Lily Day Parade To Be Tomorrow; Girls To Aid Sale

Is there anyone who would not help a crippled child if he could? Residents of Medford will have their opportunity to do so tomorrow when 50 Medford senior high school girls will sell paper Easter lilies to help support the Oregon Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Mrs. Merle DeCordova, "Lily day parade" chairman, announced today that plans have been completed for the annual sale on Saturday, April 8. The high school girls will cooperate with members of Rotana club of Medford in the sale of the paper lilies which marks the close of the 1950 Easter campaign for crippled children and adults.

The girls who will wear Lily Day banners and carry Easter baskets of lilies, will sell the lilies on all the downtown streets, at the airport and at the Big Y market from 10:30 a. m. until 4:00 p. m. Mrs. Lois Gould will also assist in the sale.

In urging all the citizens of the community to buy the lilies and help make the sale a success, Mrs. DeCordova said, "I want to thank all the girls who are participating in the sale and Mrs. Marjorie Butler, dean of girls at the high school, who has helped so much in interesting the girls in this project."

Thursday afternoon, members of the Rotana club were allowed to show the Oregon society's film, "A Day in the Life of a Palsied Child," to the girls at the high school who will participate in the sale.

The Easter baskets which the girls will carry were donated by H. J. Boyd, manager of the local Woolworth store.

Miss Jeunesse Butler and E. C. Howard will play the Connosonette, an electronic organ furnished by Fruit's Music center, at Newberg's store from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday as their contribution to help make the Lily Day Parade a success.
