Frances Boland, Duane Thompson Married Recently

Miss Frances L. Boland and A. Duane Thompson were married June 10, the rites being solemnized at Sacred Heart Catholic rectory by the Rev. C. J. Linehan.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton B. Reynolds, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Thompson, 611 South Riverside avenue.

The bride wore a gold colored suit with red rosebud corsage for the ceremony. She was attended by Miss Jacquelyn Johnston, who wore a navy blue dress with corsage of white carnations.

M. W. Willoughby was best man for Mr. Thompson. The newlyweds are living in Medford.

Individual Type Determines Sleep Says Psychologist

Are you an endomorph, a mesomorph or an ectomorph? If you can classify yourself according to one of these types, your individual sleep requirements can be foretold. At least, that's what Dr. W. H. Sheldon, Columbia university, discovered from his studies in constitutional psychology.

Dr. Sheldon maintains that every human being falls into one of these classifications. Although everyone has some of the characteristics of all three, one is predominant. The amount of sleep you need depends to a large extent on your temperament which is closely related to physical traits.

For example, if you are an endomorph, you have a soft and comfortable roundness of physique—you love food, company and luxury—you relax easily, and sleep soundly, provided your bed is comfortable. In fact, you love to sleep and consequently talk even yourself into the fact that you need more sleep than you really do.

If you have the hard, muscular type of physique, you're a mesomorph. Your skin develops wrinkles at an early age and you tan easily. You are full of energy and love exercise. You prefer large homes, large rooms and large beds. You snore vigorously, arise early feeling wonderful.

The ectomorph has a linear physique and slender bones. If you can be classified as such, you are probably shy, intense and nervous. You are highly sensitive and much more vulnerable to outside influences than your endomorph or mesomorph brother. You use up much nervous energy and consequently tire easily. You put off going to bed at night, and resist getting up in the morning. You sleep lightly and you require more sleep than the other two types.

If sleeping conditions are not desirable, one must sleep longer to obtain proper rest.

Men Display Preference For Textured Fabrics Says Interior Decorator

New York, (U.P.)—Nubby, plain colored fabrics are becoming more and more popular in home decorating, and men may be responsible.

"Men like textured fabrics," said Mrs. Emily Hunter, stylist for the F. Schumacher Fabric company.

"More men come along with their wives when it's time to pick out a new covering for the living room sofa. They either pick vibrant colors, or choose a room in monotone shades. In either case, they like textured fabrics."

She also thinks men are less likely to end up with a room that looks like a hodgepodge of decorating fashions. They stick with one or two colors.

She planned some room schemes on the basis of male tastes. One was a room for the man who preferred monotone shading. The color scheme was made up of the warm earth

Miss Fidelia Boone Installed Queen Job's Daughters

Medford bethel, Job's Daughters, held the semi-annual installation of officers Wednesday night, with Miss Fidelia Boone replacing Miss Kaye Crawford as queen. Miss Boone is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Boone.

Miss Crawford acted as installing officer and assisting her were Miss Glenda Fields, installing guide; Miss Sybil Older, marshal; Miss Patsy Faber, Central Point, musician; Miss Jane Durno, senior custodian; Miss Barbara Green, junior custodian; Miss Jean Runtz, secretary; Miss Marilyn Winetrot, chaplain.

Also taking office were Miss Corinne Wing, senior princess; Miss Carolyn Coleman, junior princess; Miss Kaye Durno, guide; Miss Johnna Pond, marshal; Miss Rolla Jones, Miss Ann Hart, Miss Ann Rentchler, Miss Roberta Manning, Miss Phyllis Watkins, messengers; Miss Nancy Cottingham, chaplain; Miss Margaret Huson, musician; Miss Barbara Van Sickle, treasurer; Miss Shirley Johnson, senior custodian; Miss Kerlin Sanders, junior custodian; Miss Janet Blum, recorder; Miss Laura Mae Huson, outer guard; Miss Nancy McKinstry, inner guard; Miss Donna Thomas, lady-of-the-lights; Miss Georgia Thomas, assistant recorder; Miss Pat Newland, historian; Miss Marcie Evans, recorder; Miss Nancy Jennings, soloist; Miss Delores Smylie, librarian.

Members of DeMolay took charge of the crowning ceremony for the new queen. The ceremony was conducted by Jim Ward, master counselor, assisted by Jim Pond, Bob Walker, Keith Bates and Dick Whitlock, with an escort guard composed of Bob Schei, captain; Harold Vrooman, Bob Fisher, Mickey Loris, Dick Loris, Charles Dean, Douglas Harsh and Don Stuart.

A number of visitors and others were honored during the evening. They included Mrs. C. D. Elhart, Ashland, past grand guardian; Mrs. Karl Rose, guardian of the Ashland bethel; Mrs. A. Z. Dean, past guardian of the Medford bethel; Mr. Dean, DeMolay adviser; Mrs. L. G. Frink, queen of the Roxy Ann court, Order of the Amaranth; Mrs. Ina Huson and Mrs. Fred Purdin, worthy matrons of Adair and Reames chapters, OES; Wallace Brill, master of Medford Masonic lodge; Miss Jean Hamilton and Miss Laura Jewett, past queen and incoming queen of the Central Point bethel; Miss Chloe Stevens, Ashland bethel queen; Miss Kay Dudley and Miss Barbara Bugbee, princesses of the Ashland bethel; Misses Glenda Fields and Billie Older, past queens of the Medford bethel.

Following the installation Miss Boone introduced her parents and grandparents, the latter being Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Blackburn of Corvallis, and was presented with red carnations from her father.

The retiring queen was presented a gift from the bethel.

Two addenda followed the installation, which was attended by more than 250 persons. Officers who have served with Miss Crawford presented her a floral crown and her past queen's pin and the new queen was honored during the second addendum, carried out on a comic note.

Refreshments and a dance followed. For the refreshment table the places were marked with little gold paper crowns bearing the queen's name.

shades—rust, greens and browns. A documentary print in a pheasant design, green against a natural background, was used for the draperies. The couch was covered in moss green textured cotton. A cotton stripe in soft shades of salmon, rust, gray, beige and green was used for the extra chairs.

For the walls, if the room was to be a study or a den, she suggested one of the wallpapers that resembles wood paneling.

For the man who favors vibrant colors, Mrs. Hunter picked a green background splatterdash wallpaper with tiny dots of gold and black. A dull gold cotton shag rug was used on the floor. The couch was covered with a heavy textured cotton and rayon fabric in dark green, highlighted with gold metallic threads. A few accessories in the room, including extra pillows and an upholstered desk chair, were done in bright red.
