

Scouting Exposition Slated Saturday; Details Announced

Final details for the largest Boy scout exposition ever to be presented in Medford were completed at a meeting last night, it was reported today by N. H. "Duke" Gladfelter, chairman of the event.

The event will be held at the Medford armory Saturday evening.

The latest addition to the program is the sea scout ship "Rogue," of Grants Pass, Gladfelter said. About 400 cubs, scouts, explorers and leaders will take part in the "Scouting Adventure" exposition, which has been planned for many months. James Dunlevy, chairman of the Big Pines Scout district, said that the central attraction will be a display of scout camping, conservation and pioneering, with ropes and logs used to construct two 18-foot towers, and 20-foot log bridges. A 50-foot "monkey bridge" will span the width of the Medford armory, constructed by Troop 10.

Displays Listed
Larry N. Schade, district commissioner and participation chairman, said the list of skills and activities to be displayed will include astronomy, axeman-ship, archery, marksmanship, wild west shows, minstrels, outdoor cooking, realistic first aid, rope making, woodcraft, carving and a special demonstration of the Boy scout advancement program sponsored by Troop 9 of Medford.

Doors will open at 7:30 p.m., and the flag-raising ceremony is scheduled for 8 p.m., featuring the new drum and bugle corps of Troop 40, Central Point, and Troop 19, Prospect.

The closing ceremony, featuring the year's scout theme, "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty," will be at 9:15 p.m., after presentation of ribbons to the booths and activities.

To Give Awards
The President's award, given by Council President H. D.

Christensen, will go to the most outstanding booth, and blue ribbons will be won by the best demonstrations of cubbing and scouting. Red ribbons will be awarded to the next-best displays, and participating ribbons will go to all units entered. John Eddy, neighborhood commissioner, will be in charge of presentation.

Streamers will be awarded by Commissioner John Patton to merchants who have had the

Roy Rogers Schedules National Safety Test

Hollywood, Apr. 14—(U.P.)—Western Star Roy Rogers today announced plans for his second annual national safety awards campaign for elementary schools.

The campaign is held in cooperation with the National Safety Council and Parent-Teacher associations. Rogers will award three trophies to the schools having the best accident prevention records during the 1945-50 school term ending June 30.

He said more than 5,000 schools will enter the competition for the awards.

'Workable' Flying Saucer Designed 23 Years Ago

Monterey, Cal., Apr. 14—(U.P.)—A "workable" flying saucer, designed 23 years ago and rejected during World War II as "too advanced," was described today by its inventor.

In a story copyrighted by the Monterey Peninsula Herald, Alexander G. Weygars said his flying disk, which he calls a "discopter," was patented in 1944—three years before the first flying saucer report came out of Oregon.

In Design Stage
Weygars, a Dutch-born engineer and sculptor, admits his saucer is still in the paper-design stage. He has never made a model of it. But the design, he insists, is aerodynamically sound.

Blueprints show a craft that resembles a percolator top or a covered shallow bowl with a bubble on top. The bubble would be the pilot's compartment, which Weygars said could be enlarged for "unlimited passengers."

Enclosed in the circular metal frame or rim are gasoline engine-driven rotor blades, similar to the rotors of a helicopter. The push of the rotor would propel Weygars' craft just like the helicopter.

Holes in Top
The rotors and power-plant compartments are enclosed in the discoper, the designer said. The craft has holes on its top through which air is drawn by the rotors, giving it the needed thrust out of the bottom expulsion holes.

Weygars said he believes jets can be used in place of the rotors. He said his design was rejected by Consolidated Vultee in a letter dated April, 1945, as "too advanced."

Requires Great Study
"Obviously," the letter read, "a true analysis of an invention as revolutionary in its scope as yours would require far greater study and experimentation than can be afforded at this time. We are not undertaking, therefore, to even comment and are merely advising you that its magnitude is beyond our present capacity."

Once employed as a draftsman at Northrup Aircraft in Los Angeles, Weygars holds a degree in mechanical engineering and naval architecture from Dordrecht university in Holland.

Doolittle Raiders Gather for Reunion

Palm Desert, Cal., Apr. 14—(U.P.)—Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and 38 of his 80 "Tokyo raiders" gather here today for a reunion to observe the eighth anniversary of the first U. S. attack against the Japanese mainland in World War II.

The meeting will be partly social but Raider Ted Lawson said the group also will discuss two plans. One is to gather and record the experiences of the fliers before, during and after the historic Apr. 18, 1942, air attack on Tokyo.

The other is to locate and help the Chinese who aided the fliers when they landed in China after the Tokyo raid.

The social portion of the program will be a dinner hosted by Floyd Oelum and his wife, Aviatrix Jacqueline Cochrane, at their nearby ranch, and a golf tournament and another party at the Shadow Mountain club, which is host for the reunion.

Sen. Wherry Lashes At Truman's Record

Washington, Apr. 14—(U.P.)—Senate republican Floor Leader Kenneth S. Wherry said today that President Truman "has nothing to crow about" in his five-year White House record.

The president, marking the start of his sixth year in office, told a news conference yesterday that the country is in good shape—at home and abroad—and that he deserves the credit.

The Nebraskan emphatically did not agree. "He (Mr. Truman) congratulates himself every time he turns around," Wherry snapped. "He's been patting himself on the back for the past five years, but the important thing is what the people will say in the election next fall."

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—FIVE

Douglas Winging Way Back to Washington

La Grande, Ore., Apr. 14—(U.P.)—Associate Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was on his way back to Washington today by air after being feted last night by more than 800 persons at a chuck wagon banquet in the La Grande armory.

The dinner netted $115 for the cancer drive. Douglas evaded all serious questions on national and international affairs to spend his time with lifelong friends in this area.
