May Brings Last Meetings For Many Women's Groups

With May drawing to a close many women's groups are holding final meetings of the year, the air is full of wedding plans and children are beginning to long for the last day of school. Warm May weather has also brought out the lawn and patio furniture at valley homes, and many of the recent club meetings have been outdoor events.

A special event in the city Thursday was a party for Mrs. Mary Holloway, who was 90 years old. Alert and bright-eyed, Mrs. Holloway enjoyed every moment of her special day. With her pretty blue dress she wore a big orchid which was the gift of Mrs. Clarence Meeker, now of New York City.

A native of Lincolnshire in England, Mrs. Holloway talked about how she came to eastern Oregon in 1889 to be married. It seems her fiancé was worried about how she would like living in eastern Oregon in pioneer style. "I just told him, if you can live in Oregon, I can," Mrs. Holloway recalled. Mrs. Holloway had been an Episcopalian but it was 20 miles to the nearest Episcopal church, and with only a farm wagon for transportation, the young couple decided they would join the nearby Methodist church. For many years, Mrs. Holloway worked in the Methodist churches in eastern Oregon and the Willamette valley, and when her 90th birthday arrived, some of her cards of congratulation and best wishes came from women who as girls had been in her Sunday school classes in the Brownsville Methodist church in the Willamette valley.

Mrs. Holloway, who has lived through the exciting age of the development of telephone, radio, airplane travel and other marvels of industry, recalled that when they lived in eastern Oregon, there was not even a well on the farm and water had to be hauled by wagon over the pioneer Barlowgate route.

Mrs. Holloway's son, William, former Medford business man now living in Tempe, Ariz., flew to Medford for the party. When his mother said that she was born Mary Skelton, he added that she must be a relative of the famous radio comedian Skelton for her sense of humor is a tradition in the family.

Mr. Holloway, an ardent fisherman, said he had left his fishing tackle at home after a hard struggle with his conscience for he knew that once he started fishing in the Rogue, he'd forget everything else. Fishing in Arizona is much different he says, with lake fishing for bass being the mainstay of anglers in the region of Tempe.

Mrs. James Flanning, Medford, daughter with whom Mrs. Holloway lives, was so excited over the party that she kept forgetting the names of her own sister during introductions.

The lone man PTA president in the city is Al Randles, recently boosted into that office by the Jackson school unit. No one seems to be sure, but many believe he is the first man ever to hold a PTA presidency in Medford, although there are many in other parts of the state and nation.

It seems Mr. Randles didn't need any coaxing, either. He likes children, likes school and at one time wanted to be a teacher. He has faithfully attended the PTA meetings at Jackson, having three children attending that school, and has been as much interested in all the PTA work as have the women.

The rest of the officers are insisting that there isn't a bit of truth in the base rumor that Jackson PTA can't keep a president. They just move away, or something. One moved to Kansas and another to Central Point and the last one elected, Mrs. M. A. Putney, found she had too heavy a schedule, what with helping with a business and a great interest in church work.

It is expected that the card fans will flock to the lectures of the great Oswald Jacoby, who is coming to Medford Saturday for two appearances. This expert has been playing since he was nine, claims to have mastered all card games of every type and is a whiz at mathematics. His favorite card game, by the way, is poker.

Add items that just couldn't happen, but do. Confusion at the high school Junior-Senior Prom last Saturday resulted in a lost princess. When pictures of Queen Patsy Bottler and princesses were developed, it was found that Princess Mary Jo True was missing. Mary Jo didn't know the picture had been made—other princesses didn't realize she wasn't in the line-up. All other shots had been for Crater—result, no Trib picture of queen and princesses.

Dr. Bert E. Elliott, who has been entertaining his friends with word pictures of his round-the-world travels, added this question to a recent letter—

"How would Oregonians like a 20 per cent sales tax, plus a 10 per cent tax for tips on food, laundry and hotel bills?" He was writing from Siam. —O.S.

Delegates Attend National Meeting

Two Medford PTA officials, Mrs. Frank Conner and Mrs. W. R. Glass, left yesterday for Long Beach, Cal., to attend the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Conner is the newly elected recording secretary of the Oregon PTA congress, and Mrs. Glass is vice-president for this region.

Mrs. M. H. Hargreaves of Portland, retiring president of the Oregon congress, is a nominee for a national regional vice-president.

Formal Meeting Set For Degree Of Honor

Mrs. Ethel Lindholm Hiatt, Portland, will be in Medford, Monday and Tuesday for annual inspection of the Degree of Honor lodge. Business meeting will be held at the Pythian hall Tuesday at 8 p.m. This is to be a formal closed meeting and new candidates will be initiated. All officers and members are requested to be present.

Central Point Girl And Portland Man To Marry in June

Central Point—The Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Camp of Central Point announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mildred La Von, to Leo Berg of Portland. The wedding will take place June 24 in Portland, and the Camps plan a reception for the couple in the parsonage in Central Point May 29.

Miss Camp was graduated from high school in Central Point, having been third in her class in scholarship, and later attended Northwest Christian college in Eugene. In recent months she has been a student at Providence hospital in Portland. Following the wedding, both young people plan to attend the Eugene college. Mr. Berg is currently secretary to the general manager of Richfield Oil company in Portland.

Nearly three-fourths of the food we buy in the United States today, by value, is manufactured, canned or processed.

Carpenters To Leave For Stay in East; To Attend Graduation

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, Topside, will spend the next few weeks in the east. Mrs. Carpenter is leaving tonight for San Francisco and will be joined by Mr. Carpenter later for the trip to New York and Boston.

In the latter city they will attend graduation ceremonies of Harvard university, their son, Harlow, being a member of the class. Mr. Carpenter will also attend the 45th reunion of the class of 1905, of which he was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Carpenter plan to motor west for the summer following the graduation in June.

Luncheon

Mrs. Richard W. Gray and Mrs. Melvin Lattie entertained a group of friends at luncheon and bridge Friday afternoon, the evening at the Grays' home on Modoc avenue. Twenty guests were present.

Married

Central Point — Of interest here is news of the wedding yesterday of Miss Barty Jean Bunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bunn, and Ernest James Pinkham, son of Mrs. Alice Pinkham. The wedding took place in the Country Club Christian church, Kansas City, Mo.

The newly wedded couple is expected to arrive here during the week to visit relatives and friends en route to Seattle, Wash., where Mr. Pinkham is associated with A. F. Willat company.

Minister, Wife Guests At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. James entertained at a dinner party in their home at 1426 Euclid avenue, Thursday evening, honoring Dr. and Mrs. Ward Willis Long of Stockton, Cal. Dr. Long, who is minister of the First Presbyterian church of Stockton, will serve as supply minister in the local First Presbyterian church today and the last Sunday in May. Others attending the dinner party were Mr. and Mrs. C. Reese Braley and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lattie.
