

DRIFTING BOY SCOUTS FOUND DEAD—Lifeless body of one of four young Boy Scouts who were found dead in their tiny life raft 17 hours after they were blown out into stormy Lake Erie, is carried from Coast Guard rescue ship at Fairport Harbor in Cleveland. A Coast Guard officer said the youths probably "were almost killed by exposure and exhaustion in the cold waves, then dropped down in the bottom of their raft and drowned."

.... AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood, Apr. 13—(U.P.)—Husbands all over Italy are having trouble getting their dinner on time these days. Their wives are too busy working for the movies. Not in front of cameras. The women weren't hired for their beauty. It's their sewing talent Hollywood's interested in.

Virginia MacPherson

MGM is splurging $7 million on their epic-to-end-all-epic "Quo Vadis." They'll shoot it in Rome and they're sprinkling chunks of all this dough around to housewives over there for 10,000 costumes.

But the way the women are whipping 'em up has Head Designer Herschel plenty confused. For one thing, the gals take the clothes right home with 'em and stitch a sleeve with one hand while they stir the spaghetti with the other.

So far they're right on schedule. With the costumes, that is. The spaghetti's usually dished up late.

Work Farmed Out
"They're beautiful seamstresses," Herschel said. "But they have the weirdest way of farming the work out. All the sleeves are made in Milan. The skirts are made in Naples."

"And we have to dash all around the country picking up the pieces to put the costumes together."

But the price of things in Hollywood being what it is these days this kitchen sewing circle is the fastest and cheapest way to get things done.

"And how else could we get all hand-made costumes?" Herschel added. "We may have to bounce around like tennis balls to get them, but when we do they have an authentic Roman flavor."

"Some of the embroidery is out of this world. Their know-how has been passed down for centuries and centuries."

Embroidered Sheets
And Herschel is so carried away with the duds these ladies are turning out, he's going out on a limb to predict embroidered sheets as the next fashion rage.

"I'll bet we'll see them all over Hollywood as soon as 'Quo Vadis' is released," he says. "Just wait till they get an eye full of Deborah Kerr in my 14-karat gold-plated jersey."

This little item isn't anything more than a strip of shimmering cloth. The secret, Herschel whispered, is the way you drape it. Plus, of course, what you have to drape it over.

"If you have a beautiful body," he said dreamily, "this will be the most important thing in your 1952 wardrobe. I'm having it made up in silver-plated and copper-plated cloth, too."

Bergman, Spouse May Settle Bitter Feud Out of Court

Hollywood, Apr. 13—(U.P.)—Actress Ingrid Bergman and her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, may settle out of court their bitter feud over custody of their 12-year-old daughter, Pia, and their property. Attorney Isaac Pacht indicated today.

"We are getting together on an arrangement that will be satisfactory to all parties concerned," Pacht said as a hearing to take a deposition from Dr. Lindstrom was postponed from today until Friday.

He indicated attorneys hope to settle the controversy by Saturday, when Lindstrom is due to answer a suit brought by Miss Bergman for custody of Pia and an accounting of their community property.

Lindstrom has failed to recognize a Mexican divorce she got in February a week after she gave birth February 2 in Rome to a son fathered by Italian Film Director Roberto Rossellini.

The Hollywood doctor announced he would bring his own divorce action in California to gain custody of Pia after the actress' suit was filed here. But he delayed filing his action as attorneys sought an out of court agreement.

Gregson Bautzer, Miss Bergman's attorney, is expected to return from Las Vegas, Nev., today to continue conferences with Pacht.

Pacht said there was hope that the matter would be settled without Lindstrom's disposition hearing. If no settlement has been reached by Saturday, a court order will be asked for extension of time in which Miss Bergman's suit can be answered, Pacht said.

Sea Power Seen As Protection for U.S. as War Site

Springfield, Mass., Apr. 13—(U.P.)—A top naval officer said today that sea power will safeguard the United States from becoming a battle ground in case of war.

Rear Admiral Charles B. Momsen, assistant chief of naval operations for undersea warfare, said that invasion and occupation of a major power can not be accomplished by "such half measures" as planes and submarines.

"By fully exploiting the use of sea power it will always be possible for this country to ensure that a war will not be fought on our own soil and will be carried to the terrain of the possible enemy," he said.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the local combined business men's clubs, Momsen also said that indications were strong that Russia is planning for eventual war with the United States.

"Just when, we do not know," he added.

Momsen said that the U. S. navy is putting more emphasis on anti-submarine warfare because Russia is concentrating on building undersea craft.

He said the U. S. navy will make a new type of sub, the submarine killer, its main anti-submarine weapon. The navy disclosed in Washington Monday that three of the new anti-submarine subs had been ordered.

Momsen said the "most serious problem" in anti-submarine warfare is the fact that present devices for detecting subs have shorter ranges than the effective distances for postwar torpedoes.

Until this problem is solved, Momsen said, the advantage will be with submarines.

"On the other hand if we do solve it we will be able to drive submarines off the seas," Momsen said.

"I have reason to believe that we will solve this problem, and if my prediction is correct, submarining will become a mighty dangerous business."

Central Point Grange
At the last meeting Friday, April 7 final arrangements were made for the International Tasting Supper to be held Friday, April 14, from 6:30 to 8 o'clock at the Central Point Grange hall.

Everyone is invited to come and taste the many different dishes from different countries. A program and square dancing will follow the supper. The Penny arcade of games will be held. Everyone should bring pennies. The proceeds will be used for remodeling the kitchen and buying new equipment.

After the regular business session Earl Jessy showed many slides and explained about the different weeds. In keeping with Easter the Reverend Holly Jarvis of the First Christian Church in Medford sang two Sacred numbers and Eudora Bohnert explained the true meaning of Easter. Preceding refreshments gifts were presented to the two Grange newlyweds and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Saltgaver and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Crank.

PROTECTS YOUR POCKETBOOK!

RAP your fist against these stout bars—feel the gauge of the bumper stock they're made of—and you know you've got stout protection here.

But then figure: Here are nine bumper guards (not counting the two that hold the parking lights) so that's one extra item you needn't buy.

And each is individually replaceable—if damage should occur you have only a simple part or two to replace, instead of a complete, cast-metal grille.

Thus this stunning new design—freshest front-end style note on the highways—protects your pocketbook as well as your car.

Avoids costly repair bills as it avoids "locking horns" with the car ahead. Cuts up as it cuts inches from the car's total length, thus making parking and garaging easier.
