit of religion and the spirit of science. Both are needed for ending world conflicts," he said.

Security One Hope
"The one hope before mankind for the abolition of world wars is collective security."

"The game of the aggressor nation has always been to pick off the weaker nations one by one. That is just what Hitler did and just what Stalin is trying to do now. But there is no nation on earth strong enough to dare to make war against the united strength of all the rest of mankind with any hope of success."
