WEDNESDAY REALTY VIEWS

It happens quite often, but was brought home to us again just the other day. Mr. M. after braving an appointment to look at property with me, reported quite jubilantly the next day that he had already purchased a home direct from the owner and HAD SAVED THE COMMISSION.

Fred Chez of his "wonderful buy" and made quite a point of the COMMISSION SAVED. I did not have the heart to tell him that the exact house he described was the SAME that I could have sold him for $1,000 LESS THAN HE PAID! He did not know that the owner had, just two days before, advised us that he would cut the price $1,000 should we find a buyer who could offer only that amount. This buyer had leaped at the seller's first figure because he had one idea in mind—to save commission. No, a "bargain" is not ALWAYS a bargain. Councilmen Postpone Decision on Setback

City councilmen, following a lengthy recess at their regular meeting last night, postponed until Monday, April 24, at 7:30 p. m. further consideration of the planning commission recommendation that a seven-foot setback from the property line be authorized for a projected seven-story apartment house at 10th street and Oakdale avenue.

A petition from property owners in the area opposing a setback of seven feet was submitted to the council along with the commission recommendation.

Another petition from property owners of the South Oakdale area asked the council and planning commission that no change in zone be permitted in the district that would allow construction of a building other than a residence.

It was said that erection of a service station was being considered on the northeast corner of 11th street and Oakdale. Councilman Dwight Houghton said, however, that the council was contemplating no zone change there and that no petition for a

Tuna Fish Thefts Draw Suspended Sentences

Donald Clinton Hopper and Francisco Morales, both of Imperial rooms, Medford, were given 30-day suspended jail sentences on petty larceny charges Monday afternoon.

Justice of the Peace W. P. Tucker, who imposed the sentences, said an original felony charge lodged against the pair—larceny from a store building—was reduced to the misdemeanor charge at the recommendation of the district attorney, Medford police had arrested Hopper and Morales for the theft of two cans of tuna fish, valued at 33 cents each, from a local store.
