HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—A new California divorce ruling has awakened many a divorced movietown couple to the awful truth that their quickie decrees might not be legal.

And some of those who are finding out they may be living out of wedlock, too.

A laborer named Manuel Rosa was found guilty recently in superior court of bigamy, a felony, for violating an untested 1949 state law that poked holes in the "quickie" Nevada and Mexico divorces. The law provides that a hurried out-of-state divorce is illegal if you live in California for 12 months before the decree and return to the state within 18 months afterwards.

And Rosa, the court ruled, had gone direct from California to his Las Vegas decree and then returned a few weeks later to a honeymoon cottage with a new wife in California. The court gave laborer Rosa probation and forbid him to live with any woman other than the wife who became his "ex" in Nevada.

Crooner Frank Sinatra won a divorce in Las Vegas and married Ava Gardner a week later. His first wife, Nancy, got her own and legal divorce in California, but it isn't final yet.

If she wanted to raise a fuss—or if the Los Angeles district attorney wanted to prosecute—criminal charges could be brought on grounds Frankie still was married when he tied the knot with Ava.

Must File Charges

However, any person affected by the law can be charged with bigamy only if an ex-mate, or the district attorney, decides to file charges. District Attorney S. Ernest Roll says he doesn't plan to prosecute any such bigamy cases. Rita Hayworth's scheduled Nevada divorce will stand up because she lived in Europe before she filed it. But Bette Davis got only a fast Mexican divorce from William Grant Sherry before she took husband No. 4, Gary Merrill.

Others Separated

Since 1949, quickie divorces also separated Merle Oberon and cameraman Lucien Ballard, Paul

Strike Finds Favor With Woodworkers

Portland—(U.P.)—President A. F. Hartung of the CIO International Woodworkers of America said Wednesday that early returns from the strike ballot sent 50,000 members in the Pacific Northwest indicate 98 per cent of the workers are in favor of the walkout.

Official count of the ballots will start April 17, he said.

A special meeting of the Northwest regional negotiating committee was scheduled Wednesday to outline action against what Hartung called "company stalling."

ette Goddard and Burgess Meredith, Evelyn Keyes and director John Huston and Myrna Loy and producer Gene Markey. Whether they would be affected by the law depends on the varying circumstances of their cases.

Famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler predicts the new law will mean an end to movie queens slipping out of town to shed their mates in a hurry.

137 New Laws Affect Labor, Management

Chicago—(U.P.)—States passed 137 new laws affecting labor and management last year, a nationwide survey shows.

The study was made by Commerce Clearing House. Thirty-five of the laws pertained to wage and hour regulations. Many others concern personal welfare laws.

There were 12 amendments to anti-discrimination laws, some of which in addition to race, color and creed provisions prohibit refusal to hire because of age, physical handicap or status as a veteran, draftee or reservist.

Anti-discrimination laws now are in effect in nine states—Colorado, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Rhode Island and Washington.

Among the changes in wage and hour laws, New York amended its law requiring cash payment of wages to permit a farmer to pay "in kind."

Illinois cut the time in which semi-monthly wages must be paid from 18 to 13 days after the end of the earning period.
