Radio Dial Lights

Johnny Aherne

Ever see a detective who could take off for a week-end and really rest? According to the best script writers, that's like a doctor going to a surgical convention. So it is with Sherlock Holmes tomorrow at 8 p. m. on KVJC. Watson and the great sleuth board a freighter bound for the port of Barranca. . . for the supposed rest. . . only to be involved in murder at the Temple of Reeston. Sounds complicated and probably is, but only Watson can give you the entire plot.

A pointed question will be the subject of "America's Town Meeting" tonight, 9 o'clock. Two noted men, James Breston . . . of the New York Times . . . and Don Hollenbeck, radio commentator . . . will discuss "Is the American press doing its job today?" An officer of the U. S. Air Forces will be featured on "Time For Defense," tonight at 8 o'clock on KVJC. He's general Hoyt S. Vandenberg. . . no less than chief of staff. . . and he'll be interviewed on the subject. . . "The U. S. Air Force Today." This will be the fourth in a special series of interviews on the program to acquaint the public with the entire armed forces picture.

If there's anybody reading this who doesn't know who Sam Cowling of the Breakfast Club is, better tune in about 8 a. m. any weekday and get acquainted. Sam has something to say about something. . . just about continuously. His latest addition to his comm file on the wonders of modern womanhood is. . . "Modern women may be affected, but they don't put on much."

And before you throw things, remember. . . that was strictly a quote job from Cowling.

For those who want information on Social Security. . . whence it comes. . . and why it goes. . . listen tomorrow at 8:45 p. m. for Mr. O. K. Kimbrel, local S.S. representative.

RABBI VISITS

Morse Paints Gloomy Foreign Picture

Eugene, Ore., May 9—(U.P.)—Sen. Wayne Morse (R., Ore.), warned professors at the University of Oregon here Saturday that the "ghosts of isolation are stalking the floors of the senate."

A candidate for the republican renomination in the May 19 primary, Morse spoke to a meeting of the Association of University Professors.

Morse served as president of the Oregon chapter of the AAUP and was once dean of the university's law school.

He painted a gloomy picture of the foreign policy crisis, and predicted that Europe would fall to communism in two years if United States aid was withdrawn.

The senator said communist domination of Europe and Asia would lead to a loss of freedom in America, "within a quarter of a century."

Medford Musician Has Appendicitis Operation
When Medford's high school band played in the state music convention in Eugene Saturday, it was minus a cornetist. Ned Landers, instead of occupying his usual chair, was in the university infirmary recovering from an emergency appendectomy. Ned became ill while traveling to Eugene on the bus with his fellow players, and was taken to the infirmary shortly after arrival.

However, Ted, the other half of the twin-team of Ned and Ted Landers, was in the trombone section of the band as usual.

SANER VIEW OF ALCOHOLISM

Speaking for myself, writes a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, I doubt very much that I would have been willing to admit I was an alcoholic had I been told I was a moral weakling rather than a very sick person who could arrest my illness by simply staying away from the first drink.

When a man or a woman, through fear, escape, frustration or various other factors, continues the correspondent, goes over the borderline of heavy drinking to compulsive, excessive drinking which is called alcoholism, getting well by himself is in most cases an impossibility. When this condition is reached the man or woman is truly in the throes of an illness, which in our opinion can be both physical and mental.

In telling a person who comes to us for help, continues the members of A.A., that he or she is, first, suffering from an illness, and second, that something can be done about it if he or she so desires, we put the person in a frame of mind which makes him or her ready to accept the program of Alcoholics Anonymous, which is laid out in the 12 steps. (For the 12 steps any reader may write Alcoholics Anonymous, P.O. Box 459, Grand Central Annex, New York 17, N.Y.)

You are so right, Dr. Brady, in saying that the active alcoholic's behavior is immature, infantile and escapist. But in the process of growth which is made possible through the AA program, one's set of values is bound to change, and I personally have seen in hundreds of cases moral responsibility, integrity and emotional maturity in the newly integrated personality which has come into being through living along the lines suggested to us in the program of recovery.

And you are so right about that, my friend. I have seen that same development of a newly integrated personality under the kindly, patient care of members of Alcoholics Anonymous. Indeed, the great sincerity and even self-sacrifice which more advanced members of A.A. devote to new members is an inspiring thing to see, and no doubt it contributes largely to the success Alcoholics Anonymous groups everywhere have in restoring otherwise incurable inebriates to sobriety and happiness.

Oh, oh, there I spilled the beans—what but a disease can be "incurable?"

After all, children, it is a detail of little consequence whether I call alcoholism a bad habit or a disease. When I said here a few months ago that alcoholism is not a "disease," that rather the alcoholic should be disabused of the idea that he or she has a "disease" other than that caused by the poison, alcohol, and made to realize that he or she can be rehabilitated only by his or her own determination, once the error of his or her infantile pattern of conduct has been completely explained—there was an astonishingly large reaction from readers. Readers seemed to be about evenly divided, that is, as many protested this concept of alcoholism as approved it.

But on re-examination of the letters of protest and accord I am constrained to note that scarcely any of those in accord are from alcoholics (at least they do not mention their alcoholism) and many of those in protest are from members of Alcoholics Anonymous or from persons who are or have been alcoholics.

I said alcoholism is not a disease. By the same token one may say epilepsy, migraine, angina pectoris or schizophrenia is not a disease since between attacks, spells or seizures the affected individual may be normal, to all tests a physician may apply.

The view so well expressed by the Alcoholics Anonymous correspondent whose letter I quote above will be mine from here on. Alcoholics Anonymous can teach physicians a great deal about the nature and control of alcoholism.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
Dope
Your opinion as to outcome of taking (a heavy dose) of benzadrine each day over a period of a year. (Mrs. W. F.)

Answer—I believe the effect would be unhappy in most instances. Benzadrine should be taken only under the constant supervision of your physician.
