AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood, May 26.—(U.P.)—Lana Turner struck her hand and foot prints in Grauman's Chinese theater forecourt yesterday, thereby disappointing a group of cheering on-lookers.

Trembling with excitement, the voluptuous movie queen joined the ranks of other tinsel-town celebrities while her fans shouted: "C'mon sweater girl! Give!"

Miss Turner, dimpling with girlish giggles, indicated she would imprint her hands and feet and nothing else. She wanted to keep this ceremony "in good taste."

"I'm so nervous," she gasped.

This reminded the crowd that La Grable had good-naturedly allowed three servicemen to lower one of her famous legs into a special pink cement six years ago.

The forecourt, a "must" for movie-struck tourists, also has prints of Jean Hersholt's pipe, Roy Rogers' gun, Tom Mix's hat, Harold Lloyd's glasses, Eleanor Powell's dancing shoes, and Sonja Henie's skates.

And the fans figured all the forecourt needed now was a contribution from the lovely Lana. She ignored them.

Lana ignored 'em and wrote her name with shaking hands. "I'm so nervous," she repeated. "I hope I spelled it right."

Each time she dipped her paws in the gray cement a theater attendant wiped her hand with a special towel. Lana giggled again.

"I feel like a four-year-old child," she said. "How we do it."

Next she stuck her $25 lace-work sandals in the goo and cautioned cement mixer Jean Klossner: "Don't get me pigeon-tied now."

Klossner clutched her silken ankle in a manly grip and assured her he was a gent who takes pride in his work.

With the Turner tootsies safely imprinted he shook her

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—THREE

Rich, Poor? It's Hard To Tell by Dress in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Arizona is a risky place for an eastern gold digger to go prospecting.

A girl just can't tell who is a millionaire and who is a cowhand and everyone will agree that there is quite a difference.

Out here where cattle kings are a dime a dozen, a lot of the richest men dress as though they were poor, the poorest dress as though they were rich and a girl never knows which stickpins are diamonds and which are only paste.

I learned my lesson, all right. I snubbed a grimy-looking gent in dirty old blue jeans, scuffed boots and a mended shirt. He was smoking cigarettes he rolled himself.

Alas, I learned too late he was one of the richest men in Arizona. The dolled-up feller on whose arm I was clinging worked for the Chamber of Commerce.

Many of the men who wear 10-gallon hats, boots and skin-tight blue jeans admit that the only time they dress that way is when easterners come west to look them over. The rest of the time grubby hand and announced she was the 10th star whose extremities he had immortalized. There's Always Russell

After it was all over Lana wrapped herself in mink and whizzed away in a long black limousine.

"Too bad," sighed a soldier who'd come early to watch what he hoped would be history in the making. "Oh, well, there's always Jane Russell."

they look just like anybody else. When 70 mid-western and eastern newspaper writers arrived in Phoenix on American Airlines' inaugural $110 cross-country air coach flight, they were greeted by as tough-looking a bunch of hombres as ever walked across a Hollywood "western" set.

In Tucson, the deputy sheriffs arrived in a posse, shooting off revolvers (blanks) and they strung up one defenseless, muscleless newsmen with a noose (He escaped.)

Police carried female reporters on the backs of their motorcycles the way Roy Rogers carries cowgirls on his horse's rump.

It was revealed at a barbecue in a barn (the barn having been recently constructed for feeding humans, not horses) that all the big doings were strictly Chamber of Commerce.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Why "Moose" Changed His Mind

Last week, parents were calling Moose Jackson on the phone—and kids were hooting at him in the streets. All because Moose fenced in his field near the depot, where the kids like to play ball.

Moose got sore the way folks acted—refused to budge. Then Doc Sherman, who likes to play center-field himself sometimes, decided to "use a little psychology."

Over a friendly glass of beer at Andy's Garden Tavern, Doc says, "Sorry this came up, Moose. We were thinking of asking you to umpire—what with your professional experience and all." (Moose used to play a little semi-pro ball.)

That did it! Next day Moose put up a stile over his fence. In return, the kids promised not to cause any damage. From where I sit, when you try to understand the other fellow's point of view—like his personal preference for beer or coffee—and then take into consideration the will of the majority, why, things seem to go better all around.
