RATTLE THOSE BONES BUT DON'T TWIST THEM

In line with Darwin's theory concerning the survival of the fittest, untold thousands of years have contributed to the ultimate selection of the type of bones we now possess. Bones have been shortened, lengthened, thickened and thinned according to the needs of the individual competing for survival. Modern man has little natural need for the bony structure of the Neanderthal or other primitive man. The highly unnatural and excessive strains placed upon bones in what is called "sport" such as football, can hardly be expected to contribute much to the bony formation of the man of the remote future.

Many thousands of years from now, the effect of modern labor-saving devices may result in the development of a species of man of considerably lighter bony framework than that of the modern man today. Man today has a bony framework capable of resisting enormous stresses—but with certain and often unsuspected limitations. According to the National Bureau of Standards, human bone has double the inherent strength of seasoned hickory and about one-fourth that of cast iron. Sections of bone removed from the extremities can withstand a pressure of 23,000 pounds before giving way, yet the same bones give way to twisting strain at 3,000 pounds per square inch.

Strong as bones may be, the tendons and ligaments attached to them may remain intact after the bone has snapped. Stresses applied counter to the usual orbit or range of a bone's movement can be resisted to a point for beyond that applied in a twisting or rotary manner. Thus fractures (any break is a fracture) may occur in the presence of seemingly slight injuries. Many persons are reluctant to undergo the expense of an x-ray examination of an injured area because they feel that the force involved was insufficient to cause a fracture.

A case in point involved a ballet dancer. Years of practice had produced enormously strong and supple muscles which enabled her to leap about effortlessly and land "light as a cat." In a routine practice drill, she noticed a stinging pain in her leg following a leap in which "landing" abruptly stopped a twisting turn. X-ray examination of the leg revealed a fracture extending two-thirds of the way up the entire outer bone of the leg.

Elderly persons are often said to "fall and break their hip." Actually more of these people break their hip first and fall afterward. The break is caused

Anti-Picketing Injunction Refused

Roseburg, Ore., May 17—(U.P.) Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly refused to grant an anti-picketing injunction to the Umpqua Dairy against the Umpqua Valley Milk Producers association here late yesterday.

In his nine-page decision, Judge Wimberly said the association's picketing was legal, because it was not a strike as defined by law.

The decision questioned the distinction between an association such as the milk producers and a union. It said the court felt that if picketing by labor unions was legal, so was that of a farmers' organization.

The judge criticized State Milk Administrator Thomas L. Ohlsen for his failure to act when the dispute over minimum milk prices arose.

Jacksonville and Butte Falls each reported one case of chicken pox. Talent three cases of influenza. Central Point one case of measles and Trail one case of pneumonia.

"Your medicine can't be beat," says this Medford lady. "Acid and gas in my stomach made me suffer awfully, and my husband was terribly constipated. We use a box of it a week, and it can't be beat." Folks who know the misery of gas pressure and feel like their stomachs will burst after every meal and who often have to eat because of the misery that follows often find that irregular bowel action is the cause, and KALO-DEX taken shortly before meals mixes with the food and helps to eliminate poisonous waste matter through its laxative action.

By Johnny Ahern

In the youngster's file: When a young girl asks "The Lone Ranger" and Tonto to help her with a plan to catch bank robbers, the plan looks as though it will work but complications put all three in great danger. It's the Lone Ranger show tonight at 7 o'clock.

In the same time period tomorrow night, it's "counterspy" with the story of a million dollar swindle that ends in... murder. A title that's bound to match... "The Case of the Sanctimonious Solicitor."

Walter Kiernan says: When they give a big party in Moscow, everybody turns out who hasn't been turned in.

With these new thinking robots coming out... the machines are getting so smart they no longer need men. A footnote: How about women?

Remember to take time to "Linger Awhile" tomorrow at 9 p.m. with Fred Beuhner. Some of your favorite songs will be on the show... as you have requested them.

If you think you're having trouble keeping your lawn in shape, you might ask Warren Nash how it's done. Looks easy, the way he goes about it.
