

Idaho Governor Claims Dam Plan Violates Rights

Washington—(U.P.)—Gov. Len Jordan of Idaho Tuesday accused the Interior Department of trying to take over "our" river in proposing construction of Hell's Canyon dam.

Jordan, before a House reclamation subcommittee, opposed a bill authorizing the controversial dam on the Snake river on the Oregon-Idaho border.

Said Violation of Rights
He said the bill was a violation of state's rights, adding "Idaho claims a substantial interest in the Snake river. In fact, we think of it as our river."

"I insist the waters of the Snake river belong to the several states in which these waters originate. I do not agree that the rights of the federal government are paramount to the rights of the states."

The governor also complained the bill failed to provide for irrigation or reclamation facilities, and that it would put a "definite limitation" on upstream irrigation.

Power Authority Seen
He argued also that the bill would destroy the possibility of slack water navigation in southern Idaho. His state, he said, would be forced to set up a state power authority to protect its interest in the production at Hell's Canyon.

Jordan said the Columbia Basin Inter-Agency Committee, made up of federal and state officials in the area, did not approve the dam plan and, in fact, was bypassed in its presentation to Congress.

Final Drawing For Farm Land

Othello, Wash.—(U.P.)—The final land drawing this year for 32 Franklin county government-owned farms ranging from 48 to 153 irrigable Columbia basin acres will be held here May 31, the Bureau of Reclamation announced Tuesday.

The veteran priority farms will sell between $1,001 and $7,298 and receive water next year, District Manager H. A. Parker said.

The bureau said more than 10,000 announcements of the proposed drawing and sale have been mailed. The deadline for return of the applications is May 16.

Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus said there were indications the number of farm seekers on this sale would surpass all of the other three drawings this year.

The Othello drawing will bring the total of government-owned farms made available this year to 122.

MOTHER NOT STYMIED
Kendrick, Ida.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Walter Benscoter swings a mean ax. She found while taking her children to school that the road was blocked by a fallen pine tree. With a borrowed ax she chopped the tree in two, cleared the road, and made it to the bus stop on time.
