Applegate Woman Gives Party For War Brides' Club

Doubtless there were a number of parties of one sort or another in the valley last Saturday, but one which provided extra special enjoyment was that held at the Otis Buck ranch in the little Applegate district for war brides. Mrs. Buck is English by birth, and she decided that a spring day in the Applegate country would be just the right time to give a party for the Jackson County War Brides' club, for many of them are English.

The members, with a few other friends for good measure, gathered at the Medford hotel and the cars, led by the Red Cross station wagon driven by Mrs. Richard Phair, made up a little caravan. They found the countryside fresh and green as they went along, and the Buck ranch, which lies just beyond Buncom, surrounded with fields and hills covered with spring flowers in full bloom.

Mrs. Buck had been sure that the young women would want to walk through the fields and over the hills, and this proved true. The guests wandered around in small groups and came back with hands full of lamb's ears, shooting stars or birds bills, buttercups and trilliums.

And then there was tea. Imagine the delight of the English guests to find their favorite Banbury tarts, sugar cookies of many shapes spread with a lemon curd sauce, the rich "spritz" cookies and other delicacies which are favorites in England. It was also at this time that Mrs. Frank Preston, a native of England who has lived in the Applegate district for many years, brought out a collection of colored postal cards, collected throughout her lifetime from all over England, and the English war brides fell to reminiscing over familiar scenes. Mrs. Buck, who was from North Wales, also showed a collection of English and Welsh calendars which she has had many years.

Mrs. Buck's guests included Mrs. William Burnette, temporary chairman of the group, Medford; Mrs. John L. Hawley, Central Point; Mrs. Arch Master-son, Medford; Mrs. Paul Edward Dimick, Medford; Mrs. Iris Deep, Mrs. Bernard Mathiesen, Medford; Mrs. Russell Herbert of Ashland; Mrs. Amasa Gilman of Ashland; Mrs. Emilia Bailey, Mrs. Robert Cretton, Mrs. Richard Klimek of Talent; Mrs. Harold Ross of Medford; Mrs. Erika A. Goff, Mrs. Raymond Chavis of Trail and Mrs. Charles Betz, Medford.

Mrs. Burnette, Mrs. Master-son, Mrs. Mathiesen, Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. Cretton, Mrs. Klimek, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Chavis are all natives of England. Mrs. Betz came from Ireland, Mrs. Herbert from Rome, Mrs. Bayley from Naples and Mrs. Goff and Mrs. Hawley are natives of Czechoslovakia.

Also at the party were Mrs. Harlan P. Bosworth Jr., who aided the Red Cross in arranging the gathering; Mrs. Lillian Hukill, a neighbor of the hostess, and Mrs. Buck's mother.

A table setting contest has kept a stream of Medford club-women in and out of Brophy's store all week, and has caused endless conversations about linen, china, silver, flowers and color schemes. Like everything else, each person who viewed the table had varying opinions.

Several men expressed preference for the ultra-modern table which Mrs. Edwin O. McKean, Mrs. Larry Miller and Mrs. Lou Bates set for the Lady Lions, this having a heavy tomato red cloth set with absolutely plain white Haviland china. Many women, on the other hand, were keen about the "pink" table set by Mrs. Charles W. Lemery and Mrs. John Graf for Chapter A.A. of the PEO sisterhood, or the one planned and executed by Mrs. J. E. Staples, Mrs. E. Ronald Rice and Mrs. Eugene Orr. Their color scheme was in shades of blue, pink and dusty rose.

Mrs. Lemery's 150-year-old Venetian glass, used on the PEO chapter table, was widely admired and many persons picked up glasses or cups to examine them. This kept Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, on the staff of the store, in a tizzy for fear someone would drop one. When asked if they were insured, she confessed that the store had prudently arranged for special insurance during the display.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Evan Reames viewed the Kiwanian Dames exhibit and picking up one of the early American pressed glass water goblets, which belong to Mrs. Staples, told what to look for to determine whether the glass is genuine early American or a copy. The goblets are of sawtooth design with square base.

Mrs. Reames, who knows her antiques, then was shown a beautiful hand-painted china jar with silver top and handle which is the property of Mark Taylor, watchmaker in the store. She said it was Victorian in style and that these jars, which look like a patrician version of a cookie jar, were called "biscuit jars."

Amazing indeed are the contents of the mail coming into a newspaper office. A food release last week revealed the peculiar fact that pickles have replaced tomatoes as the third most popular item of canned foods. The list used to read peas, corn and tomatoes. Now its peas, corn and pickles. Speaking of food, the Central Point Extension unit has voted to make a study of the distribution of surplus foods in Oregon. Such a study might turn up some very interesting material.

Recently a housewife wrote to a nationally broadcast radio program on food to inquire why, if there are such vast quantities of dried eggs on hand in government warehouses, can't they be purchased in the food stores of her city? The food specialist had to admit she didn't know why, and declared that dried eggs were a perfectly good substitute for fresh eggs.

This week's mail also brought the following tidbit: A Dutch violinist has invented a gadget that turns the pages of the score during the playing without interrupting it. A small magnet, attached to the violin's scroll, turns the page when brought near a needle which is fixed to the bottom of the page. It can also be used on other instruments.

Another recent item said pastel colored dispersers are now on the market and one about two told of dolls which slip liquids through a straw, dolls with "roving eyes" and a hobby horse which gallops.

Program Numbers Given For On-to-Eugene Concert

The a cappella choir, band, girls' chorus, orchestra, and two small vocal ensembles will be featured in the "On-to-Eugene" benefit concert Tuesday, April 25, in the high school auditorium. These groups are among those from Medford senior high school receiving superior ratings at the district contest in Grants Pass last week, and these superior ratings in turn make the groups eligible for entry in the state music contest at Eugene May 5 and 6.

The choir will open the program and sing four numbers representative of the various types of selections done during the year. "O Sacred Head" by Christianus represents sacred music and "God's Mountains," modern. To represent the negro spiritual is "Deep River," arranged by Roy Ringwald, and "On the Yoke" is a Russian folk-song arranged by Stone.

The girls' sextet and boys' octet will sing the selections they used for contest presentation. No instrumental ensembles will be included in the program, but 14 orchestra members and 15 band members are eligible for state contest activities as soloists and in ensembles.

The 95-voice girls' chorus will follow the choir and sing "Alleluia" by Mozart, "May Day Carol" an air from Essex county arranged by Deems Taylor, and the novelty "Nursery Tune" arranged by Harry Robert Wilson.

Three of the selections to be played by the orchestra are those that won them top honors in the recent contest. These are "Bohemian Song" by Weinberger, "Menuet" by Valstin for string orchestra, and "Introduction to Act III from Lohengrin" by Wagner. Also on the program will be "Pavanne" by Morton Gould. A pavanne is a dance step which had great popularity in the late 16th century, and Mr. Gould has dressed it up in the modern idiom. Keith Mirick plays solo cornet on this number.

The band's contributions to the program will begin with the "March of Youth" by Olivadotti. This is a concert march and was among the numbers by the massed festival band at Grants Pass last week. "Treasure Island" by Osborne and "Orpheus" overture by Offenbach will be used by the band as state contest selections. The band will conclude the evening's listening with "Comic Strip Suite" by Walters. As the title implies, its four sections give musical interpretations to Flash Gordon, "Zowie, Blondie, and Snuffy Smith."

High school directors are Miss Lorraine Veidt, Miss Melba Chehak and I. A. Mirick. The On-to-Eugene concert begins at 8 p. m. Tickets may be purchased from any high school music student.

There will be square dancing, canasta and pinche games, a candy booth, hand made linens for sale, and refreshments of cake, pie and coffee will be on sale during the evening.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Pythian Sisters Chief Visits Medford Lodge; Other Guests Present

Mrs. Margaret S. Myers, grand chief of Pythian Sisters of Oregon, made her official visit to the Medford lodge Tuesday, April 18. A potluck dinner was served, followed by a short program. Miss Donna Mack, accompanied by Miss Merna Hannaford, sang. Honored guests introduced were Mrs. W. L. Walden, district deputy grand chief; Mrs. Annie Erdman, grand guard, of Bandon; Mrs. Mabel Roberts, supreme representative, Ashland; Mrs. Ella Roper, past supreme representative, Grants Pass, and Mrs. Myers, grand chief.

Each honored guest was presented a corsage by Mrs. Dollie Love, most excellent chief. A short addendum was given by five members, Mrs. Walden, Mrs. Harry Bryant, Mrs. Lee Williams, Mrs. Florence Siegel and Mrs. Della Watkins, who presented Mrs. Myers a check to be used toward purchase of a television set for the Pythian home in Vancouver, Wash.

Among outstanding activities reported for the early part of May were the May Fellowship tea for which members of the Medford Council of Church Women will be sponsors. The event will be held in the First Presbyterian church Friday afternoon, May 5.

The annual "Mother-Daughter" luncheon at the Methodist church will be held on May 13 with Circles 2 and 3 in charge. Members are urged to attend the Rogue zone all-day meeting at the Ashland Methodist church, April 28.

Final plans were completed during the afternoon for the "tiny tots fashion show" which circle members will present the afternoon of May 12 in the church parlors. Mrs. Vern Wilson will introduce the models and describe the fashions shown. Mrs. J. C. Sparks and Mrs. Floyd Lewis are co-chairmen for the event.

Since the May meeting will be the last gathering of circle eight members for the church year, it was decided to hold a potluck luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lewis and have an exchange of handkerchiefs. Games are to be arranged by Mrs. Vern Wilson. The church year begins in June and at that time members of the Woman's Society membership will be rotated thus changing the membership in the nine circles of the society, it was stated.

Woman's Society Ends Study Meeting Series

Mrs. Jessie Minear, who has been in charge of the study group sessions for the Methodist Women's Society during the month of April, states that these study series have been completed. Mrs. E. R. Gilstrap reviewed the last chapter of the book "Women of Scripture" discussing the topic "Across the Boundaries of Race." Her interesting and comprehensive review was followed by a general discussion with copies of paintings pertaining to the study being displayed by Mrs. Gilstrap.

Mrs. J. C. Sparks was in charge of devotions. At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Meredith Groves, in whose home the several study sessions have been held, served refreshments.

Teachers' Service To Present Pupils In Annual Recital

First of a series of annual spring music recitals will be presented Sunday, April 23, at 2:30 p. m. at the studio of Robert A. Guderian, 1001 Federal. Teachers Service corporation instructor. This first recital will be composed primarily of beginning violin and guitar students who started studying last fall, while several more advanced students will assist.

Participating as guitar players will be Susan Martin, Susan Walker, Alvin Edsall, Joe Burns, Weldon Oetken and Ronald Plankenhorn, while those playing the violin will be June Atkins, Jacquetta Cabler, Doris Ryn, Nancy Walstead, Stanley Archer, and Wayne Niehaus.

All parents and friends are cordially invited to attend the recital which has been planned to give these young students experience in playing before an audience. Mr. Guderian states, Similar Sunday afternoon recitals are tentatively planned to give other students of the school a similar opportunity before the final summer concert where the entire enrollment will be presented.

This will be the first time in several years that students of the Federated Teachers Service corporation have presented a recital in Medford and it is hoped that it will be well received, as other such performances have become quite popular among many of the other studios of the school according to Mr. Guderian.
