Labor Relations Topic for Meeting Woman's Society

Members of Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church considered the topic "Humanizing Labor Relations" during the program held recently at the monthly meeting held in the parlors of the church. The topic was discussed by Mrs. C. Gordon Morris.

Introducing the subject, Mrs. Morris told of the wide scope given to the meaning of labor. She explained that while the recognized meaning of labor has been largely associated with those who work with their hands, in more recent years the labor movement has included many who are classified in professional fields of work. She told of the power of labor unions which primarily are designed to protect the interests of the employees but which, too often, digress too far from justice to the union members.

While the right to strike was at one time regarded as a criminal offense, today it is a legal right against a private employer, Mrs. Morris stated. She added that strikes are so far reaching public health and the safety of the people may be menaced, and said prolonged railway strikes could cause famine in many places.

Compulsory arbitration is a very natural proposal for preserving peace but this is not always the solution since much reluctance is met in submitting disputes to an arbitrating group, the speaker said. Mrs. Morris concluded her discussion with the statement that Christian women should be well informed on labor problems so as to give helpful information in an intelligent way. "We must bring Christian principles more closely in touch with industrial relations," Mrs. Morris declared.

Mrs. C. R. Adamson, who was a recent delegate to the Western Jurisdictional meeting of Wesleyan Service guilds in Los Angeles, gave a comprehensive talk on the sessions. Her talk presented thoughts from topics given by national officers attending the sessions. It was stated that 350 new service guilds have been organized during the past year in the United States.

Mrs. J. S. Heatherington spoke regarding the duty of every Christian woman to register and to vote at all elections. She stressed the importance of choosing Christian men for public office. It was stated that cars would be available to take voters to the polls and that the church office could be called for information regarding transportation.

Mrs. G. E. Montgomery was chairman for the program hour and Mrs. Horace Doolen led the devotional period. Two solo selections were sung by Mrs. Lyle Schopper.

During the business hour, Mrs. Jessie Minear, president of the society, presided and a full slate of activities was considered for the months of April and May. Two activities which are of importance for the near future include the Children's Spring Fashion show which is to be an event of April 18 in the church social hall beginning at 7 p.m. A small admission fee will be made, it was announced.

Future Teachers To Be Entertained

Delta Kappa Gamma will meet Saturday, April 19 at 2 p.m. at Susanne Homes hall in Ashland.

Guests during the tea hour will be senior high school girls from Ashland, Grants Pass and Medford who are members of Future Teachers of America.

Miss Lynetta Quinlan, Grants Pass, is social chairman for the meeting.

Artists' Society Exhibits Paintings In Medford Store

Members of the Southern Oregon Society of Artists have invited the public to view an exhibit of the work of members now being shown through the courtesy of Stone's Gift shop on West Main street. The exhibit opened Friday and anyone interested may see the pictures during store hours.

Seven club members have paintings in the show. Clifford Platz, president of the society, has three scenes in the show. One shown earlier this spring at Barker's store is the society's picture-of-the-month, is of Roxy Ann in winter. It is of interest to note that the log cabin in the picture was superimposed by the artist from a sketch he made of an old cabin in the Applegate area. The second picture is also a snow scene and the third is a seascape which he recently completed.

D. Tesch, Grants Pass, who came to this country recently from Germany where he studied art as an apprentice, also has three paintings in the show. A village scene in this show also was a recent picture-of-the-month shown at Barker's. Another is a water color of an old world building which the artist has executed in such detail as to be almost like a photographic reproduction. The third is an oil, a large woodland scene warm with the soft shades of fall.

Mrs. Arlene Fitzgerald, Ashland, is showing two floral designs of modern theme with the flowers and foliage in close-up views.

The stylistic paintings of Miss Maceine Titus are in contrast to the other paintings. Two of the pictures are of Siamese dancing girls and one is of a Chinese tax collector. The subjects are in bright shades in intricate detail on backgrounds of black.

John Aherm has two paintings, one of his being on black with the subjects done in white shading by tempera. This shows a stallion engaged in battling a wolf. The second is an oil painting of two bulls fighting. The colors in this painting are an unusual combination of yellows, oranges and brown tones.

Hal Bishop is exhibiting an oil of still life depicting fruits and vegetables. Miss Collista Moore, Gold Hill, also has entered a still life, hers showing a bowl of ivy. Mrs. Elizabeth Edmondson, long active in art work here, has a pastel scene of a creek with waterfall.

Mrs. Elizabeth McLarty, Camp White, is showing a still of a statuette and flowers.

Leaders Instructed In Social Hygiene Study Group Methods

Several Jackson county women recently returned from a community leaders' social hygiene workshop in Portland where constructive suggestions were given to prepare the various delegates in conducting study groups in their counties. The workshops concerned suggestions and solutions of a few of the problems which confront both parents and children in sex and family life education.

The workshops were sponsored by the Oregon Tuberculosis and Health association and the Oregon coordinating council on social hygiene and family life.

From this area at the workshop were Mrs. Lola Bemen, Gold Hill; Mrs. Chester Fitch, Ashland; Mrs. Helen Fagone, Mrs. John W. Dansforth, Mrs. Leigh Gustison and Mrs. Henry Padgham, all of Medford. Mrs. Padgham is the chairman of the social hygiene program in Jackson county health district.

One of the speakers was Mrs. Gladys Hoaglund Grove, director of Marriage and Family Council, Inc., at Chapel Hill, N. C. She spoke on personal adjustment in marriage. Dr. Charles Bradley, director of Oregon Psychiatric Services for Children, discussed emotional development in children and adolescents. He stressed the importance of giving particular attention to the emotional growth of the adolescent.

Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall discussed family life education emphasizing the fact that people need more knowledge about the nature of sex and sex behavior and its manifestations.

Free Yourself from laxative slavery

Try this delightful family breakfast treat! Eat a generous bowlful (about 1/2 cup) of crisp, toasty Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with sugar and cream. Drink plenty of liquids. ALL-BRAN is the natural laxative cereal that may help you back to youthful regularity, lost because of lack of bulk in your diet. It's the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. High in cereal protein, rich in iron, provides essential B and D vitamins. Not habit-forming. Why don't you try it? Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

University Women Announce Luncheon To Honor Visitor

A visitor in the city tomorrow will be Mrs. Edward C. Lanphier, former regional vice-president of the South Pacific region of American Association of University Women. Mrs. Lanphier will be en route to Gearhart, Ore., where she will attend the convention of Oregon AAUW members April 17, 18 and 19.

Mrs. Lanphier will preside at the workshop for presidents of branches, and will be assisted by Mrs. C. D. Winston, Ashland, former Oregon president and now president of the Northwest division.

Mrs. Lanphier is to be honor guest at a luncheon at Rogue Valley Country club. Members of the Medford branch may make reservations for the event by calling Mrs. Harold Baughman, 3-1567.

Britain Harnessing Winds to Get Power

London—(U.P.)—Britain is harnessing the winds to generate electric power. The plan is to set up a chain of giant windmills along Britain's coastline stretching from the Orkneys in the north through the Hebrides and West Scotland to West Wales and then down to Cornwall in the south. Preliminary tests have been completed and 60 suitable sites selected.
The first of the wind-driven power generators is to be built in Caernarvonshire. Research on using winds to generate electricity has been carried on in Britain for four years. The generators will be in the form of windmills 250 feet high, each capable of producing electricity at the rate of 1,000 kilowatts.
A breakfast treat that's different is poached eggs served on toasted shredded wheat biscuit that has been dipped quickly into the boiling salted water and topped with butter. Use the simmer burner of the automatic gas range to keep the water at an even temperature.

Portland Man Goes After BPA'S Hide; Wants Power Grid

Portland—(U.P.)—A Portland businessman said he is after the hide of the Bonneville Power Administration as part of his crusade against federal spending.

Gerald MacNamara, manager of the Medical Arts building and part owner of the Lincoln building here, seeks to kick BPA out of the power transmission business and replace it by a "northwest power marketing grid."

The Portland opponent of federal spending has sent letters to every congressman, BPA Administrator Paul J. Raver and the governors of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, explaining why he thinks Bonneville's organization must go.

With the letters, he has sent a proposed bill for submission to Congress under the name, "Pacific Northwest Power Marketing Grid Act of 1952."

Basically, the bill provides for creation of a non-profit organization of all distributors interested in the purchase of the government's hydro-developed power in the Northwest. The organization would contract with the government to purchase the entire BPA transmission system.

Liz, Husband Refuse To Leave for Blaze

London—(U.P.)—Screen actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, British actor Michael Wilding, calmly sat out a fire Friday night in their Mayfair apartment house.

The couple, married in February, sipped coffee and refused to leave the building while firemen put out a minor blaze in an unoccupied flat below theirs.

One of the earliest aerial photographs ever made was taken from a balloon in 1860 and called "Boston as the Eagle and Wild Goose See it."

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC AND ALL MEMBERS OF Organized Labor IN MEDFORD AND VICINITY

The Executive Board of the Medford Central Labor Council, realizing that possibly the majority of working people in this community are registered as Democrats, and also believing that the present Presidential campaign is of vital concern to all, and being also of the opinion that candidate Eisenhower is the "MAN OF THE HOUR" with proven outstanding ability in the welding together of conflicting groups and establishing coordinated thinking, as he has so ably proven in his present capacity.

We therefore recommend to the public and to our members that you register now as a Republican if you have not already registered and reregister immediately if you are not registered Republican, in order that you may cast a vote for "Ike" in the primaries.

Remember, TUESDAY, APRIL 15th is the deadline for you to register for the May primaries.
