

Final Forecast on Year's Supply of Water Released

After releasing detailed forecasts on prospective water supplies for southern and south central Oregon Saturday, the federal-state cooperative snow survey today made their final monthly forecast of the season for the whole state.

With a few exceptions in some scattered sections of the state, the 1950 water supply prospects are good throughout, the survey said, nearly equal to the excellent supplies of 1949 and 1948, and better than last year in some areas.

Deficiencies or shortages are not to be expected anywhere in the state if normal conditions of snow-melt and runoff prevail, the forecast, given as of April 1, continued.

Sees New Records

New records of runoff will be established in the Deschutes watershed, with unusually high flows to be expected in Willamette river tributaries draining the western Cascade slope from the Coast fork and Row river north to and including the Santiam river.

Water stored in snow-packs is 27 per cent greater than one month ago, seven per cent less than last year at this time and 36 per cent greater than in 1948.

Watershed soils were said by the report to be believed wetter than average, a factor favoring well-sustained flow from the snow-pack.

Reservoir water supplies are, in general, "fair to good," the report said.

NOW OVER MAINE

Naples, Me., Apr. 10—(U.P.)—Four residents of this summer resort town reported today they saw flying saucers over the famed Song locks of the Sebago lake canal.

HERE TUESDAY—The famous Danish Gymnasts team that will perform at the senior high gymnasium Tuesday night, April 11, suggests you try this for relaxation. This horizontal balancing exercise is one of many 16 young women and men will perform.

Portlander Will Be Overseas Missionary

Portland, Ore., Apr. 10—(U.P.)—Kazuyoshi Kawata, Portland, will be one of four United States Methodist youth leaders to go overseas this summer for missionary service, church officials announced here today.

Kawata will serve under the board of missions and church extension of the Methodist church. He earned his bachelor of science degree at Oregon State college and is now a graduate student at the University of Minnesota.

Danish Gymnasts, Dancers, Schedule Performance Here

Residents of the Medford area will have the opportunity to see the best in Danish physical education along with traditional folk dances Tuesday when a picked group of Danish gymnasts appear at the senior high school gymnasium.

The two-hour program is scheduled to commence at 8 p.m.

The tour is the third one in America conducted by Erik Flensted-Jensen. Sixteen young men and 16 young women will participate in the exhibition of rhythmic and fundamental gymnastics, balancing, dances, acrobatics and tumbling. The program will be a demonstration of grace and suppleness.

Team Acclaimed

Everywhere in this country the team has gone it has been acclaimed and applauded. W. J. Warner of Medford saw the group perform at Santa Barbara, Cal. He reported enthusiastically concerning them, according to Lee Ragsdale, Medford high athletic director.

One purpose of the Danish trip is to enable the team members to become acquainted with the people and scenic wonders of America and to witness democracy at work.

Open House Planned

Medford residents will have to participate in this democracy part of the group's appearance. An open house will be held in the school cafeteria after the show and all persons who wish may attend to meet and talk to the members of the team. Ragsdale said. The faculty will sell cake and coffee at the event.

Ragsdale reported also that it is hoped a number of people will be interested in keeping one or several of the Danish guests overnight Tuesday as houseguests. All persons interested should telephone the high school office as soon as possible, he said.

Mercy Flights of Medford Receives Letter of Thanks

Mercy Flights, Inc., Medford's ambulance plane operator, has received a letter from the son of the man the plane recently took from North Bend to Portland on an emergency trip. The patient was suffering from leukemia and was en route to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.

The letter to the non-profit corporation follows:
Mercy Flights, Inc.,
Medford, Oregon
Dear Sirs:

I am writing you at this time to thank you for your service that of flying my father and me to Portland, when he was very ill at North Bend.

My mother and family would like to especially thank the pilot and co-pilot who flew us, they were very kind. I hope they had no trouble on their return flight to Medford from Portland.

On To Seattle

We continued on to Seattle by US Army C-46, which was a very cold ride at 7000 feet (no electric heat as in the ambulance plane) but upon our arrival at Seattle, the Northwest airlines people met us and treated us wonderfully.

I am sorry to report that after a week at Rochester, Minn., the doctors told us that there was nothing they could do for dad, and so we returned to Fort Frances, March 27.

Again we do want to thank you for your service, and I know that dad was satisfied to leave us after Rochester doctors could do nothing for him, as he held every faith in them.

Yours very truly,
M. P. Dalseg

'South Pacific' Captures Eight Theatrical Awards

New York, Apr. 10—(U.P.)—The hit musical, "South Pacific," swept the field today by capturing eight of 16 Antoinette Perry awards, the theater's equivalent of Hollywood's Oscars.

The American Theater Guild awarded its fourth annual set of "Tonys" last night, selecting "South Pacific" and T. S. Eliot's verse play, "The Cocktail Party," as the "outstanding" productions of the season.

Authors Honored

But most of the additional awards went to the authors and cast members of the musical. Co-authors Joshua Logan and Oscar Hammerstein and Composer Richard Rodgers each received individual medallions, with Logan receiving an extra prize for his direction.

Four members of the cast honored for "distinguished" performances in a musical play included Mary Martin, Elio Pizze, Juanita Hall and Myron McCormick.

The awards which avoid the designation "best" are conferred in honor of the late Antoinette Perry, an outstanding director, for productions during a 12-month period ending March 1.

Other "Tonys" awarded included:

Distinguished performances in a dramatic play—Shirley Booth and Sidney Blackmer, both of "Come Back, Little Sheba."
Outstanding set design—Joq Mielziner for "The Innocents."
Outstanding choreography—Helen Tamiris for "Touch and Go."
Outstanding costume design—Aline Bernstein for "Regina."
Outstanding set technician—Joe Lynn, property man for "Miss Liberty."

A special award was made to Actor-Manager Maurice Evans for his work as supervisor of the New York City Theater company.

An award also was given posthumously to Producer Brock Pemberton "for distinguished contribution to the theater."

Ashland Police Hosts To Law-Abiding Folk

Ashland, Apr. 10—The Ashland police station was crammed to capacity Saturday—but most of the visitors were law-abiding citizens. Police officers were holding open house to show off the remodeling job they have done to their quarters at practically no expense to the city.

The cops themselves contributed labor and skills to renovate the station completely, build new office furniture, paint and redecorate. Only bill sent to the city was for new asphalt tile flooring.

Water, Then Fire

Rosiclare, Ill.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Julia Cochran, 77, went through fire and water when the Ohio river flooded. Mrs. Cochran had to go to her son's home when high water surrounded her house. While she was there, a fire broke out and destroyed much of the clothing she had removed from her home.

Detroit—(U.P.)—An automobile agency doubtfully turned on its new device for melting the snow off the sidewalk. It not only melted the snow. A kitten curled up on the warm cement and went to sleep.

Alfred Kohlberg (above), New York importer of Chinese textiles, said he is one of the persons who supplied information to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) on Prof. Owen Lattimore and Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup, both accused by the Senator of Communist leanings. Lattimore described Kohlberg as the leader of a Nationalist China "lobby."

Full Page Article Describes Hoover Farm Operations

The highly mechanized—and highly successful—farm operation owned by Charles Hoover and sons near Medford, was brought to the attention of the Pacific northwest yesterday in a full-page illustrated article in the farm, home and garden section of the Sunday Oregonian.

E. R. Jackman, farm crops specialist at Oregon State college, described the Hoover enterprise as a mixture of enthusiasm, mechanical genius, hard work and determination. Jackman also attributed what he termed "one of the biggest finds of the century" to the prominent Medford rancher—lotus corniculatus, or bird-foot trefoil. Hoover and his two sons, Bud and Claud, devote 500 acres of their 2,000-acre farm to the hardy legume and they have developed the crop to the point where Jackson county is now the nation's largest producer of lotus seed, according to Jackman.

The author said the Hoover income is derived from 150 Herefords, 1,000 ewes, 90 acres of ladino clover for seed, and the 500 acres of lotus for seed, hay and pasture.
