

Boy, 6, Brings Outside World To Mother, Father

Washington (U.P.)—Six-year-old Tommy Beierle has the unusual task of being his parents' link with the outside world.

He is the voice and ears for his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Beierle. They can neither speak nor hear. They talk in sign language and before Tommy's birth had a difficult time communicating with neighbors.

When Tommy was born his parents began teaching him sign language. They did not know he had normal speech and hearing faculties. When Tommy was two he heard a neighbor's radio and began imitating the sounds. His parents became aware that he was making noises and sent him to a play school, where he learned to speak like the other children.

Now Tommy can communicate both in sign language and by regular speech. He acts as the family interpreter. He orders the groceries, does the talking when there are other chores, and interprets when friends visit his family at Temple Trailer Village, Va.

Tommy also translates for the visiting nurse who helps Mrs. Beierle with his infant sister, Diane. When Diane cries Tommy tells his mother.

Aside from being the family translator, Tommy lives a normal first-grader's life. He tells his mother what happens in school and reads his homework with her help. Tommy also assists around the house while his father works as a machinist at the naval gun factory. He helps set the table, make his bed, and holds a dustpan for his mother.

PRICES HIGHER NOW

Anadarko, Okla. (U.P.)—Savings $50,000 by not building a county courthouse in the depression days of the mid-1930's is proving to be poor economy for Caddo county commissioners. Contractors estimated the same building will now cost $900,000.

The nation today needs workers. Easter Seals train crippled adults to participate in the defense effort.

Phoenix Police Chief Warns of Dog Law

Phoenix—Chief of Police M. C. Fisher today reminded Phoenix dog owners that dogs must not be allowed to run loose between April 1 and August 1. He said the city ordinance on the matter will be strictly enforced and that fines will be levied for violations.

Party for Teachers Set Tuesday Evening

The annual Oregon Education association's teachers' party, to be held at the Medford high school tomorrow, will begin with a buffet supper in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m., it was announced today.

In addition to other entertainment, square dance exhibitions will be given under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Robertson in the boys' gym after the carnival program, directed by Bernard Windt, director of music in Ashland schools.

There will be no charge for either the supper or the program, according to Mrs. Kathryn Stancliffe, chairman. All schools are asked to telephone 2-4424 to tell committee members the number of teachers and guests planning to attend.

Ashland Man Fined For Drunken Driving

Wiley Durrell Crenshaw, 156 Fifth street, Ashland, was fined $250 plus $5 costs in district court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Judge Rawles Moore also sentenced Crenshaw to 60 days in the county jail on the same offense, but suspended the sentence upon payment of the fine and pending good behavior. Crenshaw was committed to the county jail in lieu of payment of the fine, according to district court records.

The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, sponsor of the Easter Seal campaign, is one of the oldest voluntary agencies in America, with a history of 30 years of continuous service.

New Sexton Radio Tower Completed

The new radio tower on the top of Sexton mountain, north of Grants Pass, was completed Sunday, it was reported today.

The tower will be operated by Sexton Forest Industries Communications, a Josephine county group of lumbermen associated with the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association. The radio network in that area will serve a land station in Grants Pass and a group of mobile units owned by lumbermen. It is similar to the network operated here by SOCTFA.

Final tests will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday, and if all goes well, the system will go into full operation Wednesday, according to L. L. Simpson, secretary-manager and forester for SOCTFA.

Ray Cummins, Portland, of the Motorola company, is here to assist Vic Calif, Medford radio technician, in tuning in the radio network.
