Preparations Made For Security Week, Armed Forces Day

Tempo of preparation for observance of Armed Forces day, May 30, and National Security week, May 14 to 20, were stepped up this week-end with a conference held Saturday morning for high school student officers, and a meeting of representatives of Medford civic, veteran and fraternal organizations scheduled Tuesday evening.

Harry B. Wales, "civilian coordinating chairman" of the week-long event, which will feature displays of weapons, a parade, and other activities, has named to take charge of "operation high school" which will start the week's observances.

May 15 has also been designated as Youth day, and Saturday's conference was designed to lay plans for this event. Elliott Becken, assistant city superintendent of schools and a captain in the army reserves, will cooperate in arranging for the teamsters union here, also named to the Armed Forces day committee by Capt. William O'Brien, project officer. Local unions have offered their cooperation and have named a sub-committee to work on the project, according to Wales. They have also offered to erect reviewing and speakers' stands, and the frames for outdoor moving picture screens.

The Grange

Eagle Point Grange
At the open meeting of the Eagle Point Grange Tuesday, May 2, there were 12 candidates for political office present. Mrs. Wertz, lecturer, was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Lew Graves played the piano and sang.

Two games were played, the first where those attending were to imitate animals, and the second where the candidates present were required to balance on a milk bottle and eat a large doughnut. Grangers said this was designed to break down the candidates' "dignity," and they commented that it did so.

The candidates present, who spoke briefly after being introduced by Wilbur E. Davies, were for sheriff, Ray Marks and Howard Gaul, republicans, and Delroy Aldershof and W. L. Taylor, democrats; for county commissioner, Robert Lytle and Lew Graves, republicans, and Albert Straus, democrat; for justice of the peace, Medford district, Joe Cave, democrat, and W. P. Tucker, republican; for state senate, Ben Day, republican; and for representative, E. H. Mann, republican, and Robert Rucker, democrat.

After the talks, Master Paul Force called the Grange to order. New members obligated were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wattenburg, and Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hayes and their daughter, Margery.

Mrs. Theron Taylor, Home Economics chairman, announced the next serving committee would be Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Moore and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mittelstead. She reminded members about the "birthday bank."

Chaplain Mrs. John Clarke reported Mrs. Mittelstead had gone south for medical treatment, and that Bill Perry was none too well.

Mrs. Roy Smith reported on her recent visit to a Grange in Olympia, Wash.

It was voted to open Grange at 8:30 p. m., daylight saving time, during the summer months starting May 16.

In addition to the candidates who were Grange members, visitors included Mr. Nealon of Sams Valley Grange.

To Show Weapons
The marine corps has shipped in a display of captured Japanese weapons for display during the week, as well as sound equipment to be used in the program. Additional marine corps non-commissioned officers have been detailed to Medford during the week.

F. H. Van Pelt, representing the Medford Elks club, is another member of the general committee, and has announced that the Elks will enter two large floats in the Armed Forces day parade on the theme "Wake Up America."

Veterans organizations, including Post 15, American Legion, and Post 1833, Veterans of Foreign Wars, have indicated they will participate in general activities planned for the week, and will send representatives to the Tuesday meeting, which will be at 8 p. m. in the Medford armory.

Capt. O'Brien said that Medford has been designated as a "key city" in the state's observance of the day and week. He suggested that each high school in the area arrange to present a short program during the week, stressing the general theme of "team for defense."

County Employment Continued Upward Trend Last Month

Employment in Jackson county is maintaining its upward trend, it was reported here yesterday by the Medford office of the state employment service. As of April 30, there were 12 per cent fewer idle workers here than at the same date a year ago.

There were 1,400 unemployed the last day of April—26 per cent less than in March. The employment service said that while the total number of unemployed has steadily decreased, an increasingly large proportion of the total is made up of people who have lived here a year or less.

John J. Patton, manager of the local office, said this indicates that new arrivals should expect considerable delay in finding employment. Migration into this area is on the increase again and will have a major effect on the amount of unemployment through the summer months, he said.

The migration he referred to is made up entirely of persons seeking permanent locations here and does not include transient seasonal labor.

The Medford office expects that the demand for help in the county should increase considerably in May with a peak reached sometime in September, somewhat later than usual. The local labor supply appears to be adequate for all foreseeable needs, according to Patton.

The limited, along with division towmen, received Coyle's warning. The passenger train was running almost parallel to the freight and had no time to stop before one derailed car lurched almost in the path of the limited.
