

Russell Would Be 3rd Bachelor President In American History

Editor's note: This is the third in a series about prospective official hostesses of Democratic presidential candidates.

Washington —(UP)— If Sen. Richard B. Russell is elected President, he would be the third bachelor President in American history.

There would be no First Lady — unless the 54-year-old Georgian follows the lead of the last bachelor President, Grover Cleveland, who married in 1886 during his first term.

Mother Available
But Dick Russell would not be wanting for an official White

House hostess. He has a bevy of them in his own family.

First, there's his mother, 84-year-old Mrs. Ina Dillard Russell, who lives in the Russell family home at Winder, Ga. Mrs. Russell has been mostly confined to her home since she broke her hip four years ago but the senator reports she is in good health and good spirits.

In 1950, she was Georgia's "Mother of the Year."

"I propose to bring mother up to live with me if I am elected," Russell says.

Was Official Hostess
Mrs. Russell was her son's official hostess when he was governor of Georgia in the early 1930's and he brags, "she still knows more about running a house than any woman I know."

Mrs. Russell probably would be his hostess for state dinners but she could not be expected to preside at the huge state receptions.

On these occasions, Russell would pass the honor of hostess around among his four sisters who live in Washington.

Welfare and Mass Care Planned Here By CD, Red Cross

Local and state Red Cross and civilian defense officials met Tuesday in an effort to organize welfare and mass care programs for Jackson county, according to Mrs. Blanche Lyman, deputy director of CD aid and welfare for the county.

The meeting resulted in the establishment of a training program for all local county chapter disaster workers during the last two weeks of May, either from the 19th to the 23rd or 26th to 28th, Mrs. Enid Rankin, executive secretary for the county Red Cross chapter, reported. Mrs. Rankin pointed out that the final date is pending the availability of Mrs. Katharine Hall Chambers, disaster field representative for the Red Cross, who will supervise the program.

Tells Responsibility
At a noon luncheon, Mrs. Chambers told local workers that "Red Cross is legally and morally responsible for meeting the humanitarian needs of people in natural disaster."

She stressed the need of local preparedness and the importance of fund raising at this time since the Red Cross is faced with rehabilitation for victims of two major disasters: a tornado in the south, and the present flood in the midwest and southern states.

Mrs. Chambers worked from July through October in the Missouri flood disaster and was then released to the Oregon civil defense commission to assist George E. Enigh, Jr., of the state staff, in training for mass care in war-caused disaster.

Groups to Cooperate
Robert Elliott, Medford, county disaster head, tied in the Red Cross work with CD plans at the meeting. "Red Cross is also responsible for mass care in the CD plans," Elliott pointed out, "and my committee will cooperate to the fullest extent with the CD organization."

Col. Charles Stafford, county CD head, described the position of mass care in the county plan and noted that authority followed from the director to deputy director for aid and welfare to the mass care section, which includes food, clothing and shelter.

GOOD ADVICE — This helmet, which appears to have borne the brunt of a shrapnel or machine-gun burst, belonged to a Marine of the 1st Division. His buddies erected this sign on the Korean front. Medical officers estimated 19 per cent of all casualties are head wounds due to men not wearing helmets.
