Ashland, Medford Singers on Program For Music Society

Members of the Medford Music society were entertained by talent from a neighboring city as well as from a recently organized group of local Mothersingers at their monthly meeting Monday evening. The meeting was in the home of Mrs. William McAllister.

Jackson school's Mothersingers group, directed by Mrs. Fred Morlan, sang two familiar songs, Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and "The Loveliest Night of the Year." Mrs. Stanley Lacey sang an effective solo part in the latter, accompanied by chorus voices and by Mrs. Horace Doolen at the piano.

A men's quartet from Southern Oregon college, under direction of O. C. Bjorlie, supervisor of the school music in the college, gave four selections. The voices seemed well blended and light and the interpretations and timing were artistic.

The selections they sang were "High Barbary," "Mighty Lak a Rose," "The Old Ark a Moverin'" and the Southern Oregon college alma mater song arranged by Lloyd Bunnell, one of the quartet members. Other members included James Baker, George Kekuna and Paul Adams.

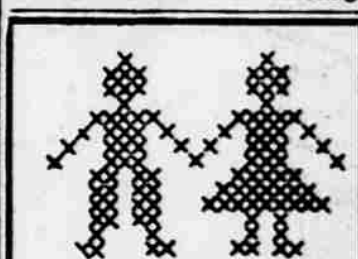

Mrs. Martel Peters, also from Ashland, and well known in the valley music circles, sang four numbers. Her voice seems to adapt itself to a variety of song types and proved pleasing in Grainer's "Hozannah" as well as in the lighter numbers, "Thine Alone," "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "Over the Rainbow." She was accompanied by Miss Lorraine Veidt.

The entire program was arranged by Mrs. Virgil Bolton.
