Ashland Elks and Ladies Bring SOC Band to Center

Camp White, May 25—Members of the Ashland Elks and Lady Elks Wednesday presented the Southern Oregon college band, and a group of college entertainers in a twilight concert here which lasted an hour and a half.

An audience of 350 members attended the concert, which was presented on a plot of ground between two buildings, now known as "Sears half-acre," named after Fred Sears, the recreation director who supervised landscaping and construction of the band platform.

The students, under the direction of Glenn Matthews, played semi-classical and popular airs, and John Conrad announced

Record Crowd Seen For Corvallis Dance

Corvallis, Ore., May 25—(U.P.)

A record crowd of 10,000 is expected to attend Saturday's dance when Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra play Oregon State college's Gill Coliseum.

Saturday afternoon, Monroe's nationwide radio program will originate from the Coliseum. The band was booked to play for the school's senior ball, but seats in the balcony have been sold to outsiders.

The program, other features included a trombone quartet, and a male vocal quartet including Bob Rae, Frank Koch, Jerry Leslie and Harry Kannosto. Alene Owens gave a demonstration of the majorette's art.

Refreshments of cold punch, doughnuts and cookies were served by the Lady Elks.

The audience was arranged so that wheel-chair patients had front row seats.

Boy Escapes Serious Injury in Accident

Robert Wolfe Jr., eight, 722 Grant street, apparently escaped without serious injury yesterday afternoon when, police said, he was knocked from his bicycle by a truck driven by Roy Nipper, 62, of Fern Valley road.

Police reports said the boy was riding his bicycle on Catherine street at 5 p.m. and drove in front of the Nipper machine as it was going south on King street.

Investigating officers at first thought that the youth had suffered a fractured knee but x-rays showed that no bones were broken. No citations were issued.
