OUT OF THE WOODS
By Jim Stevens

Trees Need Salesmen
Around 54 years ago the Center Lumber company came to life on what is now a grubby side street of Paterson, N. J., old-time town of stocking makers and home of the genial doctor and able poet, William Carlos Williams. Until three years ago the company kept doing the same old business at the same old stand, selling hardwood lumber on the industrial market.

Then one day the vice president, Allan Wollen, got to thinking about the manual training market for wood. He saw a rising tide of school work all over the nation in the use of small power machines and power tools to make things of wood. Educators at last were accepting the fact that it is unrealistic to think of the high school mainly as a place to prepare for college. Preparation for carpentry is more like it. Home woodworking was booming at the same time, with growing sales of machines and tools for it.

Mr. Wollen found the vocational shopwork and manual training groups of teachers in his area eager to find a nearby supplier of wood who could give quick service, carry a full line and respond quickly to queries and complaints.

Soon the Center Lumber company, still on the side street where display windows could do no good and where the everyday small consumer of lumber was hard to catch, was adding $120,000 a year to its annual million a year from the industrial market.

That really meant something to many growers of hardwoods, who are in large part farm woodland owners in the hardwood forest regions. Trees need salesmen. The Center Pattern

The new sales campaign of the Center Lumber company began with letters to school boards. Then lumber salesmen made the rounds calling on the manual training teachers. These salesmen were the people the teachers wanted to see, for they were men who knew the whole range of woods available for woodwork, the characteristics, workability, history and source, and the specific grade values of each species.

SMOKING AND NUTRITIONAL DEFICIENCY

One-fourth of the individuals with stomach trouble or digestive disturbances attributable to smoking have excessive acidity and one-fifth of them have subacid-ity, that is, not enough acid in the gastric juice for good digestion.

Dr. Brady

Years ago Dr. Irving Gray reported a large series of cases in which most of the symptoms and signs of stomach or duodenal (peptic or gastric) ulcer were present, but x-ray films revealed no ulcer. The cause of the trouble in such cases was smoking, and only cessation of smoking brought about lasting relief or cure of the "ulcer."

In many cases of peptic ulcer in which the x-ray findings confirm the diagnosis the patients enjoy great clinical improvement when or if they stop smoking, and derive little benefit from dieting and other remedial measures as long as they continue smoking.

The way to find out whether your stomach trouble will get better when you quit smoking is simple enough: Quit smoking. That's the therapeutic test. It is not a fair test to refrain from smoking for a day or a week or a month. Nor does it matter whether it takes 24 hours or 24 weeks to "get the nicotine out of your system"—for there is no nicotine in the system for more than an hour or two after the last smoke or chew anyway. Getting the nicotine out of your system is easy enough—refrain from smoking or chewing for 12 to 24 hours. But arresting and, if possible, reversing the degeneration of cells, tissues and organs due to prolonged intoxication by tobacco or tobacco smoke is the serious question for the victim of tobaccoism.

The stomach troubles already mentioned are common complaints of persons who smoke too much, and the heart and artery manifestations of CVD (cardiovascular degeneration) are probably next in the stomach troubles in frequency in excessive smokers. Third in frequency, I think, are ailments of throat and bronch.

The subacidity of smokers probably predisposes to nutritional deficiency in more ways than one. It lowers their capacity to assimilate calcium, for one thing, and calcium deficiency is almost inevitable anyway if the consumption of milk or milk products such as cheese equivalent to a minimum of 1½ pints (three glasses) a day.

I believe there is a kind of vicious circle involved here. That

Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up many or frequent passages may result from minor urinary irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are of these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully for millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste, get Doan's Pills today!

Navy Internships Available for Grads

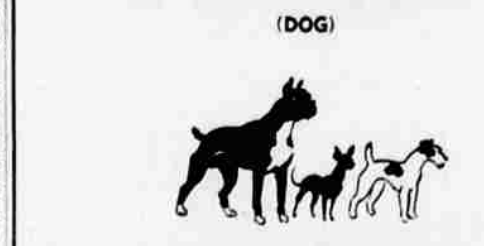

Washington, May 29—(U.P.)—Rear Adm. C. A. Swanson, navy surgeon general, said today that 200 U. S. naval hospital internships will be available to qualified medical students who graduate in 1951.

Applicants will be accepted beginning Dec. 15, 1950, Swanson said. Applicants also should apply for a naval reserve commission prior to that date. Those accepted must meet requirements of the naval medical corps and the naval reserve commission, he said.

Applicants must agree to serve 24 months active duty from the date of the beginning of their intern training, Swanson said. Those accepted receive pay and allowance of their rank while serving as interns, plus an additional $100 a month on commission internships. They also get a $250 uniform allowance, transportation expenses for dependents and household effects to duty station, retirement benefits and opportunity for later advanced training, Swanson said.
