Exhibition Shoot Sunday Local Gun Club Grounds

Herb Parsons, America's fastest gun handler, will give a free public exhibition at the Medford Gun Club Sunday, May 21, at 2 p.m., the Medford Gun club, which is sponsoring the event, said today.

A self-taught wizard with a Winchester, Parsons, using a .22 caliber rifle, throws a 2 1/4" hard maple block into the air cracks the block and splinters the pieces with four bullets in an average of three seconds.

In another feat, Parsons throws three clay pigeons behind him, between his legs, reaches for his model 12 shotgun, swings around and shatters them before they reach the ground.

Parsons stresses safety practices in the handling of firearms throughout his program. As an additional feature, at the close of the exhibition, he will answer any questions and discuss shooting problems with members of the audience.

Throughout the exhibition, in which he uses 10 rifles, shotguns and pistols, Parsons maintains a rapid-fire barrage of humorous comment. This difficult accomplishment of co-ordinating shooting, breathing and talking is performed by no other shooter and required three years to perfect.

Parsons, who shoots under the sponsorship of Winchester-Western, is a native of Tennessee, had his first 22 rifle at the age of eight and bagged his first limit of quail when only nine. He has been shooting ever since.

Wallick, Atlas Draw in Bout

Leo Wallick missed several attempts to apply his deadly pile driver on the Great Atlas in the main event of last night's armory wrestling card but he gave the Peacock of the Ring a sufficient going over to earn a draw in a bout which was filled with hair-raising action.

Wallick put together two back body drops and a press to cop the first fall but the Atlas hit him in the groin early in the second session doubling Wallick up where he was easy prey for a full Nelson.

In the remaining minute neither was able to gain an advantage. When the bell rang Wallick didn't want to quit and cuffed the Atlas around the ring until Referee Earl Yonkey broke it up by escorting the Atlas out of the arena.

Dale Kiser, 19-year-old brother of Jack Kiser, lacked sufficient experience for Karl Gray and dropped a two-out-of-three verdict to the tough Wisconsin farmer in an action-packed scrap.

Norval Stockstill, pinch-hitting for Jack Poppenheim, dropped two straight falls to Jack Kiser in the opener.
