Oregon Accidents Kill Ten Persons

By United Press
At least 10 persons were killed in Oregon during the long Memorial day week-end which still has another day to go.

Six of the fatalities were in traffic accidents. One person drowned, two were killed in a plane crash and one died in a logging accident.

Theron J. Wolf and his wife, Jean, formerly of Burns, were killed Sunday when the pickup truck in which they were riding ran off the Baker-Richland highway near Baker and narrowly missed plunging into the Snake river.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf were riding in the rear of the truck. The driver, George Posch, was not injured.

Logger Killed
Aloysius Bell, 22, of Mt. Angel, died Saturday night at a Silverton hospital of injuries suffered in a logging accident in the Abiqua hills. Bell, an employee of the B and R sawmill, was knocked into a millpond by a piece of lumber which slipped from logging machinery.

A bumble bee was blamed for one traffic fatality.

Mrs. Frank Johnson was driving a pickup truck on the Alsea highway east of Waldport when the bee flew in the window. In her efforts to get rid of the insect, Mrs. Johnson lost control of the truck. It smashed into a bank and her 70-year-old husband was killed.

At the Raymond logging camp, 67 miles west of Klamath Falls, seven-year-old Brenda Jean Adams drowned when she fell into a logging pond.

Plane Crashes
Kenneth Murray, 26, McMinnville, and Vernon A. Buzzard, 41, North Bend, were killed Friday night when a light plane flown by Murray crashed into Coast Bay south of North Bend.

Traffic accidents in Portland claimed two lives Saturday. Ray McMahon, 32-year-old Albany truck driver, was fatally injured in a crash on the Burnside bridge. The car's driver, Verne Molver, is recovering in a Portland hospital and will be charged with negligent homicide, police said.

A 73-year-old pedestrian, Robert B. Everhart, was struck by a car in Portland early Saturday and died shortly afterward. Witnesses said he crossed against a traffic signal.

In Salem, Leslie A. Allen of Detroit, Ore., was killed late Friday when a car driven by his son crashed into the rear of a loaded logging truck. His son was recovering in a Salem hospital.

By United Press
Pleasant weather prevailed over most of the country today and the number of Memorial day holiday fatalities rose with the temperature.

United Press tabulations showed 280 persons had lost their lives since the 102-hour holiday began at 6 p. m. Friday. The holiday was barely half over.

There were 171 traffic deaths, a rate lower than the 2.84 fatalities-per-hundred predicted by the National Safety council. But bumper-to-bumper traffic tomorrow was expected to accelerate the toll.

Central Point high school band led by Director Harry Myers will furnish music. The program will be held out of doors.

Camp White's first member, Winfield U. Foster, will deliver Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Chaplain John Cummins will ask the invocation. Vocal music by the Medford Choral group will be heard, and an address by Father John Cummins, "Let Us Forget," will be given.

Henry W. Anderson, Protestant chaplain, will ask the benediction after his address, "In Memoriam." Service organizations and their auxiliaries have been invited to participate in the services.

Ashland, May 29—Memorial day ceremonies, including laying of a wreath at the Memorial flagpole in the Plaza here, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. The American Legion will sponsor the observance, and will gather at the Legion hall at 9 a. m. before moving to the Plaza.

A parade will move through downtown Ashland, starting at 10 a. m. and will finish at the city cemetery for memorial services. Veterans organizations and other marching units will participate.

Grants Pass, May 29—A service honoring the unknown soldier will be held here at 10 a. m. Memorial day on the Josephine county courthouse lawn. The Women's Relief corps, assisted by Daughters of Union Veterans, will be in charge.

A parade will start at 10:30 a. m. through city streets, concluding at the city park, where services will be held for sailor dead. The memorial program will be conducted with Raymond Coulter in charge, and the principal address by the Rev. William C. Piper.

Central Point, May 29—A number of southern Oregon churches will meet together for a Memorial Day Youth rally and group gathering at the Community Bible church here Tuesday.

Three public services at 11 a. m., 2 and 7:30 p. m. are scheduled, with lunch at 12:30 p. m. and supper at 6 p. m. The public is invited to all the meetings and meals.

Many Ceremonies On Memorial Day To Pay Tribute

Customary Parade in Medford on Schedule

Medford's fourth parade in the past 15 days will mark the chief observance of Memorial day here tomorrow. Stores, offices and schools will close in honor of the occasion, which honors American dead who gave their lives in this nation's wars.

The patriotic and traditional parade will leave the old city park at 10 a. m., according to Col. W. H. Paine, who is in charge of the event. It will move eastward to the Bear Creek bridge, where brief ceremonies will honor those American servicemen who gave their lives upon the waters.

At Hawthorne park, an appropriate program will be presented, with Attorney Manville Heisel giving the day's address, and the Rev. George R. Bolster, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, asking the invocation and benediction.

Patriotic, fraternal, social and civic betterment groups in and near Medford to participate in the parade and program.

Camp White, May 29—Memorial day ceremonies here will start at 9 a. m. Tuesday with the laying of a wreath at the center's flagpole by Paul Hutton, manager, followed by a salute fired by members of company A, 186th infantry, Medford. Taps will be sounded by Dick Batze, bugler.

Berlin Violence Acts Forestalled

Berlin, May 29—U.P.—Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin said today that the west "won a battle without having one" in forestalling violence and aggression during the week-end rally of 500,000 communist youth.

Reuter and other West German officials were elated over the peaceful passage of the rally, which had been touted for months as the likeliest setup for trouble since the Berlin blockade.

Berlin Streets Safe
"Once again we have proved that the streets of Berlin are free and safe," Reuter said at a city hall press conference. "They will remain that way. Communist terror will not force the people of Berlin into submission."

Kurt Schumacher, West German socialist party chairman, echoed Reuter's sentiment. He said the events of the week-end proved that "democratic forces can frustrate concentrated dictatorial power if they display courage."

The spokesmen for West Germans unanimously attributed the communist decision to limit the rally to peaceful parades, sporting events and cultural shows to a long standing announcement by the west that any attempt to invade West Berlin would be repulsed, with bullets if necessary.

Jubilant Temper
The western jubilation over the lack of violence was tempered by concern over the first formal appearance of battalions of the Russian zone's German "alert units," which the western powers have described as the nucleus of a new army.

Ten thousand of the crack troops, looking a great deal like the jack-booted SS men that goose-stepped down under den leaders during the Nazi heyday, paraded with the communist youth yesterday.

And the youths themselves, in their cornflower blue blouses, showed the same regimentation that their older brothers and sisters did in the Hitler youth movement.

Sidener's complaint filed with the national labor relations board charged that UMW President John L. Lewis used secret signals to keep the miners out of the pits while ostensibly ordering them back to work in compliance with a federal injunction.

The NLRB has scheduled a hearing in Canton June 20 on unfair labor practices charges against the UMW and the United Electric Coal company.

Big Crowd Witnesses Shriners' Ceremony
Ashland, May 29—A jam-packed crowd witnessed the afternoon public ceremonial of the Hillman temple of the Shrine here Saturday, preceding the initiatory rites of the order's spring ceremonial in the evening. An estimated 1,200 Shriners from many sections of the state attended the annual event.

Illustrious Potentate Herman H. Mayberry, Ashland, presided at the evening ceremonial for Shriners only. Candidates for initiation into the order were escorted to the armory, and all nobles of the order gathered at 7 p. m., with Illustrious Potentate Mayberry and his Divan, past potentates and distinguished guests received at 7:30 p. m.

Twenty-one members of Ben Ali temple, Sacramento, arrived by chartered plane Friday.

Old Job, Former Salary Offered; Penalty Lifted

Payment While Idle Requested by Miner
Canton, Ill., May 29—U.P.—John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union has withdrawn a $50,000 fine it had imposed on a Canton, Ill., miner and told him he can go back to work, the miner disclosed today.

But Lloyd Sidener, former shovel operator at the United Electric Coal company Buckheart mine near here, said he would not return to his job until he was reinstated as local UMW president and was notified officially he would get pay lost while he was idle.

Former Pay Offered
Sidener, ousted March 7 after he tried to lead a back-to-work movement during last winter's coal strike, said he was told by Mine Superintendent Enos B. Campbell that he could go back to work at his old pay of $21.05 a day.

He said the notice was not yet "officially from the union."

Campbell said he was notified by John Lakin Jr., who succeeded Sidener as president of UMW Local 7455, that the local met yesterday morning and voted unanimously to lift the $50,000 fine. He said Lakin told him to notify Sidener he could have his job back.

Campbell said "nothing was said" in the conversation about reinstating Sidener or giving him wages for the time lost since he was fired.

Would Be 'Fool'
Sidener said until "something is heard from the NLRB" or the union votes to reinstate him as local union president, and give him back pay both for his job and the $25 a month he received for the union post, he will not return to work.

"I'd be a fool to go back until this matter is entirely cleared up," Sidener said.

Sidener's complaint filed with the national labor relations board charged that UMW President John L. Lewis used secret signals to keep the miners out of the pits while ostensibly ordering them back to work in compliance with a federal injunction.

The NLRB has scheduled a hearing in Canton June 20 on unfair labor practices charges against the UMW and the United Electric Coal company.

Heavy Air Traffic On Week-End Reported

Heavy Memorial day week-end traffic was reported at the Medford airport today by Walt Carson, station manager for United Airlines here. There were many passengers arriving to spend the holidays with friends or relatives in Medford, he said.

Throughout the United system, some 9,000 passengers were being carried on more than 200 regular flights, with extra sections being added where necessary. Many travelers were taking advantage of a four-day holiday, Carson said.

Boy Injured by Tumble Down Side Of Mine Mountain

Karl Hagebusch, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hagebusch, 2435 Jo-Jack road, was hospitalized late yesterday afternoon as the result of injuries suffered in a fall down a mountain in the vicinity of the old Blue Ledge copper mine.

He was taken to Community hospital by Conger-Morris ambulance and this morning was said to have severe face and scalp lacerations and a possible broken shoulder or upper arm. X-rays were to be taken this morning.

The Hagebusch family and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Knapp and son, Gary Woodward, Jacksonville, were spending the day picnicking at a spot at the foot of the mountain when the accident occurred. The two boys accompanied by Karl's dog, had climbed up to the mine but had become separated and Karl was alone with the dog at the time of the accident, according to reports.

Trip Takes Hour
Members of the party and other picnickers in the area saw the boy fall and went to his rescue at once. The trip up and down took about an hour due to the steepness of the mountain and the rugged terrain.

Later young Woodward climbed the mountain for the third time during the day to rescue the dog, which had remained at the scene of the fall, refusing to venture down alone.

Men in the party estimated that the Hagebusch boy had fallen from the steep rock slide which covers the mountainside below the old mine.

Rogue River National Forest service officials today issued a warning concerning such abandoned mines, saying that the old shafts, fallen buildings and timbers are often dangerous, and urged persons hiking in the hills to avoid exploring such places.

Frightened Stewardess Averts Tragedy Aboard Plane

Fresno, Cal., May 29—U.P.—A pretty blond stewardess admitted today she was "scared to death" during the 35 tense minutes a fear-crazed man screamed and waved a loaded pistol at 25 persons aboard a plane flying 6,000 feet in the air.

But passengers and crew had nothing but praise for 22-year-old Joan Heron of San Diego, an airline hostess of only six months. They said her seeming coolness while looking into the muzzle of a .25 caliber automatic pistol averted a possible tragedy.

Under arrest here after the plane made an emergency landing was John O'Reilly, 26-year-old war veteran now working in a Los Angeles aircraft factory. He was charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

There was a possibility his wife and brother may ask that he undergo a psychiatric examination.

O'Reilly was one of 26 persons aboard a California Central Airlines plane bound for Los Angeles to San Francisco yesterday. Three of them were crew members, including Miss Heron.

Miss Heron said she first noticed O'Reilly's erratic behavior when he came to the back of the passenger compartment and asked why she had covered the cabin door with a blanket. She told him it was to keep out a draft.

"I don't think the air is so good in here," he said. "Something funny's going on in here."

"If I can do anything..." "You stand where you are until we get to Oakland," he told her. Then he grabbed her arm. One of the passengers, Mrs. H. S. Austell of San Francisco, slipped up to the pilot's compartment to report the incident. Joseph Nuccitelli came out to investigate.

"Stay where you are," screamed O'Reilly. "Don't come any farther."

O'Reilly pulled the pistol from his pocket and slipped off the safety.

"Land us in Oakland and be sure to get us there safely," he yelled.

Nuccitelli returned to the pilot's compartment. He had co-pilot Don Lieco of Hollywood radio Fresno airport he was landing and asked deputy sheriffs to meet the plane.

Magdalena, to sit next to one of the windows with their eight-month-old baby, who was wailing in fright.

Mrs. Lyons regained consciousness in a few moments. O'Reilly yelled at her and she fainted again.

"See, we're being gassed!" he shouted.

The plane began losing altitude in preparation for a landing at Fresno. Miss Heron said she was "afraid when he found out we were landing he would start taking it on someone."
