Medford Artist To Show Pictures

Clifford Platz, Medford artist, has been invited to exhibit at the Rubin gallery and studio in Longview, Wash.

Virginia B. Rubin, director of the gallery, has written that the gallery will be available June 9 through June 30, and has asked Mr. Platz to submit about 20 paintings. He works in both oils and water colors, as well as the new casein paint.

Mr. Platz only began to paint in recent years and was much encouraged recently because of comments on his paintings exhibited at the Oregon Society of Artists annual spring show in Portland. A Portland critic, and several members of the society, commented that Mr. Platz' work showed more improvement during the year than that of any other member of the society whose works were displayed.

The Rubin gallery has only opened in recent months and is said to be unusually attractive.
