Pickin' Pears News, Gossip, Comment From Camp White

By L. J. "Tick" Malarkey
Sandy of the Seabees is in town.

He buzzed in last Thursday from San Francisco and has been busy all of the days and part of the nights with William "Bill" Clegg, manager of Camp White's canteen. Seabee Sandy—his official title is L. J. Sandy, field supervisor VA canteen service, San Francisco area—has 30 stores under his jurisdiction, spent most of his service during the Pacific.

"No, I didn't wear any brass. Was just a plain storekeeper," he says.

There are times when the jingle-jangle of brass scares the wits out of us. And every once in a while a VA hospital will have a civilian employee who still thinks the war is not over and he still wears a stripe or two.

Sandy makes his home with wife Sandra in San Francisco.

Sam Bowe, who spoke at the Theodore "Daddy" Penland ceremonies last Sunday was born at Astoria, Ore. As a matter of fact he was the first baby ushered into the world in a brand new maternity ward that St. Mary's hospital completed just prior to the moment Sam vowed his way into this world. This Grants Pass lawyer, Kid from WW II and state commander of the American Legion, delivered a stirring oration in honor of Penland, last national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It will be long remembered by those who heard it. Sam's dad was stationed at Fort Stevens at the time and he declares himself a real product of Clatsop county.

And while we are on Astoria—Where do you think your husky assistant superintendent of schools came from? That's right, Astoria. Name of Elliott Becken. How well we remember him when he played in the line for Astoria high school.

What a competitor he was! And how he loved a tough battle!

And when time for college came Elliott went to Willamette where he made the Little All-American team. In the opinion of anyone who ever saw him play football, he could have made any varsity in the country. Coaching claimed him for a while. With Uncle Sam he went from back private to a captain in chemical warfare. Was in Africa, Italy, Sicily and Europe. He's now in the administrative end of the school system and when we chatted a while it is easy to see why Medford people like him. And we Greybeards are proud of him, too.

The old brindle corridors throughout this station are getting a going over. A crew of painters from Over Town have a contract to make 'em white—a great change for the better.

A paragraph or two about Charles G. Gould, Camp White chauffeur. He has been making his home in Medford since 1906 and was on the Mexican border with the local Oregon national guard company. When things kicked up in 1917 young Gould, getting the consent of his parents because he was too young, transferred from the army and got into the United States navy medical corps.

Convey duty for a while and then a shore station at Queens-town, Ireland, for an eight-month stretch. We ride to town sometimes with George and these are a few gleanings from his past. His big hobby, however, is the Boy Scouts and he is chairman of the Boy scout committee of the Medford Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 8.

Press dispatches from the coast and inland, as well as one from British Columbia, tell of the season's first forest fires. It was Aug. 26, 1933, that this writer and his family were caught in the inferno of the Tillamook burn. From a summer camp we were chased into the Nehalem river and stood in the water all night to our necks while a crown fire jumped from tree top to tree top and a ground fire followed. If memory is correct some 300,000 acres of virgin timber was burned and the property loss ran to the millions.

This was a never-to-be-forgotten experience but space will not permit printing details. But the havoc a careless smoker or camper can do in the woods is indescribable.

For a week or more we tried to remember where he had seen him before. Then it came to us. Mike Tanzell, member, for so many years with the Oregon national guard and its band. Mike played in the 162nd infantry band for a long, long time.

On the way to Ashland last Wednesday stopped at Ed Hennessy's fruit and vegetable stand. There the first Oregon strawberries of the year were on hand. Sampled a few of them and they were as sweet as sugar and as mellow as wild honey. Ed declares that he has the coolest spot in Jackson county when the weather warms up. Beautiful shade trees, years in age, shed and make the heat bearable.

Nurses To Meet — Practical nurses of Jackson county are to meet June 5 at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth floor of Community hospital. Purpose of the meeting is to organize and elect officers for the Practical Nurses' association of Jackson County. Mrs. Marie Pierce is chairman in charge. She stated that those attending will become charter members and that it was urgent for all practical nurses in the county to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Death line on Classified Ads: 5:30 a.m. for following day; 10 a.m. Monday noon Saturday for Sunday and Monday.
