Federal Deficit Expected To Be About $5 Billion

Washington, May 17—(U.P.)—With 45 days remaining in the 1950 fiscal year, Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder anticipates a federal deficit of at least $5 billion. The budget bureau, in a forecast several weeks ago, placed the probable deficit at about $5,400,000,000.

Snyder told a news conference today that the deficit resulted from such "inadvertent circumstances" as large scale foreign aid, defense spending, and the tax cut voted by the republican congress in 1948. But he emphasized that the drop in tax revenues this year has been accompanied by reduced federal spending.

Latest treasury figures show that federal spending so far this fiscal year totals $34,312,323,313 compared with $30,901,355,355 for the like date last year. The secretary said federal fiscal policies had played a major role in averting possible depression in 1949.

Snyder refused to comment on the reported United States loan to Argentina. The national advisory council, of which Snyder with the secretaries of state and commerce, is a member, is expected to approve a reported $125 million export-import bank loan to Argentina.

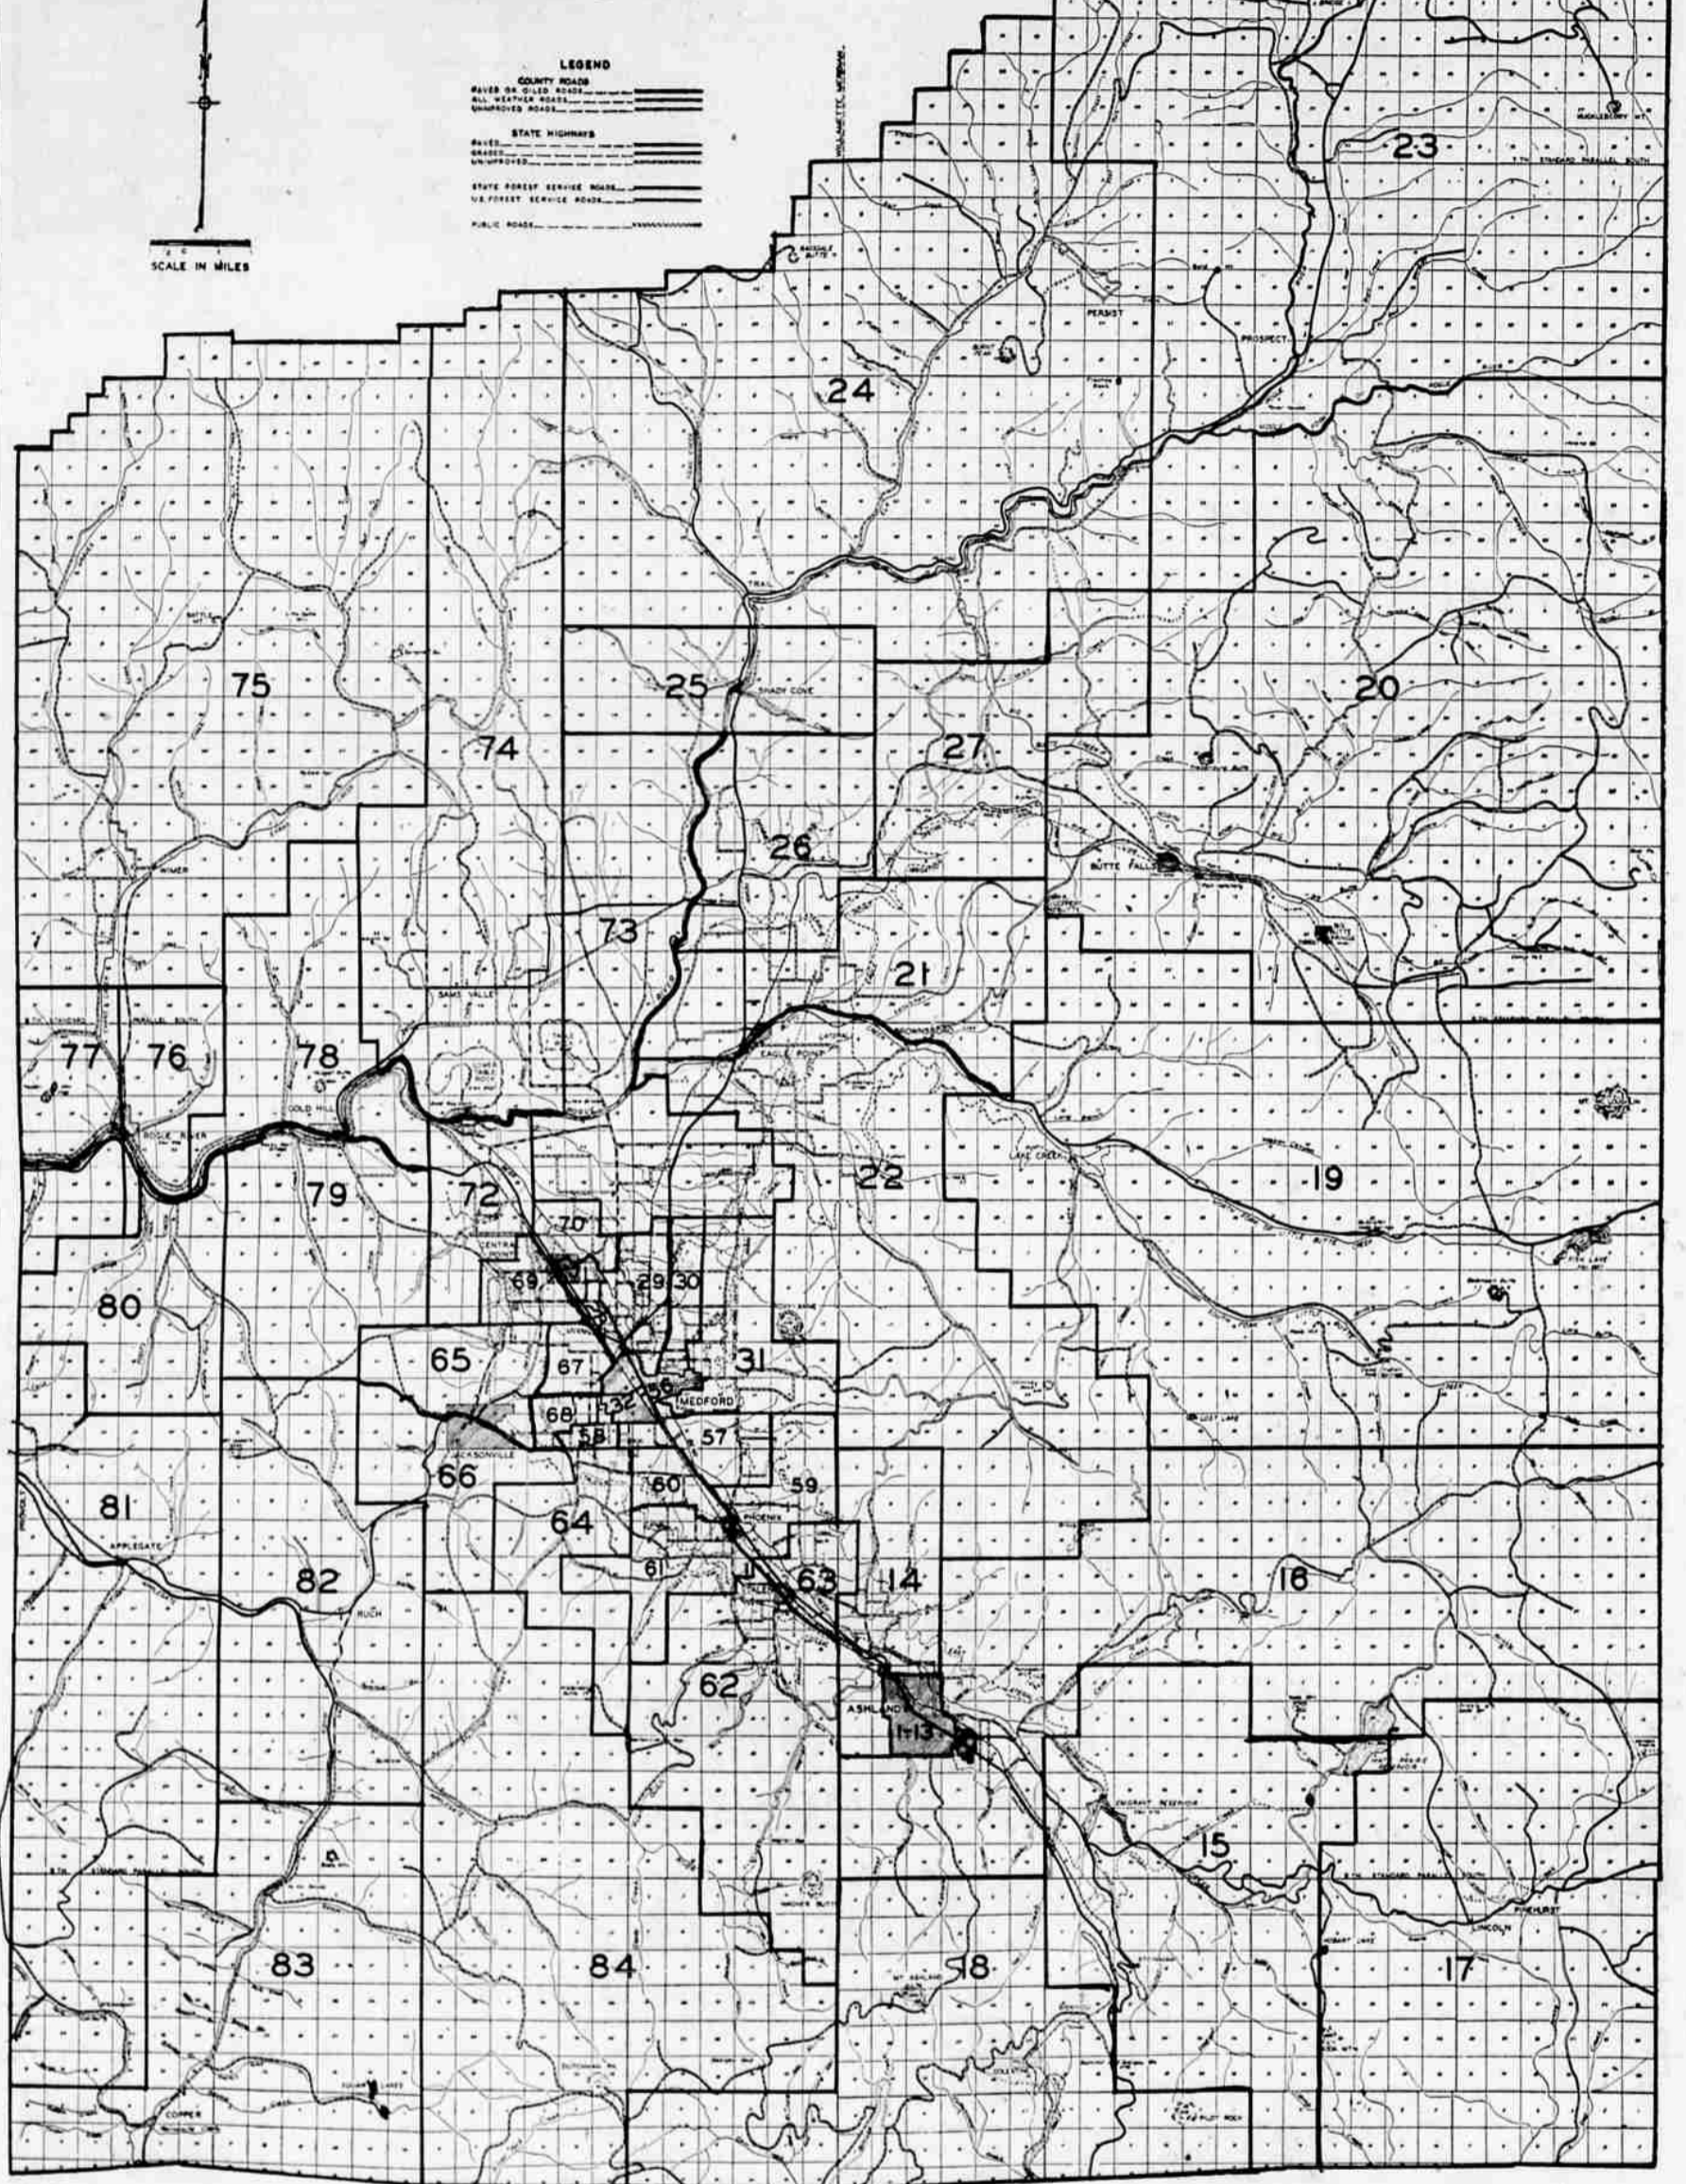

Snyder limited himself to saying that "the loan is under consideration."
