Presbyterian Women Give Luncheon, Fashion Show

Grace Circle of First Presbyterian church and Adrienne's combined forces Tuesday to present a luncheon and fashion show themed to spring and to Mother's day. The event was at the church, with a bazaar held in connection with the luncheon-show. Models for the show were Mrs. Vincent P. Bevis, Mrs. Wayne H. Jamison, Mrs. Louis LeMire, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. A. J. Loeffler and Mrs. I. W. Housechild, and they paraded in dresses suitable for "mothers of all ages."

Mrs. Bevis opened the show modeling a sun dress of faded blue denim with a matching cap and Mrs. Jamison's first appearance was in a pique sun dress of pink worn with a pique cloche. Mrs. LeMire first modeled a grey plaid dress of French gingham, which she wore with a ribbon hat and string gloves. Mrs. Jones first modeled a blue frock of classic design with panama hat trimmed with a blue bow, and Mrs. Loeffler's first appearance was in a yellow jersey suit featuring the "high" fashion of a little collar, big pockets and lots of buttons. It was worn with a hat of milan straw with brown velvet bow. Mrs. Housechild first modeled a butcher linen dress of navy blue with a blue and white sailor hat worn straight over the brow, string gloves and a white bag. Mrs. Bevis opened the display of afternoon dresses by wearing a cotton jacket dress of brown with stripes woven into the material. Mrs. Jamison's afternoon dress was of blue and white linen with white jacket and her white pique hat was topped with a blue quill. A flame-colored dress of baby butcher linen was modeled by Mrs. LeMire, and this also had a jacket. The afternoon dress modeled by Mrs. Jones was of aquamarine colored shantung, and with this she wore a wide hat. Mrs. Loeffler next appeared in a navy blue sleeveless linen dress made with matching jacket and wide white pique revers. Accessories were of red. Mrs. Housechild next modeled a street costume of navy blue with paisley print and her hat was a baku straw with ribbon. A number of dresses more formal in character were then modeled, with Mrs. Bevis appearing in a glamorous brown organdy with very full skirt. She wore this with a wide straw hat of natural color. Mrs. Jamison wore a red and white dotted swiss frock made with a tiered skirt and her white straw hat was covered with bright red poppies. A square dance dress modeled by Mrs. LeMire, this being a red print with rick-rack braid trimming. Mrs. Jones next modeled a nylon print of beige and black with a demure little black straw hat with veil. Mrs. Loeffler appeared in a heavy linen dress with a skirt of all-over ecru cut work embroidery. Her white hat was trimmed with pink roses. An evening dress of hyacinth blue lace was modeled by Mrs. Housechild. Mrs. O. L. Overmyer, Mrs. E. R. Hoppe and Mrs. Don Lawrence brought the show to a dashing close by appearing in fashions of yesterday, Mrs. Overmyer wearing two gowns from the "terrible twenties." Mrs. Hoppe and Mrs. Lawrence appeared as a twosome, both wearing black saten "bathing dresses" complete with rows of white braid and long black cotton stockings. Mrs. Joseph Antony was commentator for the show and Abby Green furnished the background music. Mrs. Ben Stafford was luncheon chairman and Mrs. Charles Reames was show chairman.

Observance Asked For Music Week

"Music is a great force for social harmony, and the historic spirit of the American people and of civilization itself is preserved in music which has grown and advanced with mankind," Mayor Diamond Fynn declared in his recent proclamation urging Medford residents to observe the week of May 7 through 13 as National Music week. Fynn brought out that music is generally recognized as an essential and effective influence upon which people throughout the ages have come to depend for entertainment and inspiration. The observance will mark the 27th anniversary of National Music week. Its keynote will be "America's Contribution to the World of Music." Fynn urged all citizens and civic and educational groups to focus attention on music in order that a deeper appreciation may be fostered during the week.
