

Jean Hart's Diary

Sunday, May 7

Mother's Day—always tickles me. Promoters was so eloquent about Mother's Very Own Day . . . and if to celebrate she doesn't have to do the breakfast dishes—she's in.

However, I blame most of it on Whistler's Portrait of His Mother—not many Mothers I know would be so placid about being pastured in a corner with a lace cap and a rocking chair.

No—the Mothers I know would like a beautiful new blouse—lacey off the shoulder for square dancing or sheer batiste with lace insertion to wear under a summer suit.

Or they would like a pale blue batiste nightgown with eyelet embroidery and a satin ribbon.

Or Nylon slips that stay beautiful no matter if you wash them as often as you wash your hands.

Or hose that are guaranteed. Or jewelry to fill in the vacancies left by sun dresses and play suits.

Yep, Mother's place used to be in the home—now home is where Mother hangs her barbecue grill—but Mothers are kind of wonderful and after all Sunday is her very own day.

Community Plans Open House Friday; Announce Hostesses

Plans for open house at Community hospital on Friday, May 12, National Hospital day, have been announced. The open house will be from two to four o'clock, and tea will be served. Pouring will be Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, wife of the chairman of the board of governors, and Mrs. Eugene Thorndike, whose husband is a board member. Hostesses will be Mrs. Porter J. Neff, member of the board, and Mrs. Ralph Norris, Mrs. Cole Holmes, Mrs. Allen R. Smith, Mrs. Otto Frohnmayer and Mrs. Leon Boomer, whose husbands are members of the board. Another board member, Mrs. Leonard Carpenter, is out of the city at present.

May 12 is observed as National Hospital day since it is the birthday of Florence Nightingale.

Medford Sojourners' club will meet Thursday, May 12, at the YMCA. Dessert at 1 p. m. will be followed by bridge, canasta and pinochle.

Medford Lady Elks Plan Party for Neighbor Clubs

One of the largest of the coming social events will be the annual party which Lady Elks of Medford give for Lady Elks of Ashland and Grants Pass. It has been set for Tuesday, May 16, and some 250 are expected to gather for the event.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. in the party lounge, and cards will follow. Reservations are to be made by calling Mrs. Frank Littel, 2-4225, or Mrs. R. A. Young, 2-9039, not later than May 13.

Mrs. Orrin L. Brown, Lady Elks chairman, has named a number of committees to assist her. Mrs. Arthur Hess, retiring chairman of the group, is assisting Mrs. Brown as co-chairman. Others are Mrs. John Henson, entertainment chairman; Mrs. Charles Howard, games; Mrs. Ted Hauer, prizes; Mrs. Ernest Scott, decorations; Mrs. Claude Hoover, serving; Mrs. James Grigsby, Mrs. William Eather-ton, Mrs. Frank Prime and Mrs. Don Wright, reception; Mrs. Claude Holmes, flowers.

Rural women of Jackson county "had their day" last Wednesday when they gathered at the Central Point Grange hall for the annual Homemakers' Festival of extension units. At every festival at least one person remarks on the change in the nation's "farm" women. Time was when practically everyone could recognize a farmer's wife or daughter by unfashionable clothing and a general lack of style, but this is no longer true.

The home extension service in this county has done much to widen the opportunities of farm women for self-improvement and has helped them in many other ways. In the last two years Jackson county extension unit members have learned, among other things, how to apply good rules of interior decoration for the home, how to repair their electrical appliances and what constitutes good home lighting. They have lessons almost every year on sewing, and cooking hints this year were in the field of foreign dishes. Last year the women learned a little about the laws which particularly affect families and homes, and this year they had lessons on how to make lampshades for their homes and gloves for themselves.

To be sure that the subjects studied are what the women need and want, a survey is made each year on topics, with each unit giving program suggestions. At Wednesday's meeting several of the women were clever enough to make little clever ornaments for a hobby, use all manner of feathers. Mrs. Willard Cave of Brownsboro wore one made by Mrs. Johnston out of grey duck feather and red ribbon. Pheasant feathers are especially pretty, she says, or even feathers from the old red rooster out in the barnyard.

Miss Edith Freeman, who spoke for the afternoon session of the festival, advanced an idea which seems to the theme of many a talk given recently by child welfare workers, psychiatrists, physicians and others who are worried about the nation's growing delinquency, high divorce rate, increasing amounts of mental illness and general lack of social adjustment among both children and adults.

This same idea had permeated the reports of the various people who attended the recent Governor's Conference for Children and Youth at a meeting Monday night. The "report" meeting almost turned out to be one of those affairs where there are more people speaking than there are in the audience; sixteen in the audience, nine at the speaker's table. This in spite of the fact that it was sponsored by the League of Women Voters, AAUW, PTA and Junior Service league, four of the largest and

Epsilon Sigma Alpha To Hold Party Today; Will Honor Mothers

Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority has made plans for a Founders' day and Mothers' day party to be given today at the home of Mrs. Chester Peterson, 2584 Bullock road. The event will be from 3 to 4:30 p. m.

Plans for the party were made at a meeting of the group held at the Girls' Community club Monday. The program was provided by Miss Helen Johnson, who gave an interesting talk on "Rogue Indian Wars."

Mr. Morrow's father operated the Brookhurst orchard here for many years and the family was widely known.

Married

Of interest here is news of the wedding of Miss Janet Horsley to Norman Nelson, the rites having taken place April 20 in Salt Lake City.

opel J. Wesley Horsley and Mrs. Horsley, lived in Medford during the war, her father having been stationed at Camp White. She attended Medford senior high school at that time. The newlyweds are living in Salt Lake City.

St. Mark's Guild To Complete Plans For May Card Party

Final plans will be made this week for the annual spring benefit card party of St. Mark's Evening guild, to be held May 17 in the guild hall of the church. This is the guild's major project for the year, and preparations are extensive.

Both bridge and canasta are to be played. Reservations are being made with Mrs. John G. Crawford, 2-5733; Mrs. Wright A. Scoville, 2-7321 and Mrs. Berwick L. Wood, 2-9116.

Mrs. N. H. Gladfelter is general chairman, with Miss Ann Drysdale as her assistant chairman.

Mrs. L. G. Miles, who will take charge of table decorations, is being assisted by Mrs. Fred Carr, Mrs. Norman Hand, Mrs. Warren T. Elliott and Mrs. Jack D. Wood. Heading the refreshment committee is Mrs. Edward P. Barnett, and her assistants include Mrs. Gordon Hudson, Mrs. Charles Hefner and Mrs. Laurence Butler.

The large committee for tables is headed by Mrs. Robert W. Newland, and serving with her are Mesdames T. C. Barker, George R. V. Bolster, Charles E. Stafford, Hugh Bates, Don Kent, W. W. Deakins, Richard E. Watson, Robert Wilcox, D. W. Brainerd and Joe Wittenberger.

Mrs. Vera Strader heads the prizes committee, with Mrs. Paul Selby assisting, and Mrs. Floyd Baker is chairman of the flower committee. Mrs. John G. Crawford is ticket chairman, with Mrs. Wright Scoville and Mrs. Berwick Wood assisting. Mrs. Robert Dames is publicity chairman.

The regular meeting of the guild is set for Monday, May 8 in the parish house at 8 p. m. and the evening will be spent in final preparations for the party. Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Bolster.

Dear Families:

We have been watching Mother browsing through the store and have noted her delight in . . .

The new pottery in enchanting spring time colors—flower bedecked—as though the roses, violets and orchids, had been bewitched forever as they formed a nosegay on planters, ashtrays, cigarette boxes, vases.

Friendship cups and saucers—as lovely as a dream for today and tomorrow bequeathing.

Brass and copper welded into platters, vases, candlesticks and gleaming with the heart deep beauty of burnished metals.

Presents for mother range in price from 59c . . . The least expensive, charming in its simplicity. Choose at least a card from a gala selection. Anyone can afford to be sentimental on Mother's Day.
