

On the Side—By E. V. Durling

Ask not how much I love you,
Do not question why,
I have told you the tale
In the evening fall
With a tear and a sigh.
I am done.
While the stars shall shine,
To the last, to the last!
—Harry Cornwell

We had some marvelous cake at our house yesterday. It is called whipped cream cake. Was made from a recipe furnished by Marie Wilson for a cookbook titled "What Cooks in Hollywood." My girl friend, a collector of cookbooks, says there are some fine recipes in this book. If they are as good as the one for whipped cream cake they must be. I went for three pieces of that.

Blessed Events.
Is the extent of pain suffered in childbirth a matter of figure? Physicians studying the case of Mrs. Minnie Cook of Perth, Australia, said she had "the perfect figure for reproduction." Mrs. Cook is five feet one inch in height and weighs 140 pounds. She has given birth to eight boys and one girl and never suffered the slightest pain. In fact, she says she has found childbirth "a pleasant sensation." Only once has Mrs. Cook been in bed when a child arrived. That was only because physicians asked her to stay at a hospital for a birth so they could try to find out why childbirth was so easy for her.

Legs.
"Katherine Hepburn has the loveliest legs ever seen in a Shakespearean play." That's what a drama scribe says. His statement certainly covers a lot of territory. But I can't argue with him. I must confess I am not familiar with that angle of the Shakespearean drama.

Greatest Part.
What Biblical character do you think would give an actress the greatest part? How about Mary Magdalene? It is said practically every celebrated actress in the world would like to play this part in "The Divine Tragedy," a film to be produced by the French director, Georges de la Grandiere. Even Garbo is said to have hinted she would like to play Mary Magdalene. However, Monsieur de la Grandiere is not interested in famous actresses for the part. He will use an unknown.

At Ascot.
The price of admission to the royal enclosure at Ascot is the equivalent of $28 for men, $20 for women. But much more is necessary than the price to get into the royal enclosure. All those admitted must be approved by His Majesty, the King of England. It is frequently stated divorced persons are automatically barred from Ascot's royal enclosure. It is my understanding only the "guilty party" in a divorce case is barred.

Asking.
Queries from clients: Q. I maintain when Maude Adams made her first appearance in "Peter Pan" she was older than Jean Arthur, who is now playing the role. Right? A. You're wrong. Maude Adams was 33 when she first played the role you mention. Miss Arthur is older than that. I know how much older, but decline to state.

Please Note.
The leaning toward films with grim stories continues in Hollywood. Now one producer is going to make a picture titled "A Leg to Stand On." It's about a woman with a wooden leg. That's one film I am going to skip. However, there is a picture I can hardly wait to see. It is a film version of "Tom Brown's School Days," to be made at Rugby, England. I believe I have read "Tom Brown's School Days" about 26 times.

Over There.
Less than half the houses in England have baths. To be exact, only 46 per cent are so equipped. There was no bath in No. 10 Downing street until 1908, when Lord Asquith had one installed. Yet we are always hearing about how much that morning bath means to an Englishman.

Rogue River

Rogue River, June 20—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brand of Nashville, Ore., are new residents of Trailhead. They are members of the Nashville Grange holding the offices of assistant and lady assistant. Brand is a steelworker.

Mrs. Harry Rose and Mrs. James Whipple attended the state convention of Federated Garden Clubs at Klamath Falls last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Hall of Albany have purchased the Rogue Variety store from Art Pratt and plan to move the stock and fixtures to the Hill building on Depot street. The Halls have two children, Robert, nine, and Nancy, six.

Mr. and Mrs. James Orchard were recent guests of the Lloyd Smiths. They were enroute to Paradise, Mont.

Andrew Shappell and family from Cheyenne, Wyo., visited a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shappell of North Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Frantz have returned from a week's visit at Pittsburg, Cal. M/Sgt. Alfred Van Scooter from Long Beach, Cal., spent a few days here as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kron. Van Scooter, recently retired from the marine corps, plans to locate in the Rogue valley.

Guests at the Lloyd Smith home last week were Lloyd's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rathbun and Lloyd's nieces, Donna and Billie Smith, of Deer Lodge, Mont. They were returning from Concord, Cal., where they had visited a son of the Rathbuns.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance H. Louthan of Great Bend, Kan., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller of Rogue River Junction. Charles Feuerhelm of Oakland, Cal., is spending a few weeks here with his son and family, the Carl Feuerhelms.

Mrs. Marguerite Head is a visitor at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. L. Williams. She recently arrived by plane from San Diego, Cal., where she has been visiting another daughter, Mrs. Head, a native of New Hampshire, is returning to her home in Concord for the summer.

The Girl scout troop and the Brownies with their guest scouts from Wimer held their annual day camp for four days in the city park, beside the Rogue River. The girls were fortunate in having a primitive camp area and learned fire building and camp cooking over an open fire. They cooked bread on sticks and by using a reflector oven made with cookie pans. Vegetable stew and chili beans were cooked in pots suspended over the camp fire, and while watching the simmering meal the girls carved spoons.

Other things included in their display of handicraft were camp diaries, name plates and hand made belts. The Brownies made necklaces and colored Girl scout emblems to add to the streamers which decorated their camp. They learned spatter painting and painted Father's Day cards.

Members of the staff were director, Lillian Hargitt; business manager, Mrs. Cloyd Dick; first aid, Betty Miller. In charge of the scout troop were Joan Milton, Mrs. Dorothy Miller and Mrs. H. W. Randall; Brownies, Mrs. Geneva Hargitt, Avis Van Hoy and Mrs. John Goldt. Special credit was given to Betty Miller as being the first Girl scout to assist the staff.

Attendance at camp was good, there being 20 to 23 scouts present each day. Camp closed Friday with a picnic and entertainment. Skits written and presented by the two troops were enjoyed by the 16 adult visitors of the day. One guest, little Karen Smith who was visiting the Feuerhelms and attended camp with them, enjoyed scouting so much that she requested the camp be continued for a month.

Madras on Lookout For New Police Chief

Madras, Ore., June 20—(U.P.)—Madras was looking for a new police chief today. The city council last week unanimously demanded the resignation of Chief Arley Mizar, effective June 30. One of the counts against Mizar was his alleged lack of co-operation with state police officers.

The council has under consideration applications from former policemen for the post.
