

Amount in Redfield Safe May Always Remain Mystery

Reno—(UP)—Nobody can say precisely today exactly what is the value of the contents of the fabulous safe of millionaire La Vere Redfield.

The safe was stolen by burglars in broad daylight February 29 and Reno police and FBI agents have arrested six suspects to date. As far as can be learned, the value of the recovered loot to date is approximately $500,000—in itself an unofficial figure.

List Provided
The safe contained—according to Redfield—approximately $300,000 in cash, jewelry valued at $50,000 and between $1,000,

000 and $2,000,000 in negotiable securities.
Redfield produced a list of the serial numbers of most of the bills but was not sure exactly how much more the safe contained. He did not know which securities were missing because he kept no record of which ones were in the safe, which were in a battered suitcase in the same closet valued at approximately $1,000,000 and overlooked by the burglars, and which were in various bank safe deposit boxes and in another vault in his home.

May Never Know
Redfield, in a report given to Reno police and in subsequent interviews, still insists the figure is closer to $2,500,000.

The exact value may not be known until all the safe's contents are recovered or if this is never completed, it may never be ascertained.

Investiture
Brownie Troop No. 9 of Howard school, made up of girls in the fourth grade, were invested at a meeting last week. After the flag ceremony the Brownies presented a play called "The Brownie Story."

Sandra Fritz, Troop 75, was also invested.

Members of Troop 75, Girl Scouts, from Howard school fifth and sixth grades were guests for the investiture. Other guests were mothers and teachers of members of both troops.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Milwaukee, Ore. (UP)—A draft board clerk, Mary Bell, reported an 18-year-old youth registered and then handed her a $1 bill. She explained there was no charge. "You mean I don't have to pay?" the youth asked. "Gosh! You sure have to pay for everything else."

Boy Found After Week At Detention Home

Sedro Wolley, Wash. (UP)—A four-year-old boy was safe at home here Tuesday after spending a week in the King county juvenile detention home while officers tried to identify him.

Little Joe Fossella was taken to the home after he wandered into a power company sub-station March 8. He was not identified until his father, Joseph Fossella Sr., saw his picture in a Seattle newspaper.

The father journeyed to Seattle Monday. He told police that Joe had been visiting relatives there and that the parents did not know the lad had been at the detention home.
